3rd Jet Held By Hijackers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Palestinian guerrillas hijacked a British jetliner with 113 persons aboard today and forced it to land near two other captive airliners on which nearly 200 persons were being held hostage in the Jordanian desert, the British Foreign Office announced.

A spokesman said word had reached London that the plane, after circling the Middle East for hours, landed at the same guerrilla-held base where the two other planes were under guard.

As in the case of the four hijacking plots earlier this week, the Marxist Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine assumed responsibility.

A spokesman said the PFLP seized the British Overseas Airways Corp. VC10, after its take off from Bahrein in the Persian Gulf, to reinforce its demand for the release of a woman hijacker held in London.

"Let's see what (British Prime Minister Eward) Heath does now," a guerrilla spokesman said.

A BOAC spokesman in London said 32 Britons, 12 Bahreinis, 3 Americans and 2 Indians joined 54 other passengers aboard the plane in Bahrein. It carried 10 crewmen.

The plane was on a flight from Bombay to London.

At the United Nations in New York, Britain and the United States asked for a meeting of the U.N. Security Council later today to take up the wave of hijackings.

Meanwhile, the hostages taken earlier sweltered through a third day aboard the two planes, a Swissair DC8 and a Trans World Airlines Boeing 707, at the El Khana airstrip 25 miles northeast of Amman.

For their ransom, the guerrillas were demanding the release of three Arab terrorists held in West Germany, three others jailed in Switzerland and Miss Leila Khaled, 25, held in London for the aborted hijacking of an Israeli El Al plane Sunday.

The PFLP, like other guerrilla groups, is against any Middle East settlement that does not restore Arabs to former homes in Palestine, the land that is now Israel. All have refused to abide by cease-fire agreements on Israeli borders, and the PFLP has made a specialty of airline hijackings.

After the BOAC plane left Bahrein, the hijackers forced it to land at Beirut for refueling, and Lebanese Transport Minister Pierre Gemayel appealed to the guerrillas to let women and children go.

"No," replied the guerrillas. "We are leaving with everybody or we are blowing up the plane with everybody."

Gemayel then said he was going to an emergency Cabinet meeting to introduce a measure "closing Beirut airport from now on to all hijackers who want to land here," Lebanon intends, he added, "to maintain Beirut airport as a civil airport in every sense of the word."

The International Red Cross already had opened negotiations with PFLP leaders in Amman for the release of the earlier hostages.

Switzerland agreed to release the three serving prison terms in Zurich, and the Bonn government said it would free three others awaiting trial in Munich. Britain at first refused to consider releasing Miss Khaled, but the British Cabinet met in emergency session Tuesday and gave the demand more study.

After the Cabinet met, Foreign Secretary Alec Douglas-Home said that Britain, the United States, West Germany and Switzerland had delegated authority to the International Red Cross to seek the release of the hostages. He said the Red Cross had been asked to report back to representatives of the four countries in Berne, Switzerland, as soon as it saw the possibility of an agreement with the guerrillas.

There was no confirmation of reports that the Popular Front had increased its demands to include the release of 3,000 Guerrillas held prisoner by Israel in return for the Israeli hostages aboard the two planes. But the Israeli government said earlier it would never negotiate with the guerrillas.

The Popular Front engineered four hijackings Sunday, three of them successfully. The fourth failed when Miss Khaled's male companion was killed by Israeli security guards and the Israeli airliner, which they had tried to commandeer on a flight from Amsterdam to New York, landed at London.

The other three planes—a Pan American jumbo 747 and the two jets diverted to Jordan—were hijacked while en route to New York. The hijackers blew up the jumbo jet in Cairo after its 188 passengers and crewmen were taken off. All of them have now left Cairo except for three still in a hospital.

The two planes taken to Jordan originally carried a total of 300 passengers and crewmen. The guerrillas freed 122 non-Israeli women and children and took them to a hotel in Amman. The male passengers, the crew members and all the Israelis aboard the planes were held hostage.

The Popular Front said in a communique that the Swiss jet and its Swiss passengers would be released as soon as the three guerrillas being held in Zurich were released; that the case of the West Germans would be considered when confirmation came that the three guerrillas held in Germany had been freed, and that the British government was violating international law by holding Miss Khaled because her attempted hijacking was not carried out in British air space.

U.S. Seeks Meeting of U.N. Council

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The U. N. Security Council was summoned into urgent session at 3:30 p.m. EDT today to take up the wave of airliner hijackings in the Middle East. The United States and Britain requested the meeting.

This is the first time the question has been formally placed before the 15-nation council, although the hijacking problem was debated last year in the General Assembly.

U.S. Ambassador Charles W. Yost called on the council president, Ambassador Davidson Nicol of Sierra Leone, who began consultations immediately with other members of the 45-nation council.

The U.S. move was described as aimed specifically at seeing what the council could do immediately on behalf of civilians who had become victims of the hijackings.

Captives in the TWA hijacking sit in the desert Tuesday as Capt. C. D. Woods, seated left, uses a loud hailer to answer newsmen's questions in a press conference sponsored by the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, which hijacked his jetliner and the Swiss air plane in the background. He and 20 captives said they were treated well but living conditions were terrible.

Cornell Wins, Faces Byrnes

Priest Defeats Jolin by 2-1; Another La Follette in Office?

The Rev. Robert Cornell, seeking to become the first Roman Catholic priest to be elected to Congress in nearly 150 years, won the 8th District Democratic nomination Tuesday by defeating Michael Jolin of rural Shiocton.

Unofficial returns gave Cornell 14,926 votes to 7,176 for Jolin.

At the same time, the La Follette name was back in the political news as a result of a tight Democratic congressional primary in southeastern Wisconsin.

Cornell, 50, an instructor at St. Norbert College, drew nearly half of his vote total from Brown and Outagamie counties. Byrnes, who is seeking his 14th term in Congress, drew 22,017 votes. He was unopposed.

The De Pere priest carried Brown County 4,811 to 1,586 for Jolin. In Outagamie County his margin was 2,459 to 1,705.

His margin was almost evenly split between the City of Appleton and the remainder of the county. Cornell's edge in the city was 1,180 to 834, while in the rest of the county it was 1,279 to 871.

Carries Appleton

Cornell carried all 20 Appleton precincts and all but six of the remaining 37 precincts in the county.

Because of the light vote turnout, particularly in the Democratic primary, no major trends were visible.

However, it was obvious that Cornell was not relying on the predominately Catholic areas of the county for his victory margin. His edge in the Catholic strongholds of Little Chute, Kimberly, Combined Locks and Kaukauna was the same as in the rest of the county.

The six precincts carried by Jolin were the towns of Hortonia, Maple Creek, Maine and Liberty and the villages of Bear Creek and Black Creek. But combined, they only provided him with a 45-vote edge.

Douglas La Follette, a second cousin, three times removed, of the late Sen. Robert (Fighting Bob) La Follette, was given an unofficial victory margin of 22 votes in a four-way Democratic battle for nomination to Congress in southeastern Wisconsin's 1st District.

The informal tally was 15,109 votes for La Follette, 15,087 for Leslie Aspin, a White House economic adviser in the Kennedy administration, 6,233 for former Rep. Gerald T. Flynn and 1,549 for Racine factory worker John Perry Anderson.

Shadeberg Wins

Rep. Henry C. Schadeberg, against whom organized labor has been campaigning, had little competition in the 1st District's Republican primary, winning renomination over Racine car salesman Emil Hess Jr. 16,836-2,641.

Schadeberg and Rep. Clement Zablocki, D-Wis., were the state's only two congressmen who had primary challenges. Zablocki handily turned back his Democratic rival, Donald P. Lass, in Milwaukee County's 4th District, 29,850-5,167 with 93 per cent of precincts tallied.

Aspin, 32, a Marquette University instructor with a doctorate from Massachusetts Institute of Technology, said he would review the 1st District

Schreiber, Martin in Second Spot

Lucey, Olson in Race for Governor

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Patrick J. Lucey, a veteran of Wisconsin political wars, swept aside a challenge from a fellow liberal Democrat in Tuesday's primary and won the right to battle Republican Lt. Gov. Jack Olson for the state's first four-year term for governor.

The 52-year-old former lieutenant governor and state party chairman who defeated Donald O. Peterson of Eau Claire handily, will have as his running mate State Sen. Martin J. Schreiber of Milwaukee. The youthful Schreiber was an easy victor over four contenders.

The November election also will mark the first time the governor and lieutenant governor will run as a team.

Olson, whose only opposition was from Roman R. Blenski of Milwaukee, will be on the ticket with State Rep. David O. Martin of Neenah. Martin was unopposed.

The American Party, an outgrowth of former Alabama Gov. George Wallace's 1968 campaign for president, also chose candidates in three state races.

Returns from 3,247 precincts out of 3,298 gave the following unofficial results in the Democratic column:

Patrick Lucey	171,099.
Donald Peterson	100,045.
Edward Ihlenfeldt	9,746.

Totals in the Republican column were:

Jack Olson	199,396.
Roman R. Blenski	19,063.

Martin J. Schreiber	123,365.
Frank L. Nikolay	51,832.
John F. O'Malley	34,999.
Jay G. Sykes	34,282.
Harry Halloway	16,106.

American Party candidate Leo James Mc Donald of Gays Mills received 2,562 votes for governor, and Theodore G. Kothe, the American Party nominee for lieutenant governor totaled 2,382.

In the November contest for secretary of state it will be Zimmerman against Zimmermann. Robert C. Zimmerman, the long-time officeholder and the endorsed Republican candidate, had no opposition Tuesday but he will face Robert A. Zimmermann of Sheboygan, who defeated Thomas P. Fox of Chilton for the Democratic nomination. Some party leaders had come out for Fox, questioning the Democratic Party credentials of Zimmermann.

Zimmermann, obviously drawing on the popularity of a name that has been one of the best vote-getters in the state, had 164,085 votes to 85,961 for Fox in incomplete returns.

Charles P. Smith of Madison is the Democratic nominee to oppose Republican incumbent Harold Clemens of Oconomowoc for state treasurer. Smith defeated Mrs. Shirley Walker and John F. Webb, both of Milwaukee. The American candidate is George R. Hunt of Waukesha.

Running unopposed for attorney general nomination were Democrat Thomas M. Jacobson of Milwaukee and the incumbent, Republican Robert W. Warren.

With the unofficial returns virtually complete, Lucey had more than 60 per cent of the Democratic vote. Olson collected more than 91 per cent of the Republican ballots cast.

The Nov. 3 contest will be the second confrontation between Lucey and Olson. The two met in 1964, in the race for lieutenant governor, and Lucey won. That defeat is the only losing mark on Olson's record in a decade.

In 1966, Lucey won his party's gubernatorial nomination in a

Lucey's Lifetime Ambition May Ride on November Vote

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
P-C Madison Bureau

Patrick J. Lucey, inheritor of the political instincts of Celtic ancestors and a force in Wisconsin Democratic politics for more than 20 years, was given what probably will be his last chance to achieve the ambition of his lifetime when Democratic voters chose him as their leader in the campaign for control of the state government in the fall elections.

He will put his numerous skills and reportedly the best-filled campaign chest a Democratic gubernatorial nominee has ever raised into the fight for the governorship against Jack Olson, the Republican Lieutenant governor who also has had a healthy appetite for that highest state political prize for a long time.

The fight will be deadly serious, with no illusions in the minds of either aspirant about the certainty of the outcome, in view of the close elections Wisconsin has had for more than a decade.

More Time

Lucey has probably devoted more time, muscle and money to a political career than any prominent politician not now holding office in Wisconsin.

His contemporaries have long since risen to high place — senators Gaylord Nelson and William Proxmire; federal judges John W. Reynolds, Myron Gordon, and Thomas E. Fairchild; numerous state circuit court judges; three members of the State Supreme Court; ranking federal office holders under recent Democratic national administrations, and others.

In most of the successes of those friends and partisans associates, Lucey had a strong hand as party organizer, as a pragmatist in the indispensable business of money-raising, as advisor and strategist.

Now he will have his turn and he should be realistic enough to be aware that if he loses, he will not have another.

Too Old

If Olson turns back his challenge, the traditional willingness of the electorate to give the state executive a second term will make feasible another opening no earlier than 1978. Then Lucey will be 60 years of age — which is elderly by the precedents of modern Wisconsin politics for statehouse administration.

It is the tradition of politics that men who win contested nominations cheerfully find favorable portents about the final bout in November. But Lucey is thoroughly aware of the perils of assumptions among his loyalists about an easy triumph ahead.

He knows the political behavior of the state intimately and has probably perused election returns more carefully than anyone outside the academic halls of university political science departments.

He remembers that his 1964 defeat of Olson for the lieutenant governorship was due primarily to the debacle in the Republican Party that year which resulted from the Republican nomination of Barry Goldwater for president.

Olson's Vote

He knows that Olson, because he has held the relatively innocuous and inactive No. 2 office at the capital is not especially vulnerable.

At the Democratic state convention a few months ago, moreover, he pointedly reminded local party chiefs that Olson has an impressive record of vote attraction in three of four campaigns for the lieutenant governorship that he won.

As a realist, Lucey also is aware that he has some problems, not all of which are yet clearly shown.

Will the ardent backers of defeated Donald Peterson genuinely support him? Will his identity as a professional politician in Wisconsin terms be damaging? Voters have not responded in the past to the gubernatorial aspirations of candidates who made their reputations chiefly as organization men. Wisconsin may contemplate a vigorous fight, with few odds offered in any wagers.

Help Lower National Deficit

Kennedy Urges Gasoline Lead Additive Tax

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy appealed to Congress today for $2.6 billion worth of new taxes to narrow the looming deficit for fiscal 1971. His proposals included President Nixon's plan for an anti-pollution tax on lead additives in gasoline.

The lead tax, described by Kennedy as a vital element in the administration's program to reduce dangerous air pollution, would raise $1.1 billion in new revenue in the remaining portion of fiscal 1971 if made effective as requested on Oct. 1. The additional revenue would amount to an estimated $1.6 billion over a full year.

Kennedy also urged a Nixon-sponsored speed-up in estate and gift tax collections, to provide a $1.5 billion one-time tax windfall in the 1971 fiscal year.

Kennedy was the lead-off witness for the administration as the House Ways and Means Committee opened hearing.

The two new revenue measures fall far short of the deficit now generally predicted for this fiscal year and in today's testimony Kennedy emphasized the anti-pollution benefits of the lead-additive levy instead of the revenue raising aspect.

By discouraging the use of lead, the tax would facilitate the federal program to require the auto industry to redesign automobiles to eliminate noxious elements in the exhaust.

The treasury has revised considerably its proposal for its speed-up in estate tax payments, Kennedy disclosed. It still is urging that the gift tax be payable at the end of the month following the calendar quarter in which the gift was made—instead of at the end of the year as now required.

But Nixon's original proposal of an estimated estate tax seven months after death, subject to later adjustment upon final determination of the estate final value has been superseded by a different plan drafted by the American Bar Association and the American Bankers Association.

Uner this plan, now endorsed by the Treasury, the time for filing an estate tax return would be changed from 15 months after death to nine months. Other speed-ups in the procedure would produce the same revenue effect, Kennedy said, as in the original Nixon proposal.

Need Strong Set of Nerves

Market Risky Even for Profit-Taker

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the riskier occupations on Wall Street these days is that of the profit-taker.

Simply put, the profit-taker is the short-term trader. He's the one who buys a stock one day and sells it right away or as soon as the stock has gone up enough for him to cash in at a profit.

The job takes patience, a strong set of nerves and a sense of adventure.

Elusive Creature

The profit-taker is an elusive creature. But some brokers and analysts credit him with quite a punch. Over the past weeks some brokers were saying it was the profit-takers who were keeping the closely watched Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks from rallying much beyond the 760 level. Before that they maintained it was the profit-takers who kept the market from penetrating the 740 level after the Dow had made some sweeping advances.

Analysts say the profit-takers are generally professional board room traders with seats on the exchanges who trade for their own accounts. These include some fast-pace mutual funds.

They say if the public is involved to any extent, it's probably retired people who have the time to follow the intricacies of the market's activities continuously.

According to Newton Zinder, an analyst with E. F. Hutton, the profit-taker is willing to accept a 10 per cent profit and equally willing to accept a loss to maintain a flexible cash position.

'Cream of Gain'

"They're just trying to get the cream of a stock's gain rather than the whole bottle. They don't worry about the first or last 20 per cent of a gain, and so they usually don't buy a stock until after an upward move has started," Zinder explains.

The reverse is also true. A profit-taker doesn't need a rising, or bull, market to make money. He can also ride the waves of a falling, or bear, market like the one of the past two years and do just as well, analysts say.

The technique is called short selling. Selling short refers to the practice of borrowing stock and selling it immediately.

The seller hopes then the value of the stock will decline so he can buy it back later at a lower price and replace it.

Monte Gordon, an analyst with Bache & Co. quickly adds that the average investor doesn't usually make money by short-term trading. "He usually makes his money when the market is in a major upward trend so the market force itself carries him through. If it's a really volatile market he often can't get out in time to make a profit," He says.

Perfectly Legitimate

Profit-taking, or red-dogging as it's also called, is a perfectly legitimate enterprise for a fund to follow.

But Paul Johnson, a vice president at Wiesenberger Financial Services, says the big market decline has cooled the ardor of many funds for such agressive buying and selling techniques. But there are indications it's still practiced he adds, especially among the small hedge funds or go-go funds.

As for the bigger mutual funds, most say they never take an active short - term position.

For example, one such fund, the Channing Fund, had a portfolio turnover of 88.6 per cent in 1969 for its growth fund and a turnover of 111.5 per cent for its even more aggressive special fund.

'Makes Turnover'

"We aim for long-term capital gains for investors not short term quick profits," maintains Arthur E. Reynolds Jr., portfolio manager for Channing's growth fund. "But for our more agressive funds we buy more aggressive and speculative stocks. With stocks like these the situation can change rapidly and when it does we sell, sometimes within the shorter term.

"This is what makes the turnover of these aggressive funds high. We don't buy any stock we don't originally intend to hold for the long-term. It's just that the investment situation often changes," Reynolds explains.

UW Seeks Student Fee For Damages

MADISON (AP) — University of Wisconsin students will pay into an insurance fund to cover damages to campus buildings, according to a proposal to be made Thursday by the dean of the university law school.

The proposal, which is to be presented to the state insurance Laws Revision Committee Thursday morning, was reviewed Tuesday by Spencer L. Kimball.

Under it, students would be required to pay $100 each semester into the campus fund—which would be tapped to pay for damage caused by campus disturbances. Students would get back up to $90, if there were no losses during the term.

State insurance is unable to cover the estimated $6 million loss from the Aug. 24 bombing, he noted.

No Precise Record, Officials Say

Booby Traps Cause Half U.S. Deaths

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon sources say as many as half the 43,000 Americans who have died in the Vietnam war may have been killed by booby-trap devices.

The official military estimate of booby-trap casualties is much lower. But, because there is no precise record of the cause of wounds, the figure could be much higher, officials say.

A rough Pentagon breakdown of combat deaths attributes 17,000 to small-arms fire; 8,000 to multiple fragmentation wounds caused by mortars and artillery; 3,000 in aircraft crashes, and 6,500 to mines, booby traps and grenades. The rest are blamed on miscellaneous causes.

Included in these figures are 10,717 Marines killed in the war. Twenty-four per cent—or 2,600—were killed by mines, booby traps and miscellaneous explosions.

The catch is that neither the Army nor the Marine Corps claims the figures are firm. The areas shade into one another when it comes to fragmentation wounds, and since nobody is keeping a precise record, Army and Marine officers concede, it's hard to tell.

It is not only U.S. soldiers who are killed by booby traps. These devices are expected to take an increasing toll of Vietnamese as the fighting trails off into more classic guerrilla warfare.

Extensive Army and Marine programs to get at the problem are receiving as much attention as ever. Latest twists are mine-sniffing dogs and ex-Viet Cong troopers dropping by units for lectures.

The booby trap also has taken on political ranifications.

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., has echoed some antiwar claims that half the Americans killed in the war met death this way.

They "were not killed by front line Viet Cong or North Vietnamese troops," he said in a recent speech. "They were killed by South Vietnamese peasants—men, women and children—who planted mines and booby traps."

Cranston is interpreting Pentagon figures and his own sources, an aide says. He refuses to divulge the sources.

However, some Pentagon officers concede this could be true. But, they say, it is hard to pinpoint who plants the explosives and why.

A wounded man arriving by helicopter at a hospital usually has on him a tag that reads something like "frag wound lower front left leg." He knows what's happened, but there is no guarantee the incident has been remembered officially.

Says one Marine captain: "They can't tell in the rear all the time how a guy was wounded. A frag wound can be caused by shells, mines or booby traps."

seriousness of the PFLP ultimatum," the communique said.

One guerrilla official told newsmen at El Kahana that the commandos would not release any of the hostages until Miss Khaled and the other six jailed guerrillas are freed.

"It's an all or nothing package deal," he said.

He said the hostages probably would be taken off the planes if the guerrillas decided to blow the jets up.

Treated Well

Some of the hostages told newsmen who visited them Tuesday that they were being treated well but that the living conditions were terrible.

"All the passengers are well but the toilets and hygiene conditions are very bad," said TWA stewardess June Haesler of New Jersey. "It is very cramped and the children are restless."

The hostages, after being kept aboard the planes since they landed, were let out a few at a time Tuesday to stretch their legs. Newsmen were allowed to talk to one group as Arab commandos with submachine guns kept a close watch.

The guerrillas ordered the 61 newsmen and 21 hostages to squat in the swirling dust for the news conference.

The hostages answered questions through a loudspeaker. Guards manhandled photographers who tried to take pictures, and the commandos threatened to open fire on the newsmen if any of them didn't do as they were told.

C. D. Woods, captain of the plane, said that to his knowledge, "the passengers are quite well and we are being treated very nicely under the conditions in which we are living."

"We have food, but we have no water at the moment," said Swissair steward Michel Weiss. "We have asked for tea and bottled water. Toilet and hygiene conditions are very bad."

One Red Cross official, Claud Frascani of France, said: "We have a psychosis problem here. The women and children are terrified."

Some Arab countries promised Secretary of State William P. Rogers that they would do all they could to secure the release of the hostages. But they emphasized that their governments have little or no control over Palestinian commandos.

President Nixon called in top advisers to discuss the hijackings and ways of preventing future ones. Presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the meeting could result in legislation to deal with hijackings.

New Security

New security measures went into effect at airports in the United States and Europe. Acting at the request of the airlines, U.S. marshals intensified their searching of passengers, and airlines increased the use of devices that detect guns or other metal objects that could be weapons.

Pan American said that at Houston International Airport it had initiated a search of hand luggage, had put fulltime guards on planes on the grounds, and had ordered complete inspections of planes before and after loading. Similar precautions were reported at other airports, including Chicago's O'Hare.

Baggage searches were causing delays of up to several hours at European airports. Tougher security measures were ordered at London, Stockholm and Amsterdam.

'Hijacks Declining'

A spokesman for the Federal Aviation Administration said the frequency of U.S. hijackings has dropped a great deal since airlines and airports started using deterrent systems.

"Our hijackings have been declining, even though they increased a bit this summer," he said. But he added: "Worldwide hijackings of the type occurring within the past few days are a horse of a different color."

Five executives of the International Federation of Airline Pilots Associations met in London to discuss the latest rash of hijacking. The federation, which represents 50,000 pilots from throughout the world, has long been demanding tougher action against air pirates and countries that harbor them.

'Prejudicial' to U.S.

In New York, the mother of Sirhan B. Sirhan, the convicted assassin of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, called off a trip to Jordan to appeal for release of the hostages after the State Department revoked her passport and those of her two lawyers.

hotly contested primary, but lost to Knowles that November. In 1968 Lucey was involve with Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and did not seek office.

Lucey, who during the past decade was closely identified with the candidacies of John F. and Robert Kennedy, said he would begin his campaign early today in the great tradition of Wisconsin Democrats—a plant gate appearance at 6 a.m.

Lucey said he would be at a brewery entrance with state AFL-CIO President John Schmitt, followed by an appearance at the Allis-Chalmers plant gate with Harvey Kitzman, director of UAW Region 10.

Lucey had formal union backing during his primary campaign.

"My plans for the general election campaign are for a continuation of the campaign thus far, with heavy stress on issues of concern to most citizens," said Lucey. He said there would be a particular effort to develop these issues between now and the Nov. 3 election.

Not Well

Peterson, whose supporters said he was not feeling well, retired to a Milwaukee hotel room and was not available for comment.

Schreiber said he was delighted with the support given him in out-state communities.

"The most encouraging part of the vote is that it demonstrates that the rural areas recognize the problems of our urban areas and are willing to support action to meet this problems," said the 31-year-old senator from Milwaukee.

Olson is the 50-year-old operator of a sightseeing boat line at Wisconsin Dells. He served as lieutenant governor during the first term of Gov. Warren P. Knowles, who is bowing out of public office.

Lucey, a real estate operator in Madison, started his campaign early, announcing his intention to run last September 2.

Peterson, 45, vice presient of an Eau Claire frozen pizza firm, announced his candidacy April 24. He had won nationwide recognition by leading an abortive anti-war movement at the 1968 Democratic National Convention in Chicago. Leading a delegation backing the presidential aspirations of Sen. Eugene Mc Carthy of Minnesota, Peterson denounced Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley from the floor.

National Co-Chairman

After the convention, he became a national co-chairman of the New Democratic Coalition, a liberal group aimed at achieving reforms in the Democratic Party. Lucey also was active in the coalition ir its early stages but soft-pedaled that facet of his career in the primary campaign.

Israelis Maneuver to Win Battle for Peace

Political, Psychological Conflicts Make Negotiation of Total Security Impossible

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

JERUSALEM — Despite the precarious Mile East cease-fire and Israel's brinksmanship over Egyptian missile movements, top planners of the Israeli government are hammering out bargaining postures in case peace breaks out.

The problem is vastly complex, involving passions embedded in this country's political psyche. The men an women who run Israel know that, in withdrawing from the lands captured in the 1967 war, nothing approaching total security is going to be possible — certainly not immediately, probably never. Consequently, the tentative plans now being laid for partial withdrawal from the hottest geographic flash points clash violently with Washington's edict barring all but "minor" border rectifications from the pre-war 1967 lines.

Contrary to the Nixon administration's plan, for example, there is no chance of Israeli withdrawal from the heights of Sharm El-Sheikh which control the Strait of Tiran, the entrance to the Gulf of Aqaba and the Israeli port of Eilat. The decision to keep Israeli arms at Sharm El-Sheikh is holy writ at all levels and among all political factions here because the sea route to Eilat is vital to Israel's economy.

Six-Day War

Under United Nations guarantees, the Israelis were forced off Sharm El-Sheikh by President Eisenhower after the first Israeli Suez invasion in 1956. Closure of the strait by Egypt in May 1967 led to the six-day war.

"Let them put an Egyptian flag up if it will make them feel better," one highly-placed political leader told us, "but we're not going to leave there for a long time."

That remark suggests what the Israelis have in mind: a leasing agreement with Egypt giving Israel special rights, possibly extraterritorial, at Sharm El-Sheikh for a specific time, perhaps five years — just as the United States has special rights over the Guantanamo Naval Base in Cuba.

In exchange, Israel will withdraw its forces now dug in along the Bar-Lev Suez Canal line to a point well back toward the old Sinai border between Israel and Egypt. Israel would insist on demilitarization of the intervening space, with an international force placed between the Israelis and the Suez Canal. That arrangement would permit the Egyptians to reopen the canal and run it the way they want, while Israel controlled the Strait of Tiran.

The Israelis are now completing a paved road from Eilat south to Sharm El-Sheikh — a land bridge, as they call it, all the way down the eastern edge of the Sinai to their force at Sharm El-Sheikh. International guarantees that this road would remain open at all times would be part of the deal.

Two Issues

This possible arrangement is seen here as a first-stage settlement of the two outstanding maritime issues between Israel and the Arabs — the canal and the Gulf of Aqaba. If, after a period of perhaps five years, the arrangement was found to work well, Israel then would agree to complete its withdrawal from the Sinai Peninsula on condition that it be wholly demilitarized, turning the security problem at Sharm El-Sheikh over to an international force, with both an Egyptian and Israeli presence.

On the surface, this would seem totally unacceptable to Egypt, which demands complete withdrawal from every square inch of the captured territories.

But it has one highly attractive feature: the early opening of the Suez Canal is a central goal of the Soviet Union. Conceivably, then, the Russians might exert pressure on Egypt to accept this plan, or some variation, while Egypt itself might find it a possible interim solution in view of the canal's vast money-making potential.

Woman Fights Pollution

Housewife Spends Each Day Searching Land for Violations

YALE, Okla. (AP) — Tommy Thompson waded into her favorite fishing hole, came up with pants and shoes squirming with maggots and dead fish, and set out on a personal crusade against the forces polluting her environment.

The 34-year-old farm wife and mother of three brought smiles to many faces last month when she began prowling oil leases looking for pollution.

Acting on Mrs. Thompson's complaints, the state Corporation Commission has shut down one oil lease and warned nine others to correct their ways or face similar action.

Mrs. Thompson was spurred to action last month by news that a fish kill on Skull Creek involved an estimated 100,000 fish, and by a similar incident soon afterward.

Since July 17, she has spent every day except one looking for pollution from oil and salt water.

She leaves her house each morning before eight.

"I try to be back in before my husband gets home at 5:30," she said, "but I don't always make it."

She's worn out 10 pairs of canvas shoes crawling up rocky creek beds and over hills.

She has fallen out of a tree She's been scratched, cut, bruised and cussed.

A used car lot owner loaned her a car. She had done about $100 in damage to the family auto, and it was having mechanical trouble. Cash donations she has received total $25.

An inveterate fisherman, Mrs. Thompson says she wants to go fishing "so bad it hurts."

"But I feel if I ever quit this for even a day, I'll let a lot of people down," she says

"You get to feeling guilty thinking about fishing when you see so many things that need to be cleaned up. And if I quit, the operators may go back to their old ways."

Calkins to Oppose Spice in Sheriff Race

Two veteran policemen will face each other in the race for Outagamie County sheriff in November.

They are Shiocton Police Chief Philip M. Calkins, a Republican who defeated Henry Hofacker in Tuesday's primary balloting, and incumbent Sheriff Calvin L. Spice who is seeking his fourth term as a Democrat. Spice was unopposed in the primary.

Unofficial returns gave Calkins a 2,850 to 1,395 vote edge over Hofacker. Spice counted an unofficial 4,233 votes, which was 12 short of the combined total for Calkins and Hofacker.

Calkins

Veteran Policeman

Calkins, 41, route 2, Black Creek, has been Shiocton police chief since last March when he was named to succeed Michael Reyes who resigned. Calkins had been a salesman and before that served seven years on the Beloit Police Department. He has lived in Outagamie County eight years.

The Republican sheriff candidate is an Air Force veteran of the Korean War. He and his wife have five children.

Calkins outpolled Hofacker, a 60-year-old farmer living at route 1, Hortonville, in both Appleton and the county. Although Hofacker captured a number of the county precincts, he won only three of Appleton's 20 Outagamie County precincts

Appleton Returns

Unofficial Appleton returns showed Calkins with 1,493 votes, Hofacker with 905 and Spice with 2,023. Spice outpolled either of the other two candidates in all but three Appleton wards.

Spice, 46, of 505 E. 19th St., Kaukauna, has 23 years of law enforcement experience. He was on the Kaukauna Police Department for 5½ years, served 10 years as a county traffic patrolman, was sheriff for three terms and was undersheriff for two years.

Hofacker, who reportedly did little campaigning for his primary election bid, lost a $40,000 lawsuit to a former sheriff in October, 1968.

Donald J. Heinritz, who was sheriff from 1954 to 1958 and later served four years as undersheriff, brought a libel suit against Hofacker in connection with a car top sign the Hortonville farmer displayed.

The sign, which a jury found was defamatory to Heinritz, was displayed at a time when he was seeking the Republican nomination for sheriff in 1966. He lost the bid to Norbert J. Marx who later became sheriff for one term.

Heinritz, who lost the 1966 primary bid by only 65 votes, contended that Hofacker's sign was in large part responsible for the loss.

Post Corporation Suit Brings Directive

Circuit Court Judge Andrew W. Parnell today ordered that all original minutes of the Outagamie County Board of Social Services meetings for 1969 and 1970 be turned over to the clerk of courts office and that, with exceptions spelled out in state statutes, the board minutes be public record and subject to inspection

Parnell issued the directive after an order to show cause hearing in connection with a lawsuit brought by Post Corporation of Appleton and one of its employes against three county officials

Post Corporation, publisher of The Post-Crescent, brought the suit last month after William Knutson, a reporter, reportedly was unsuccessful in attempts to examine minutes of past public meetings held by the welfare board.

Named in the complaint were County Clerk Arthur Hoolihan, in whose office the minutes should be, but are not, filed; William Pfrang, appointed acting director of the Department of Social Services in the absence of Alfred R Eggert, who is recovering from a reported heart ailment, and Supv. Norman Austin of the Town of Oneida, chairman of the Board of Social Services

Minutes Presented

A. W. Ponath, who recently was hired by the county to help with a backlog of work in the corporation counsel's office, today presented what he said were complete welfare board minutes for eight meetings between last May 5 and Aug 28.

However, Austin, called to the stand by attorney Gordon Myse, who represents Post Corporation, admitted that some of the contents of the minutes had been stricken. Austin said he did not know who deleted them or when, but he did say that some were deleted before Eggert became ill late in July.

Austin said the board minutes presented to the court today by Ponath were not the ones that had been approved by the board.

Myse informed the court that the recent board minutes do not reflect anything about Eggert's illness, nor do they show that Pfrang was named acting director of the welfare agency.

Kept in Safe

Austin said it "...has never been the practice" of the welfare board to file minutes with the county clerk, as Myse contends is required under Outagamie County Rule 22 and under state statute

"I guess they figured the welfare committee was an exception," Austin replied

In reply to a question from Parnell, Austin said the minutes of all board meetings are in a safe in the welfare department.

He also admitted that Eggert, and not board secretary Matt Verfurth, a Kaukauna supervisor, recorded board minutes until he became ill in July. The minutes, Austin said, were typed in Eggert's office by one of his employes.

Eggert, Pfrang and the Board of Social Services, in refusing to release minutes of past public meetings, argue that they contain the names and case histories of welfare clients. They hold that such information, under state law, is confidential.

Myse told the court that The Post-Crescent has no intention of publishing the names of welfare clients, but that the paper does have a legal right to inspect the minutes of public sessions

Austin was the only witness at the hearing, although both Pfrang and Hoolihan were in the courtroom.

On the basis of Austin's testimony that the minutes Ponath submitted were not complete, Myse requested the court to instruct that all the original, "unabridged" board minutes be released immediately.

Ponath continued to argue that some of the original records contain information that the law requires be confidential.

He further argued that Post Corporation and Knutson demanded only the May through August minutes, but Myse informed the court that all public meetings held by the board were being sought.

Parnell then directed that "for the practicality of time' all records and minutes of only 1969 and 1970 minutes be filed in the clerk of courts office, under seal.

Agreement Sought

Only Myse and Ponath will be allowed to inspect the original minutes. Parnell instructed the two attorneys to attempt to agree on what portions of the records can legally be released to the public.

If they cannot agree, Parnell will study the minutes and make a ruling. In the meantime, no parts of the minutes are to be disclosed, Parnell cautioned Myse and Ponath.

Ponath, saying he was not certain how much should be turned over to the clerk of courts, was told by Parnell, "I'd sooner have you sin in the direction of overfurnishing at this stage."

The welfare board had not turned over the disputed minutes as of early today, the clerk of courts office said.

Cuts Sought for Recreation, Park Budgets

Gertsch Wants More Funds for Development Plan

BY CLIFF MILLER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Park and Recreation commissioners began whittling at proposed 1971 budgets totaling $1,416,325 Tuesday night, while Commission Chairman Ralph Gertsch launched his annual campaign for park development funds.

The proposed budgets of the two departments are more than $1 1 million — or nearly three times — higher than the City Council approved for this year. Several of the costliest items included in the new proposal also were requested by the commission last year but denied by the council and Mayor George Buckley

Most of the increase would be in the form of state or federal grants.

Among the big price tags are:

—$382,157 for park development, including $100,000 for Langedyke Park and $200,000 for park land acquisition. According to Gertsch, $75,000 of the Langedyke cost and $100,000 of the figure for new land would be from state or federal grants, and the commission wouldn't spend its share unless it got the grants.

New Pool

—$600,000 for a new west-side swimming pool, a figure Recreation Supervisor Lloyd Koehnke said is 10 per cent higher than the sum requested and denied last year. The new request was discussed amidst dire warnings about the likelihood that Erb Park Pool will rot away one day, and that day is drawing rapidly closer, according to Gertsch and Koehnke.

—$65,000 for development of lighted ball diamonds at Langedyke Park, a project presumably to be started this fall and completed next spring to replace diamonds the department is or has given up elsewhere in the city.

According to Gertsch, the city has invested a total of about $30,000 in a park development plan, an item necessary to receive state and federal aids. But, he warned the plan eventually will be outdated and the cost wasted unless the city applies promptly for development grants.

Finance Director David Champion told Gertsch the program would have to be included in the city's general capital improvement plan for the coming five years, which will be taken up by the council along with the budgets this year.

Local Spending

It is a question of how much the council is willing to spend in local taxes to receive the grants, Champion told Gertsch.

He also advised scaling down the new pool plan from an

3rd District Primary

Conradt Turns Republican Assembly Race Into Rout

State Rep. Ervin Conradt turned what had been expected to be his toughest challenge into a rout and easily won the Republican nomination to his fourth term from Outagamie County's 3rd Assembly District

He defeated County Supv. Fred Rehfeldt, 1,635 to 866 Democrat John Bowers, unopposed, drew 861 votes.

In the 2nd Assembly District, and on the other side of the ballott, State. Rep William Rogers of Kaukauna won the Democratic nomination to his fifth term in the Assembly by easily turning back Kimberly Village Trustee Paul Van Dyke, 1,647 to 399. Kaukauna Ald. Russell Dix, unopposed for the GOP nomination, had 484 votes

Conradt's nearly 2-1 margin over Rehfeldt was much greater than his 4-3 win over Toby Roth in 1968 when the voter turnout was more than three times greater.

5-1 Margin

Conradt, 53, rolled up a massive 5-1 margin in the rural precincts of his district which includes five Appleton wards and most of the county's outlying towns and villages. Rehfeldt, 64, a county supervisor and former Appleton alderman, carried the five Appleton wards by a 618 to 374 margin. In 1968, Roth, who was making his first try for office, had rolled up a 2,294 to 927 edge in the city.

Rehfeldt, an active conservationist, had spent most of his campaign efforts in the rural areas and felt he had made inroads in Conradt's political machine. But the 1,261 to 248 Conradt edge outside of Appleton proved otherwise.

Rehfeldt only came close in the Town of Grand Chute. In the Town of Maine he lost 66-1

Rogers carried all 17 precincts in his successful bid for the 2nd District Democratic nomination.

In Van Dyke's home precinct of Kimberly, Rogers won 222 to 117. His margin was never less than 2 to 1 in any of the precincts and ranged to better than 5 to 1 in Kaukauna. The City of Kaukauna totals were 848 for Rogers and 148 for Van Dyke.

In the November election, Rogers will be facing a fellow Kaukauna alderman in Dix.

The small voter turnout in Appleton failed to shed any light on a possible November trend in the 1st Assembly District.

Froehlich outpolled Thompson, an Appleton alderman, in 12 of the 15 wards but neither candidate had conducted any major campaigning. Thompson is expected to provide Froehlich with his stiffest Democratic opposition since he has been in office.

Underdogs toppled four state eSnate veterans, including two Republican committee chairmen and two Democrats, on an upset sprinkled Wisconsin primary election card Tuesday night.

Ousted in their bids for renomination were GOP Sens. Holger Rasmusen of Spooner and Walter Terry of Baraboo, and Democratic Sens. Leland

Talks With Paper Firm Are Canceled

A meeting between two Appleton city official bodies and a representative of B.J. Fibres, Inc, of Augusta, Ga., has been canceled due to illness of the company representative who was to have attended.

Ald. Orval Polzin (3rd), chairman of the Commerce and Industrial Development Committee, canceled the joint session of his committee and the plans Commission Tuesday after hearing from a company official.

The meeting was to have been held to discuss questions about the firm's plans to build a $1 million-plus paper reclaiming plant in the North East Industrial Park.

No new meeting date has been set, Polzin said.

The operations of similar plants in three other states by the firm have been investigaged by Public Works Director Robert Miller who raised a number of questions about sewage treatment plans by the firm if it locates here.

Director Decides Not to Go

Committee Gives Ehricke Okay to Attend Hearings

Welfare Director Merton Ehricke decided today not to attend state Welfare Task Force hearings, rather than rely on City Council approval after the fact, even though a committee Tuesday said he could attend.

Ehricke skipped the first of four hearings he had planned to attend today and said he will attend only the two he considers most important, scheduled next week Wednesday in Milwaukee and Thursday in Racine And he will use a day of vacation time he has left and a floating holiday, rather than take extra time away from his office and risk embarrassing members of the Welfare and Ordinance Committee.

The committee gave Ehricke the permission, over a loud "no" vote from Mayor George Buckley, after the chairman said that was what the Council intended last week, despite legal interpretations to the contrary

The task force has three hearings scheduled this week and two more next week. But, by the time the council meets a week from today, all of the hearings but one scheduled for Thursday will be history.

Council rules require that department heads must have special permission to spend more than 10 days away from their offices on such special professional activities, and that they must apply for permission at least 30 days in advance

Task Force Time

Ehricke admittedly has spent more than 10 days on the Task Force and similar activities this year, and had failed to apply 30 days in advance for permission. The committee action recommends that the council waive both rules

Ehricke told the committee the situation arose through an oversight. "Nor did I intend to violate any of the council rules," he said

The chairman, Ald Edward Maloney (9th) put some of the blame on the council for allowing Ehricke to serve on the Task Force without first finding out how much time it would require "We've learned something," Maloney said

But Buckley said, "We either go by the rules or we're not going to obey the rules." He said his "no" vote was to "uphold the law."

Important Work

The mayor also assumed the role of cross-examiner, quizzing Ehricke about the task force's plans for additional meetings to draft state welfare legislation after the five hearings. "This is just the beginning," he warned the committee. "All of 1970, continual absenses"

Ehricke said he has asked the task force chairman for a schedule of future meetings and promised to apply 30 days ahead of time for permission to attend "I wouldn't be going through this" if the task force work weren't important, he told one committeeman, referring to Buckley's persistent criticism.

The welfare director said he would not leave his office before quitting time the day before task force sessions, to travel to the distant cities, and he offered to clarify his personnel attendance reports to show when he was gone on task force business.

Buckley also drew from him a promise to follow City Hall rules and notify the mayor where he can be reached while he is gone.

Ehricke said he will miss one of the hearings scheduled for Eau Claire.

Ehricke brought the issue before the committee after

Off the Record

When Mayor George Buckley takes on a political opponent, he likes things literally on the record.

He frequently comes armed with his personal tape recorder, planting it with the microphone pointing at the object of his antagonism and then firing questions.

That was the setup Tuesday when Buckley attended a Welfare and Ordinance Committee meeting to decide whether Welfare Director Merton Ehricke was to continue attending state Welfare Task Force proceedings

Buckley had his recorder set up before the meeting, with the mike aimed at the seat where Ehricke usually sits. The machine ground away as Buckley grilled Ehricke and when the committee voted against the mayor's wishes, recommending permitting Ehricke to attend a series of out-of-town task force hearings.

When the vote had been taken, Buckley unplugged his recorder, then grinned around the room and asked if anyone wanted to say anything "off the tape"

"The press is still here," replied one committeeman, declining. Buckley decided to take advantage of being off the record — his own, at least — and scanning the trio of aldermen who had just voted against him he exclaimed loudly, "You three clowns!"

Then he turned to a reporter and added, "That's off the record," tucked the recorder under his arm and left

Calls Wife in Little Chute

Waupaca Soldier in Plane Crash

LITTLE CHUTE — A Labor Day bride in Little Chute is breathing a lot easier today after hearing from her husband who was in a Delta Airline DC9 that cracked open when landing at Louisville, Ky., Tuesday night.

Mrs. Dennis Bauer, the former Elaine Moser, daughter of Mr and Mrs Willard Moser, 421 E Main St., Little Chute, had a phone call from her new husband shortly after the accident and he reported nothing more serious than a twisted ankle from the mishap.

Pvt Bauer, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Bauer, 215 Park Ave, Waupaca, is taking his basic training at Ft. Knox, Ky., and had arrived in Little Chute Saturday for his wedding on Labor Day. He was returning to Ft. Knox when the crash occured.

The plane, with 94 persons aboard, cracked open when landing at Standiford Field. There was no fire or explosion.

Tires Blew Out

Most of the 89 passengers contacted after the mishap said the craft's tires blew out on landing The plane then bounced into the air and cracked just behind the wing when it hit the runway again.

Delta spokesmen said, however, "When it landed it simply cracked open."

The spokesman said 15 passengers were taken to a Louisville Hospital for treatment of minor injuries

Bauer told his wife he was proceeding to Ft Knox to continue his training period

Youth Wants 'Place'

Meeting on Planter Problem Sought

A second meeting between city leaders and young people aimed at solving the problem of youths loitering on downtown planters was being arranged Tuesday.

They will discuss the possibility of finding another place for the youths to congregate

Police Chief Earl O Wolff and Mayor George Buckley agreed to meet separately with young people who request such an encounter at a "rap session" with adults at City Park last Friday night The police chief agreed to bring a juvenile officer and a narcotics agent along to the session he will attend.

"Nowhere to Go"

The meetings were arranged by Pete Bishop, a local volunteer youth worker who was among those who attended the first meeting at City Park on request of some of the young people

Bishop said the youngsters' complaint that they have nowhere else to go has been taken up with downtown businessmen and representatives of civic groups, and they expressed interest in helping seek a solution

The youngsters proposed running their own congregating place, with adult supervision, as an alternative to gathering in front of the H C Prange Department Store, which they said is hard to soda fountains and shops where they like to browse

While Bishop was making arrangements for the meetings with city officials, the Welfare and Ordinance Committee of the City Council voted in favor of initial publication for an ordinance to ban loitering in pedestrian or vehicular traffic paths, at or near entrances to public or private buildings, on motor vehicles or planters, kiosks,

Steinhilber, Carver, Moore Get County Nods

OSHKOSH — Veteran party leader Jack D. Steinhilber captured the GOP nomination for Winnebago County State Senator by better than a two-to-one margin, but political newcomers triumphed in two other county-wide races as 28 per cent of the voters turned out in Tuesday's primary election.

Thomas J. Fink, 34, Menasha, was ousted from the district attorney's post he has held for the last four years by William H. Carver, 32, Oshkosh, who had been assistant DA for four years until he resigned June 15. The GOP primary vote was 6,156 for Carver to 4,652 for Fink.

New Coroner

Also defeated was Art C. Miller, 63, Oshkosh, who has been county coroner for the last eight years. He was upended by Duane (Dewey) I. Moore, 33, president of the Moore Ambulance Service in Oshkosh. The vote was 5,532 to 4,999, the closest race in the county.

The State Senate contest, in which Steinhilber garnered 7,280 votes to 3,295 for Town of Menasha Chairman Roland Kampo, was Kampo's first election defeat since he injected himself into town and county political wars six years ago.

Conservative Victory

"I'm very gratified, very pleased," Steinhilber said this morning, adding that he thought his triumph was "a victory for responsible conservative thinking."

"My record was acceptable to county Republicans," Steinhilber said. "I think the voters think I've done something and will do more to curb problems of strife and disorder, particularly on the campuses."

Steinhilber, who carried all but five of the 52 precincts, said he was particularly happy that his support had come "from all parts of the county."

Not Enough Taxes?

"People haven't got enough taxes yet," Kampo said, referring to his campaign criticism of Steinhilber's support for the four per cent sales tax in last year's Legislature.

Kampo carried only five of 52 precincts, including the two in the Town of Menasha by a 366-155 margin. Almost all of his margin came from the east side, which went 282-77 for Kampo, while the west side gave him just a six-vote advantage.

Kampo also carried the Town of Neenah, 115-105, the 44th district in Oshkosh, 110-24, and the 46th district in Oshksoh, 291-83. The two Oshkosh precincts are heavy Democratic areas.

NM Margins

Steinhilber carried Menasha, 518-333, and Neenah by a margin of 1057 to 522. The Oshkosh Assemblyman rolled up a 3,682 to 1,143 advantage in his home city, carrying some precincts there by a five-to-one margin.

Steinhilber, who has held a number of party leadership posts in the county and was chairman of the GOP caucus in the Assembly last year, will face Allenville farmer John Allen in November. Allen, unopposed in the Democratic primary, polled 4,007 votes Tuesday.

D. A. Race

In the district attorney race, Fink rolled up a 604-272 margin by carrying six Menasha precincts, but lost in Neenah by 10 votes, 797-787. Carver carried Oshkosh by over 1,000 votes, 3,048 to 2,033 for Fink.

Fink carried four of eight districts in Neenah, the Town of Neenah and the east side of the Town of Menasha in addition to Menasha.

Fink had concentrated his campaign around his part in a recent large drug raid in the Oshkosh area, and on his ability to work with the state attorney general's office

Carver's campaign was somewhat broader, with the former assistant prosecutor emphasising cooperation with townships, "communication" with the DA's office, a campus disorder in addition to the drug issue.

No Opposition

Carver will be unopposed in November, as there is no Democratic candidate for the district attorney spot.

In the only other GOP primary race, Moore salted away a 3,047 to 2,005 advantage over Miller in Oshkosh, and grabbed enough votes in the rest of the county to win the coroner nomination by a 533-vote edge. Moore is also unopposed in November.

Miller carried Menasha, 466-302, and Neenah, 833-657, and the Town of Menasha, and also had the edge in many of the rural areas of the county, including the Town of Neenah.

Moore, elected to the county board this spring, waged a vigorous campaign in which he and understanding" to the coroner's office. He had support from some county supervisors.

A total of 16,815 persons voted for governor in the GOP, Democratic and American Party primaries, which accounted for 28 per cent of the registered voters in the county, Clerk Dorothy L. Propp said.

The turnout in both the city and town of Menasha was about 28 per cent, while turnout in the City of Neenah was just over 30 per cent The vote was slightly higher than the 25 per cent predicted.

In two primary tests for Steinhilber's assembly seat in Oshkosh, Jon Guiles easily outdistanced a field of five other candidates to win the Republican nomination. James Manske beat Dennis Kaufman, 978 to 726, for the Democratic vote.

Strike Threatens K-C Plant

NEENAH — Members of Local 107, United Papermakers and Paperworkers, AFL-CIO, were scheduled to vote at 1 and 4 p.m. today on Kimberly-Clark Corporation's latest offer for settlement of a two-year contract for 261 workers at the Neenah Paper Company.

A company spokesman today confirmed that the K-C has received its "termination notice" meaning that if the company's latest offer is turned down by the rank and file, workers will walk off their jobs at midnight tonight.

Expired Contract

The contract expired on July 1 and a federal mediator met with both sides Tuesday when the company made the final offer to the employes of the mill which produces cut and fibre business papers.

Commissioner H. G. Miller, Green Bay, said today that the offer was made Tuesday. Tuesday was his first involvement in the contract talks.

Meanwhile, the executive board of Local 482, International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Papermill Workers, AFL-CIO, met this morning. A rank and file meeting slated for tonight at the Labor Temple on Green Bay Road, to discuss the status of a new contract to replace the old two-year pact which expired June 1.

1,500 Workers

Negotiations with both Locals, according to the company spokesman, started May 12 and are continuing. Local 482 and Local 467, United Papermakers and Paperworkers, represented employes at the Neenah Mill which includes both the Lakeview and Badger-Globe consumer and industrial tissue manufacturing divisions. Between the two, about 1,500 workers are represented.

Union officials could not be contacted for comment this morning.

The company spokesman did confirm that about 1,300 workers at K-Cs Memphis, Tenn., consumer products mill had walked off the job at 3 p.m. Thursday.

Two years ago, Local 467 and 482 were out on strike for 34 days in the longest strike in K-C Neenah history. Local 107 settled a week after all three unions had walked out.

During the 1968 strike, operations at Lee, Mass., Munising, Mich., and Memphis were all involved because of a union demand for multi-plant negotiations of health insurance benefits.

MRA to Hear Carley's Plan

MENASHA — With two vacancies still unfilled, an almost all-new Menasha Redevelopment Authority rushed into activity Tuesday night, deciding to talk once again with developer David Carley and approving several project changes suggested in a series of informal meetings last month.

On unanimous vote, the current five members decided to write to Carley to set up a meeting with him and other representatives of his firm, Inland Steel Development Corp., (ISDC) to discuss ISDC's possible future role in Menasha revitalization.

Carley on July 6, relinquished contract rights as exclusive project developer, but noted in a letter that his firm was still interested in participating in the project, without obligation to the city.

In an Aug. 21 letter, Carley, while chiding the city for a lack of unified support for redevelopment efforts, pointed to his firm's considerable investment in drawing up the renewal plan and re-emphasized his interest in "suggestions we have for your future redevelopment of the downtown, regardless of who the developers are."

"It sounds like he has had a change of heart and is trying to get back in the ball game again," Mayor James Adams said of Carley's second letter.

Winneconne Voters Defeat High School

WINNECONNE — Winneconne has lost the third round, but it promises to be back and swinging for the fourth.

Its bid for a new senior high school was once again turned down by voters Tuesday. But the gap is narrowing.

This time, the referendum for the $2 million school was turned down by 174 votes. The totals showed 860 persons in favor of the school, and 1,034 against.

During the last attempt in the spring of 1969 — the second time the referendum came before the electorate — the school lost by some 300 votes. And during the first referendum in December of 1968, it was even more soundly defeated.

'Disappointing'

"It is naturally disappointing," Winneconne High School principal William Briester said this morning.

"But we feel we're making progress We're not going to let the iron cool off. We will hammer back," he said.

"We realize we have a terrific need. Some people don't realize it yet. We will have to get to these people to answer their questions," he added.

While Breister pointed out that economy and the fact that people do not want raised taxes was a force in the opposition, he said he really didn't know what other reasons voters had for turning down the school. He said he had heard other reasons second hand, but there might be some big underlying factor.

Breister said a citizens committee meeting has already been called for Monday night, and the general feeling of the board of education is that progress has been made.

500 More Voters

Some 500 more voters turned out to the polls than had during the last referendum.

One of the biggest disappointments in Tuesday's voting was in the Village of Winneconne where 276 people tured thumbs down. Some 241 said yes to the high school.

Other vote tabulations were as follows: Town of Oshkosh, 49 yes, 31 no; Town of Clayton, 72 yes, 79 no; Town of Poygan, 36 yes, 75 no; Town of Vinlad, 126 yes, 60 no; Town of Winchester, 106 yes, 235 no; Town of Winneconne, 189 yes, 260 no, and Town of Wolf River, 15 yes, 53 no.

School Budget Rises 20 Per Cent in Neenah

NEENAH — The first preliminary draft of the 1971 budget of the Neenah Joint School District shows a 20.1 per cent increase in total expenditures over this year's budget.

However, school officials were quick to point out this morning that the new budget requests have not yet been scrutinized and cut by either the school board's committees or by the board itself.

The committees are currently in the process of analyzing the requests and will bring them back to the board for full board review.

$7.9 Million

The total expenditures of $7,915,316 are an increase of $1,325,500 over the 1970 budget of $6,589,816. The total operating requests are $6.8 million, an 18.9 per cent over this year's figure of $5.7 million

The major increases in the expenditures lie in capital outlay, a 251 per cent increase, and maintenance, a 130 per cent increase.

During a meeting Tuesday noon of the board's finance committee, James Clark, business manager, pointed out that the requests in these two areas are divided into priorities:

—(1) essential in the operation of the school district and has direct impact on the program, both instructionally and maintenance

—(2) highly desirable educationally, and

—(3) desirable educationally it would improve the program.

Capital Outlay

In capital outlay, the major requests are $70,000 for remodeling and improving McKinley School; $1122.045 in equipment and instruction in all schools; $41,197 in site improvement at Neenah High, and much improving such as blacktopping, landscaping and sidewalk work in schools of the district.

The total capital outlay requests are $292,366 as compared to the capital outlay this year of $83,226.

Major maintenance work is being sought for electrical work in four of the district's schools amounting to $29,210; painting in the amount of $16,500, roof repairs at Hoover and Neenah High School in the amount of $33,300, and considerable replacement and repair of equipment.

Conradt Turns Assembly Race Into a Rout

McParland of Cudahy and Casimir Kenzlorski of Milwaukee.

The four had a total of 55 years of experience in the Legislature's upper chamber. Rasmusen was chairman of the Senate Education Committee and Terry was chairman of the Agriculture Committee.

Voters also turned out three state representatives, Republicans Gregor Bock of Highland, Kyle Kenyon of Tomah, and Oscar Laper of Rock Springs.

Twenty-two other incumbents who had primary opposition, including Democratic Minority Leader Robert Huber of West Allis, won renominations and advanced into the November general elections.

Rasmusen and Terry were removed from the Senate by candidates they had defeated in previous primary elections.

Rasmusen, 76-year-old veteran of 14 years in the Senate, lost to Mayor John Marcon of Rice Lake by 351 votes, 5,125 to 4,774, on the basis of unofficial returns. In 1962, Rasmusen, a retired pharmacist, had defeated Marcon by 765 votes.

Former State Rep. Everett Bidwell of Portage oustedu Terry, 47, who was seeking his second four-year Senate term. The 70-year-old Bidwell, an ice cream manufacturer, served as co-chairman of the Legislature's powerful Joint Finance Committee during his tenure in the Assembly.

McParland, 74, and Kendziorski, 71, were eliminated by younger men who are newcomers to the state political scene.

Kurt Frank, a 25-year-old Marquette University law student, defeated McParland by about 600 votes in a four-man race. Frank had 4,846 votes to McParland's 4,258, with virtually all the votes counted.

Kendziorski was toppled by 36-year-old Thad J. Makowski, a former Milwaukee policeman and now an insurance salesman, Makowski won by nearly 200 votes, with unofficial returns giving him 5,016 votes to 4,722 for Kendziorski.

Two Senate incumbents, Republican Alex Meunier of Sturgeon Bay and Deomocratic Ronald Parys of Milwaukee, survived primary tests.

Meunier, 73-year-old veteran of eight years in the Senate, beat back a challenge from William J. Wagener, also of Sturgeon Bay, 4,152 to 2,744.

Parys won renomination for his first full term in the Senate, overwhelming two foes in the Senate's 9th District. Parys rolled up nearly 55 per cent of the vote against Monroe Swan and Jose A. Caban.

In the Assembly races, Robert Quackenbush of Sparta avenged a narrow 1968 defeat with a victory over the veteran kenyon in Monroe County. Quackenbush outpolled Kenyon 1,451 to 1,230. Two years ago, Kenyon defeated Quackenbush by a mere 46 votes.

Philip Leyda of Richland Center edged the three-term veteran Bock in a four-way race. Leyda amassed 1,606 votes to Bock's 1,591. Dennis Scallon of Highland ran a strong third, finishing with 1,087.

Laper, who was seeking his second term, was walloped by Kenyon Giese of Loganville, 3,941 to 2,524.

Rep. Edward Nager of Madison easily withstood a challenge from two opponents in his Dane County 2nd District. Nager received more than 2,270 votes. Runner-up in the three-way race was Lorraine Wilke with about 800 votes on the basis of nearly complete returns.

Huber, a 22-year Assembly veteran who underwent his first primary challenge in 18 years, crushed 29-year-old Lawrence Mazlack, also of West Allis, who had campaigned on an "it's time for a change" theme.

With returns virtually complete, Huber had received more than 3,500 votes. Mazlack had about 1,325.

Rep. Elmer Nitschke of Beaver Dam defeated Reuben Schultz, former Dodge County GOP chairman, with surprising ease. Nitschke, the Assembly's president pro tem, got 1,320 to Schultz's 570.

The Assembly's two John Birch Society members, Republican Reps. Kenneth Merkel of Brookfield and George Klicka of Wauwatosa, swamped their primary challengers.

Merkel defeated James Kramer of Waukesha by nearly 1,400 votes, while Klicka won by about 1,100.

The Legislature's only black man, Rep. Lloyd Barbee of Milwaukee, was unopposed for renomination from Milwaukee' 6th District.

Justus Stovall, 49, a Negro who sought for the second time to oust Rep. Mark Lipscomb in a Democratic primary, once again met with defeat. Lipscomb scored a triumph by an impressive 7 to 4 margin.

Robert F. Brunken, new general secretary of the Appleton Family YMCA, assumed his duties this week. He replaces James Warrick, who became associate general secretary of the Milwaukee Metropolitan YMCA. Brunken comes from South Bend, Ind. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Fox Cities Must Plan for Future

Crucial Time for Sewerage Needs

BY ARLEN BOARDMAN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

This is a crucial time for all Fox Cities communities in meeting future sewerage disposal needs.

All communities must expand to some degree because of state antipollution orders. For most, this expansion must be of major proportions.

That makes this an opportune time to come up with some form of metropolitan sewerage district, a move that should insure economies for the local units of government and a pat on the back and a large grant check from the federal and state governments.

The area's metropolitan planning agency, the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG), voted in July to convert to four treatment plants to serve the entire Fox Cities area. This is half the number of plants now handling area sewerage.

Compromise Plan

The move was partly the result of federal and state warnings about nonproliferation of treatment plants. The COG governing body discussed the single plant system but selected a compromise plan calling for additions to the Appleton, Kaukauna and Neenah-Menasha plants and the construction of a new plant on the north side of Little Lake Butte des Morts.

The conversion to the four-plant system may be more expedient initially and more acceptable politically, but there are compelling reasons for going to the single plant.

The single plant would require a greater initial investment because it would have to be large enough to pick up the loads of the eight existing plants but it would require a lower annual operating cost.

Laest of Three Parts

This brings to the surface two arguments for the one plant.

The federal and state governments now may pick up 80 per cent of the initial construction cost, diluting this greater initial local cost. Secondly, the operating cost assuredly will rise with inflation and become a more significant part of the expenditure program.

Engineer's Report

The 1969 report of Donohue and Associates, a Sheboygan-based engineering firm which studied the area's sewerage needs, was completed before the recent change in federal thinking. Also, it didn't include the manpower costs after 1980 because of the volatile labor situation.

As a result, the report does not show the real impact of long-range operating costs or of federal grant programs. The operating costs will be pushed up by new treatment requirements which will mean more equipment and more personnel.

Another factor is that expansion costs would be less for one than four plants, and there is no assurance that federal aid will be available for these. Also, the single plant could include more monitoring equipment to improve efficiency and reduce the need for maintenance personnel.

There are physical advantages to a single plant.

Reserve Capacity

For example, the one plant could carry more reserve capacity economically to handle a new industry which might threaten to overload a smaller plant. In Appleton, there is concern now whether a paper reconverting firm seeking to locate here will overload its treatment plant.

The single plant also would require less total capacity than the four plants combined because it could adjust its operation to handle peak loads of various regions at different times of the day.

In the same vein, it would tend to eliminate the nutrient-removing process of certain plants and nutrient-producing of others by amalgamation. Plants, such as Neenah-Menasha's, need nutrients because of their heavy industrial wastes.

More Desirable

Federal experts say the single plant is more desirable because it allows more expertise to be concentrated in one unit and better pollution controls. This ties with their growing demand for a reduction of contamination of surface waters.

One fear of the single plant is that it could break down, and there would be no other plants to pick up the load during repair. But even in a four-plant system, the other three probably couldn't handle the load of the one which would be down.

Federal officials say the single plant is least likely to break down. It has the most safety features, the most sophisticated equipment and a duel power source.

Local officials have based their selection partly on what they believe they can sell the public. Some even talked of going to four plants now and possibly to one in the future. But the more that is invested in existing plants, the less likely any dramatic conversion to a single plant will be made.

Colonel Urges Match Of Long, Short Hairs

WASHINGTON (AP) — A retired Army colonel suggests that young men who desire to keep their long hair or beards be assigned to separate units and compete with crew-cut regulars in training and combat.

Robert B. Rigg advanced the proposed in Military Review, the publication of the Army's General Staff College.

"Morale is built and maintained on both small and large items," Riggs said. "Since hair is a current issue, perhaps it is not a matter of lowering standards but just altering them."

THANK YOU!

A greatful and sincere thank you to the voters of the First Assembly District who with their vote on Tuesday nominated me as the Republican candidate for Representative to the Assembly in this District. I shall always make every effort to justify your confidence as a candidate and as your Representative.

Sincerely,
Representative Harold V. Froehlich

Ehricke Gets Permission to Go to Hearings

before the committee after Buckley wrote him a letter saying that when the council last week refused to deny the welfare director permission to attend the hearings, it didn't thereby grant the permission. Buckley said a separate vote would have been required to permit attendance.

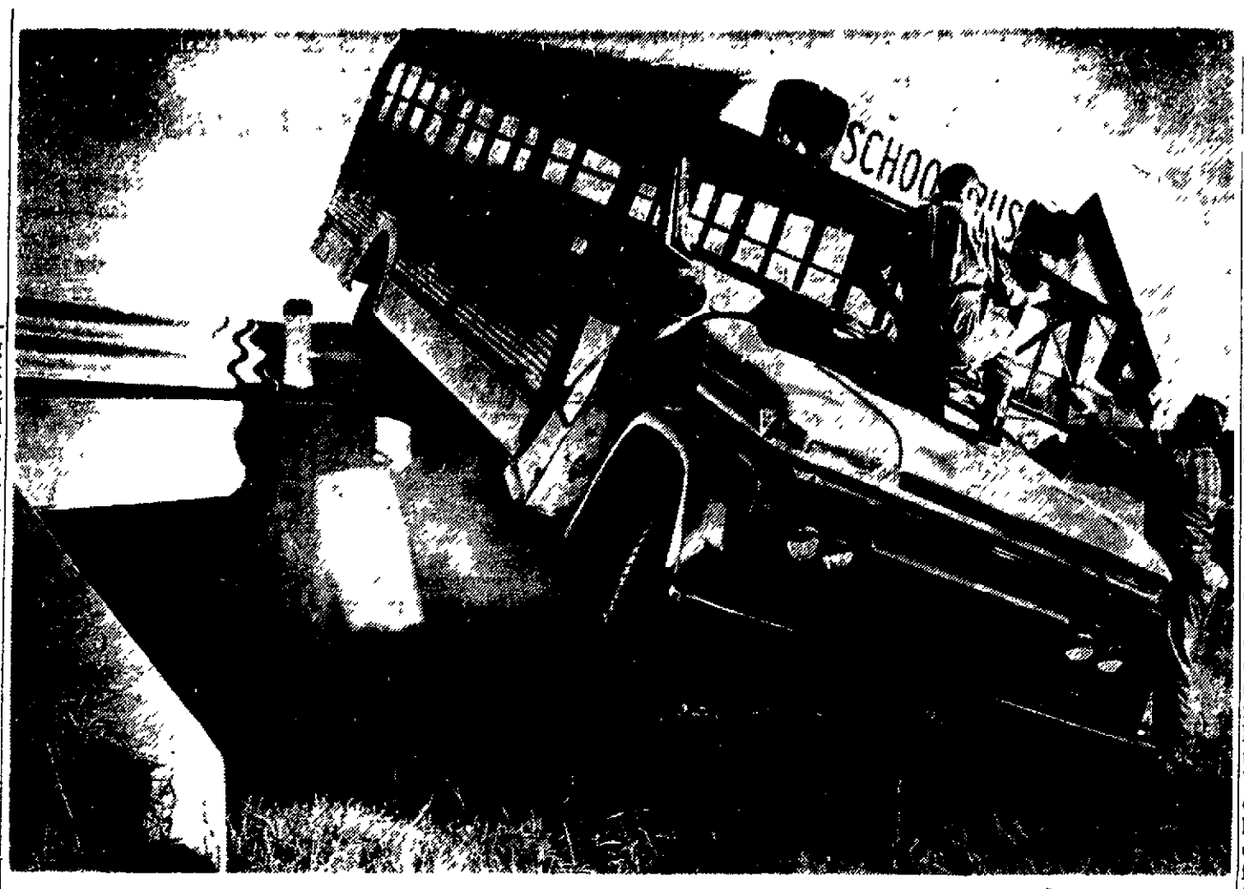
Council Intentions

City Atty. David Geenen said the mayor was technically right, but he believed the council had intended to let Ehricke attend. He said he saw "no problem" if Ehricke attends the sessions scheduled before the next council meeting.

The only punishment the council could hand out would be dismissal "for cause," and Geenen doubted that attending the task force hearings could be considered grounds for dismissal. The committee and Buckley agreed that the council will soundly approve the committee action next week

Ironically, after the vote on the Ehricke case, Inspection Director Charles Magnette brought in a request to allow Plumbing Inspector Richard Gloudemans to attend a state plumbing inspectors' conference in Wausau.

The committee granted the permission under circumstances nearly identical to Ehricke's. The first session of the conference falls the night of the council meeting, next Wednesday. Magnette apologized that he had failed to submit the request earlier, saying he had not learned of it in time.



A Rural Kaukauna bus driver and her three children escaped unharmed about 7:15 a.m. today when the brakes on this schoolbus failed. Outagamie County traffic officers said Arvita Baumgart, route 5, was turning onto County Trunk N from Karen Drive when the mishap occurred. The vehicle is owned by the Kaukauna Bus Service. Jensen Renamed To Housing Post

Leon Jensen, an Appleton attorney who served as the first presidet of the Housing Authority, was elected to a new term Tuesday to succeed Norman DeBroux who is leaving the Authority when his appointment expires this month. He has accepted a job in another state

The City Council will elect a new member to the five-member body.

The Authority also elected Harold Bravick vice chairman, to succeed Jensen, and re-elected John Oliver secretary and William Wachtendonk treasurer.

Newsprint Price Will be Boosted

Anglo-Canadian Pulp & Paper Mills, Ltd., Quebec City, Que., will increase the price of newsprint $10 a ton, effective Jan. 1

The increase, which will bring to $162 the price of newsprint per ton, delivered in New York, was necessary, according to a company statement, because of current economic conditions which had resulted in lower earnings.

A previous increase of $5 a ton went into effect last Jan. 1.

Planned for Green Bay

Educational TV Station Endorsed

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Construction in Green Bay of Wisconsin's first station in a statewide educational television system was endorsed Wednesday by the state Educational Communications Board.

The agency gave preliminary approval to a plan to ask the state Building Commission and the federal government this fall for up to $800,000 with which to build a station to serve the Fox River Valley from Green Bay.

Board director Lee Franks told the unit that Green Bay had been selected because of its work with the Northeast Wisconsin In-School Television (NEWIST) and the location of three commercial television towers in the area.

Franks said that the location of a home city must be specified in a license application to the Federal Communications Commission, but that it could be changed after approval is granted by the federal agency.

Strong Statement

The proposal of the ECB is not final but is a strong statement that its members feel that the Fox Valley should be the first area served in constructing the proposed state system.

It is also a statement that construction should be hurried on the statewide system.

Total cost of the project, according to Franks, could be between $600,000 and $700,000 if a "piggyback" antenna is used with one of the existing commercial towers and if other savings are made

Submit by Nov. 2

He asked that the ECB meet later this month to approve final specifications for the station. It's request for $400,000 in state funds would be made to an Oct. 12 meeting of the Building Commission.

Applications for federal construction funds, contained in the recent education bill passed by Congress over President Nixon's veto, must be submitted by Nov. 2, according to Franks.

It is unclear exactly where Franks is proposing that the state funds come from.

The Building Commission has repeatedly refused to release funds for improvements totaling more than $250,000 this biennium for the University of Wisconsin television station.

Law Cited

The commission has cited a state law which forbids the unit from approving projects costing more than $250,000 if the project does not have specific authorization from the Legislature.

No such authorization exists for the specific Green Bay station.

The legislature has authorized construction of a statewide system, but has ignored bills seeking money to back up the authorization.

Election Stirs Little Interest Among Voters

Less than one-fourth of the eligible voters in Outagamie County took the trouble to go to the polls Tuesday, reflecting slight interest in the few local primary campaigns.

And, hotly contested state Democratic primaries for governor and lieutenant governor failed to stir much local interest.

A total of 10,678 voters went to the polls in Outagamie County out of the approximately 48,000 who were eligible.

In Appleton there were 5,594 votes cast out of a possible 22,856 for 24.5 per cent. In Kaukauna, the turnout was 26 6 per cent on 1,294 of 4,853 registered voters Kimberly had a 21 per cent turnout with 490 of 2,318 voting, and in Little Chute, 406 of 2,089 registered voters went to the polls for a 19 per cent turnout.

Appleton, Kaukauna, Kimberly and Little Chute are the only communities in the county requiring preregistration for voting.

Primary Vote Light In Calumet

CHILTON — A total of 2,242 voters, slightly more than 10 per cent of those eligible, went to the polls in Calumet County Tuesday to cast ballots in a primary election that did not have any contests on the district or county level.

However, a write-in candidate received enough votes to have his name placed on the November ballot as a Democratic candidate for sheriff.

Garnett Peterson received 359 votes as a write-in candidate. He needed 248 votes to be listed He will be opposed by Republican Theodore Pagel, who received 810 votes.

Incumbent William A. Steiger received 870 votes as the Republican candidate for 6th District Congressman. He will be opposed by Democrat Franklin R. Utechm who received 847 votes.

State Rep. Gervase Hephner, a Democrat, drew 1,061 votes. He will be opposed by James Streubing, who received 756 votes as the Republican candidate.

Republican County Treasurer Lorna Schoen received 802 votes. She will be opposed by Lorraine Ammerman, a Democrat, who polled 822 votes.

Unopposed incumbents were Leroy Hughes, Republican coroner, 799 votes; Donald A. Schwobe, Republican county clerk, 859 votes; Terance J. Owens, Republican clerk of circuit court, 813 votes; Franklin J. Schmeider, Republican district attorney, 797 votes, and Germaine L. Hume, Democratic register of deeds, 945 votes.

bulletin boards or other decorative objects.

The ordinance is aimed primarily at conditions that have been reported outside the Prange store where doorways, the sidewalk and occasionally the street have been obstructed by youthful bands of loiterers.

Besides obstructing passage, the ordinance bans loitering "in such manner as to annoy or molest" pedestrians. Use of benches placed for public use, such as those on the downtown planters, would be permitted.

City Atty. David Geenen said the ordinance could be enacted as early as the City Council's first meeting in October and would then take effect upon being published afterward, probably around Oct. 10.

Commission Seeks to Cut Park, Recreation Budgets

indoor-outdoor facility to a simplified outdoor pool, at a cost of less than half the present total. Koehnke stuck to the indoor-outdoor plan, however, pointing out the facility could be used year-round rather than three to four months.

Commissioners agreed to investigate the cost of soil borings to find out whether the Erb Park pool is indeed built on quicksand as has been rumored.

Lending to the suspicion is the continual disappearance of earth surrounding the facility, despite repeated pumping of mud into cavities. The pool leaks — though Koehnke said the volume is less than the Water Department likes to claim — and the seeping water helps erode away surrounding earth. In addition, the concrete forming the pool and decks also is crumbling, commissioners were reminded.

Repair or Replace

The soil borings were suggested to determine whether it is worthwhile to repair the pool or whether it is better replaced. Gerthsch said that during the municipal water shortages during the past summer, the city came very close to shutting it down.

Ald. Eldred Mullen (6th) backed Gertsch's insistence on early development of the Langedyke property. Mullen said as alderman representing the area surrounding Pierce Park he intends to see that 1971 is the last summer that the Fourth of July celebration is held there due to the reported annoyance of neighbors. Langedyke is planned as the eventual permanent site of the yearly festivities.

Commissioners also objected to the estimated cost of renting school facilities for recreation programs next year. Based on School Board figures recently announced, Koehnke estimated his department will have to pay $38,425 next year without enlarging programs conducted in school buildings.

The sum is nearly 50 per cent higher than the $26,184 expected to have been spent by the end of this year, which itself is $3,000 higher than had been budgeted.

Higher Charges

The School Board raised its charges after the start of the year, to cover increases in custodial pay, catching the Recreation Department unprepared.

While the new school use charges reflect updating of rates several years old, commissioners said they believed the increases are at least in some ways unreasonable. There were signs the commission or other city officials may seek reconsideration by the School Board.

Gertsch accused the School Board of trying "to cover the mistakes they make on their other accounts" by charging the recreation department.

Karl Becker, commissioner representing the School Board, disagreed, but added that the hourly fee of $2.75 for heat, light, utilities and the like is "on the high side." The rate had been $1.25.

Gertsch, on the other hand, agreed that it is at least convenient to have a set table of charges to budget from, instead of estimating from the past year's experience as has been the past practice.

Project for Thilmany At Kaukauna Utility

MADISON — A $320.000 construction project by the City of Kaukauna electric utility to supply power to the Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co. is being considered by the State Public Service Commission.

The state agency announced that no public hearing would be held on the proposal to construct an addition to the Combined Locks substation at a cost of $120,000, and to extend transmission lines and construct a stepdown transformer substation at a cost of $200,000

1st Candidate

DA's Aide Seeks County Legal Job

Joel A. Seymour, Outagamie County assistant district attorney, today asked to be considered for the job of county corporation counsel which will be vacant with the Oct. 1 resignation of Frank Templeton.

Seymour, 27, of 3115B W. Fourth St., Appleton, is the first person to openly seek the post which pays $14,000 a year. Some County Board members are attempting to have the pay raised.

Seymour, a native of Niagara, Wis., and a graduate of the Marquette University Law School, was named assistant district attorney in January, 1969, shortly after graduation. He is one of two assistants under Dist. Atty. James R. Long.

The last corporation counsel was named by the County Board, but appointment of the next one is the subject of controversy. Board Chairman Russell DeLaHunt holds that the County Board should continue to make the appointment but County Administrator Alvin Woehler maintains he has the power to make the appointment, subject to confirmation by the board.

Waiver Needed

Seymour said that he is aware that if he is named to the county legal post, the board would have to waive a requirement in its job descriptions that the corporation counsel have five years of legal practice or similar experience.

In a letter to Woehler and DeLaHunt, Seymour stated, "My experience in working with the people of this county through the district attorney's office for the past two years has given me an insight into the workings of the county.

"In the absence of the corporation counsel, I have worked on juvenile and welfare cases and have a first-hand understanding of that aspect of his job. I recognize the problem which Outagamie County faces in the near future and feel that I can make a positive contribution in working with the Board of Supervisors to solve them."

American Party Fails To Get County Votes

The American Party of Wisconsin failed to make much of a dent on Outagamie County voters who stuck to the traditional Republican and Democratic party labels Tuesday.

Leo McDonald, the party's nominee for governor, was also the top vote-getter with 43 votes. Theodore Kothe drew 42 votes for lieutenant governor and Joseph Dery, 30 votes for Congress.

However, with all primary contests in the two major parties, there was little voter incentive to break traditional party lines in the primary.

In some of the voting quirks, Roman Bienski, who ran against Jack Olson for the GOP nomination for governor, drew 237 votes in the Appleton and a total of 391 in the entire county — but 108 of those votes came in Appleton's 19th ward on the northwest side. His next biggest precinct was the Town of Ellington which gave him only 15 votes.

Outagamie County is generally considered a Republican stronghold but the areas that are Democratic go all out. In the Village of Combined Locks, for instance, no Republican votes were cast for sheriff, coroner or clerk of courts.

It would appear that about the same number of Democrats and Republicans went to the polls.

Democratic Sheriff Calvin Spice, running unopposed, drew 4,233 votes in the county. On the Republican side, Register of Deeds Dominic Peeters, also unopposed, had 4,364 votes.

Top Republican vote-getter in the county, however, was Olson with 4,515 votes He was followed by Rep. John Byrnes with 4,402.

On the Democratic side, Sen. William Proxmire led the way with 4,332 votes, some 800 more than John Erickson, his Republican foe in November.

Youths' Names Listed Incorrectly in Story

Country Lawyer Beats Faubus In Arkansas Governor Battle

Cramer Defeats Carswell in Florida Senate Race

Dale Bumpers, who emerged from the political obscurity of a country law practice, has won the Democratic nomination for governor of Arkansas, crushing the comeback campaign of former governor Orval E. Faubus.

And in Florida, Rep. William C. Cramer captured the Republican nomination to the Senate, ending the bitter quest by G. Harrold Carswell for a seat in the chamber that denied him a place on the Supreme Court.

Carswell, whose defeat was expected, and Faubus, loser in a startling upset, were the big-name political casualties as eight states held primary elections Tuesday.

The Arkansas runoff was surprising not only for the outcome, but for the towering proportions of the Bumpers victory.

With virtually all precincts counted, Bumpers had 257,385 votes to 181,089 for Faubus, who served six terms as governor, retired undefeated four years ago, and became manager of an amusement park called Dogpatch USA.

Bumpers campaigned with a promise of fresh, aggressive leadership—he seldom got more specific—and said Faubus had nothing new to offer Arkansas.

Bumpers, 45, and making his first bid for state office, will challenge Republican Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller in the Nov. 3 election.

"We feel very good about what will happen in November," Bumpers said. Faubus called Bumpers "a pretty good candidate," but said the nominee will find his race against Rockefeller more difficult than the primary.

Nobody paid much attention to Bumpers, a lawyer from Charlestown, population 1,350, until he staged a surprising race and emerged second to Faubus in the first, eight-way primary. Faubus got 36 per cent of the vote in that one, far short of the majority required for nomination.

In other key races:

—Florida's flamboyant Republican Gov. Claude R. Kirk fell short of a majority in his renomination bid, and was forced into a Sept. 29 runoff against millionaire druggist Jack Eckerd. Kirk had 48 per cent of the vote, Eckerd 37 per cent, in a three-man field.

Atty. Gen. Earl Faircloth and Reubin Askew, a state senator, will meet in a runoff for the Democratic nomination for governor.

—Vermont Democrats nominated Philip H. Hoff, a former governor, to run for the Senate against Republican Sen. Winston L. Prouty. With 88 per cent of the vote counted, Hoff had 19,471 votes, Fiore L. Bove, a conservative state senator, had 6,442, and William H. Meyer, a former congressman, had 3,651. But Meyer also is running as the candidate of a liberal Democratic faction, and that could pry votes away from Hoff in November.

New Hampshire Race

Prouty was unopposed for renomination, but he got more votes than anybody else on either primary ballot, and appears certain of the facorite's role in his race against Hoff.

—Gov. Walter Peterson of New Hampshire appeared to have narrowly withstood the renomination challenge of conservative Meldrim Thompson, a lawbook publisher. With the unofficial vote count nearing completion, he had 41,721 votes and a 1,910 vote lead. Roger Crowley Jr., a former state resources commissioner, won the Democratic nomination for governor.

—Florida Democrats gave the Senate primary edge to former Gov. Farris Bryant, who had 220,070 votes, but Lawton Chiles, a state senator who staged a 1,000-walk the length of the state as part of his campaign, got 177,919, and forced a Sept. 29 runoff for nomination to run against Cramer.

The Florida Senate seat at stake is being vacated by Sen. Spessard L. Holland, a Democrat, who is retiring. While Democrats outnumber Republicans 3 to 1 in Florida, the GOP is counting on capturing the seat in November.

63 Per Cent

Cramer heads into the general election campaign with a solid 63 per cent primary showing to bolster his standing.

He had 198,671 votes, with the tally nearly completed, Carswell had 109,156.

"I will never regret having made the fight," said Carswell, who resigned his lifetime tenure as a federal appeals judge for a campaign in which he charged the Senate put him through an inquisition before rejecting his nomination to the Supreme Court.

Carswell said he had no plans for the future.

"Florida's Republicans have spoken," said Cramer, an eight-term House veteran. "We now appeal to the discerning Democrats of this state to join us in our fight . . . ."

In the Arkansas defeat, Faubus claimed he had been campaigning against the odds. He blamed his loss on support he said Bumper received from the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education and from the organization of Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark. He also said a large segment of the Arkansas news media actively supported Bumper.

"To have waged a campaign against such odds with no greater margin of loss is remarkable," Faubus said.

Faubus, who tried to defy court ordered desegregation of Little Rock Central High School 13 years ago, campaigned intensely against the busing of school children for the sake of racial balance.

Bumpers said he opposed busing, too, but did not make it a major issue, and accused Faubus of injecting racism into the campaign.

Faubus invoked the name of George C. Wallace, who as a third party presidential candidate carried Arkansas two years ago, saying the soon-to-be Alabama governor had sent him a good luck telegram. But to no avail.

Castro Ahead

Elsewhere, Vermont's Republican Gov. Deane C. Davis swept to renomination with 80 per cent of the vote. Leo O'Brien Jr., a state senator, won the Democratic nomination to oppose him.

In Arizona, Sam Grossman, a shopping center owner, was leading a three-way race for the Democratic nomination to oppose Republican Sen. Paul J. Fannin.

Raul Castro, a Tucson attorney, was ahead in the Democratic gubernatorial primary. Republican Gov. Jack Williams was unopposed for renomination.

There were no major nomination contests in Colorado and Utah, the day's other primary states.

Army Chief Empowered

Jordan Cease-Fire Ordered

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Jordanian army chief of of staff, Maj. Gen. Mashour Haditha, announced today he has assumed full powers under King Hussein, and ordered an immediate cease-fire between guerrillas and Jordanian troops.

In a statement broadcast by Amman radio, the general said he had taken "all powers" in Jordan at the request of Hussein.

"In my new position I order all army units throughout the country to cease fire at once," he said. "I will mete out the severest punishment on violators."

Palestinian commandos and Jordanian soldiers earlier were reported battling for a second day in northern Jordan, following the collapse of a brief cease-fire concluded Tuesday between the Amman government and guerrilla leaders.

The Central Committee of the Palestine Guerrilla Organizations repudiated the cease-fire early today, charging that after it was supposed to have taken effect, Jordanian troops attacked commando outposts near Irbid, killed 40 guerrillas and wounded many more.

In retaliation, sources in Amman said, the guerrillas laid siege to the Jordanian army garrison at Irbid. Heavy fighting raged through the night and continued this morning, the informants said.

Tanks and heavy artillery of the Jordanian army's 40th Brigade intervened at dawn to relieve the besieged garrison. Headquarters of four guerrilla groups in Irbid were put under heavy bombardment, the sources reported.

The Guerrillas' central committee claimed Jordanian troops mutilated the bodies of commandos killed in the fighting. Sources in Amman said the guerrillas paraded the bodies through the streets of Irbid, sparking wild public demonstrations.

One group of demonstrators reportedly stormed into the city's police headquarters and killed the police chief.

Scattered shooting also was heard in downtown Amman and in the area of the Jordan Intercontinental Hotel, the temporary home of the 125 women and children released by the guerrillas holding two hijacked airliners and 178 hostages at a desert airstrip northeast of the capital.

The women and children scurried to the basement of the hotel, where they had taken refuse Monday night when the building was hit by mortar fire.

Guerrillas set up scores of street barricades in Amman Shops and government offices closed, and by midmorning half of the city was shut down. Schools, shops and offices that had reopened two days ago closed again.

The guerrilla committee said in the fighting Tuesday night the Jordanians made an unprovoked attack and the battle lasted seven hours. But Israelis along the border who said they witnessed the fighting gave a different version.

They said guerrillas fired on a patrol near Shuna, four miles east of the Israeli frontier, and Jordanian tanks rumbled into the area to open fire on guerrilla strongholds along the Gilead Heights. The Israelis said heavy exchanges of fire continued for more than an hour, but the tanks were not hit.

The same Israeli sources reported firing was heard on the Jordanian side of the border today, and it was assumed the guerrillas and the Jordanian army were at it again. Heavy morning fog blanketed the action, but the Israelis said artillery, automatic weapons and light arms could be heard.

Al Fatah, the largest guerrilla organization, charged the Jordanian government with a "relentless drive to liquidate the Palestine revolution." Guerrilla and government forces have been warring for months, but hostilities grew more frequent after Jordan accepted the new cease-fire with Israel in July.

Negotitions to end the Palestinian-Jordanian fighting culminated in a cease-fire at the end of last week, but it broke down and the shooting resumed Tuesday's short-lived truce had terms similar to last week's.

Representatives of three members of a four-nation reconciliation committee—Egypt, Sudan and Algeria—arrived in Amman shortly before the cease-fire was announced. The fourth, Libya, announced it would boycott the new peacemaking effort because a pact worked out after bloody fighting in June was violated by both the commandos and Jordan's army.

The guerrillas invited the visiting Arabs to hospitals to see their troops "mutilated" by Jordanian soldiers.

New York Loudest

Congress to Hear Census Complaints

WASHINGTON (AP) — Complaints of several hundred cities that the 1970 census count is short—particularly in the slums—will get an extensive congressional hearing next week.

Leadoff witnesses are New York Mayor John V. Lindsay, who says a sixth of the New Yorkers spot checked were not counted, and Census Director George H. Brown, who says he thinks the census will prove to be the most accurate in U.S history.

Chairman Charles H. Wilson D-Calif., announced Tuesday his House census subcommittee hearing on the nationwide count last April 15 will begin Tuesday.

Tallies Short

Wilson has asked the Census Bureau to be ready to answer complaints of New York, Chicago, Cleveland and Birmingham that their inner cities were undercounted and to complaints of several hundred smaller cities that their tallies were short.

Some officials of the major cities attribute the alleged slum undercount to people hiding from census takers because they were violating housing ordinances or welfare laws or evading the draft.

Some small cities stated their evidence indicates a larger population. Others contended blocks of citizens were credited to the surrounding county rather than to the city.

But Census Director Brown told newsmen last week that in all cases in which a city has conducted its own count it found even fewer residents than the census takers.

He said the Census Bureau's own rechecks, involving 6.5 million persons, discovered only 4,200 who had been missed the first time around.

House subcommittee investigators who recently toured eight major cities said officials of San Francisco, Los Angeles, Boston and Dallas agreed with the bureau's tally.

The most specific complaint so far is from Lindsay.

He announced last week a spot check of 1,808 New Yorkers found 311 persons, mostly in low-income areas, who had not been counted. Of 362 families, he said, 66 had not been counted.

vote before deciding whether to file a challenge.

Besides Shadebergs' 1st District and Zablocki's 4th District, there were primary contests only in southeastern Wisconsin's 3rd District and in northeastern Wisconsin's 8th District.

Student Losses

Platteville State professor Ray Short defeated River Falls State student Theodore F. Fetting for the Democratic ballot slot opposite GOP Rep. Vernon Thomson, who seeks a sixth term in the 3rd District.

Short's unofficial primary margin was 9,049-5,076.

The professor's campaign committee membership list included the name of the Rev. Gregory Lucey, a Roman Catholic priest and a brother of Patrick J. Lucey, whom Democrats nominated for governor.

Thomson has been rated certain of re-election in his 15-county district. He received 28,590 votes in Tuesay's GOP primary to a total 14,125 for Short and Fetting, both critics of the Vietnam conflict.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., is being challenged on the November ballot by Republican John Erickson, former University of Wisconsin Basketball coach and general manager of Milwaukee's National Basketball Association club. Neither had opposition in Tuesday's primary.

Attempt by Welfare

The American party, whose George C. Wallace of Alabama cornered 7.8 per cent of the Wisconsin presidential vote in 1968, entered candidates in seven of the state's congressional races, preparing for what state American chairman Joseph Birkenstock of Two Rivers said could be groundwork for another Wallace presidential attempt in 1972.

The American party also chose Edmond E. Hou-Seye, a Sheboygan businessman, as its nominee for Proxmire's seat. He too was unopposed in the primary.

The Senate poll was Proxmire 250,407, Erickson 160,597 and Hou-Seye 2,127 with only a few of the state precincts uncounted.

Aspin had led La Follette until about 85 per cent of the 1st District's precincts had been tallied. La Follette headquarters said returns from Janesville put their candidate ahead at that point.

Rock County (Janesville and Beloit) delivered 4,129 votes to La Follette and 2,941 to Aspin in the unofficial tally while Aspin carried Kenosha, Racine and Walworth counties.

The last La Follette on the state's political trail was Bronson C. La Follette, an attorney general when he was beaten in 1968 for governor.

Douglas La Follette, 29, is a chemistry teacher at the University of Wisconsin's Parkside branch.

Roman R. Blenski of Cudahy, a persistent candidate who has been seeking state and congressional offices since 1938, bid Tuesday for the Republican nomination for governor and for the GOP nod in Zablocki's congressional district.

In the 4th District primary, Blenski trailed meat salesman Phillip D. Mrozinski 3,772-3,102 with 93 per cent of precincts in. The American party's John A. Zierhut of Milwaukee had 278.

In northern Wisconsin's 10th District Republican Rep. Alvin E. O'Konski has said the 1970 census may deprive Wisconsin of a congressional chair, and that his district will be the one which the legislature eradicates.

He received 22,650 votes in Tuesday's primary to 17,125 for Eau Claire State professor Walter Thoresen, who was unopposed on the Democratic ballot.

Thoreson, 51, has criticized Navy plans for a sprawling north woods radio test project while O'Konski has endorsed the Sanguine project.

U.S. to Sell Israel Jets, Report Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has agreed to sell 16 to 18 more F4E Phantom fighter-bombers to Israel, the Washington Post reported today.

The Post said it had learned of the decision from "well-informed sources."

The agreement reported was reached during discussions at the State Department and the Pentagon over the weekend, the paper said. Deliveries are expected to start later this month at the rate of four or five planes a month through December.

A sale of 50 Phantoms to Israel was announced during the closing days of the Johnson administration, but the Nixon administration has never responded openly to another request early this year by Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir for 25 more.

However, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said at a news conference last week that the original 50-plane contract may imply an agreement for the U.S. to replace losses.

Girl Hit After Dash Into Street

Linda Bruso, 15, 713 Lindbergh St., was taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital Tuesday afternoon after she was hit by an automobile on N. Mason Street, near Badger Avenue.

Appleton police said the girl suffered bruises to her left side, ankle, hip and left shoulder, when she ran east across Mason from between two parked cars, into the path of an auto driven by Ralph J. Koehnke, 30, of 1015 N. Gillette St.

Authorities said that Koehnke had turned off at Badger and was heading north on Mason at the time. The girl was taken to the hospital by the Appleton Fire Department rescue unit.

FAA Safety Seminar To Draw Pilots to Brown County Arena

GREEN BAY — Pilots from Appleton, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac and other areas throughout the state are expected to attend the fourth annual Aviation Safety Seminar at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 21 at the Brown County Veterans Memorial Areana here.

The Federal Aviation Administration, Green Bay Flight Service Station, will sponsor the seminar.

Gerry Mertens, FAA general aviation district office in Milwaukee, will be the guest speaker. Films will be shown and exhibits will be on display.

There is no charge for the seminar.

Hearing to Decide If Court Should Use Statements

A hearing will be held Monday to determine if statements given to Outagamie County authorities by two youths charged with burglary were voluntary.

The attorney for Allen J. Vissers, 19, route 1, and Guy D. Hanagan, 18, of 2000 Welhouse Drive, both Kaukauna made the request in County Court Branch 2 Tuesday, before County Judge Nick F. Schaefer.

In the action, the attorney waived his clients' right to a preliminary hearing. He will file written motions to supress the statements as evidence instead.

The pair allegedly burglarized the Tower Outdoor Theatre, Little Chute, and the Golden Yolk egg ranch in the Town of Vanden Broek on July 31.

Hanagan was found indigent Tuesday, and Schaefer appointed attorney Charles Hartzheim to represent him at county expense. The two youths are free on $1,500 signature bonds.

Menasha Woman Put on Probation

A 20-year-old Menasha woman was placed on probation with the State Department of Health and Social Services Tuesday on two counts of check forgery.

Pamela Sanders, 353½ Second St., previously pleaded guilty to the counts. Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer stayed a two-year prison term Tuesday.

Schaefer ordered restitution, according to the instructions of a state department agent. She also must pay court costs.

State Will Hear Claims by Owners Of Mobile Homes

MADISON — Hearings to study problems facing mobile home owners will be held in September and October, according to C. L. Jackson, administrator of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture's trade division.

They will seek to determine if there is a need for regulations to prevent unfair business practices by mobile home dealers and mobile home park owners and operators.

According to Jackson, numerous complaints have been received from mobile home owners.

The refusal to rent space to persons not purchasing homes, and compulsory and costly tie-in purchases of accessories, fuel, repairs and improvements, have been claimed.

One of the hearings will be held at the Green Bay Courthouse Annex from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sept. 29.

Kaukauna Group to Check Drainage Issue

KAUKAUNA — The Board of Public Works has instructed Chairman George Simon, City Engineer Robert Natrop and City Atty. Donald Green to investigage a drainage problem and the need for sidewalk on E. 12th Street behind Kaukauna Community Hospital.

The committee is to meet with a property owner in an attempt to find a solution to the drainage problem from a low lot in the area and report findings back to the board. The sidewalk, if recommended, would extend from the rear of the hospital to Crooks Avenue.

West Bend News to Publish Daily Edition

WEST BEND — The West Bend News, the state's largest semi-weekly newspaper, will begin daily publication Oct. 5.

Wisconsin's newest daily, the 36th in the state, will be a six-day publication, Monday through Friday evenings and Saturday mornings.

"We made a survey of other six-day operations in the country and found that the few publishers who have converted from Saturday afternoon to Saturday morning were very enthusiastic about the switch," General Manager Mark Huber said.

"In fact, in several cases publishers who had made the change reported that Saturday had become their third best advertising day next to Wednesday and Thursday," he said.

The West Bend News presently has an audited circulation of more than 10,000 on a twice-a-week basis. It is located in Washington County, which grew more than 40 per cent in population during the 1960s.

"We expect a steady growth in our circulation figures as this area continues its rapid growth rate," Huber said.

The News is printed in a modern photo-offset plant and was acquired by Post Corporation of Appleton in May, 1969. Post Corporation owns television, radio, newspaper, insurance, commercial printing, finance and electronic engineering firms in six states. It publishes The Post-Crescent.

Editor John Torinus Jr. said the News will offer a full package of news and features and will continue its emphasis on local news of West Bend and Washington County. The paper doesn't expect to compete with the major Milwaukee papers in terms of blanket world coverage.

"What we can do is provide comprehensive and incisive news coverage of the important local news events happenings in Washington County, Torinus said. "In addition we will give our readers all the major news from the nation and abroad."

The circulation rate for the News will be 55 cents for home delivery on a six-day basis. There will be no change in retail display advertising rates.

It is anticipated the size of the newspaper will vary from 10 to 20 pages during an average week.

Publication of a weekly free delivery Shoppers Guide will continue with a Monday dateline.

By NICK LUDINGTON
Associated Press Writer

DISLI, Turkey (AP) — "We've heard about drugs, but we've never seen them," said an opium farmer. "We don't even drink wine or liquor. We don't talk to those who do. How can we afford to drink?"

The farmer, Hasan Huseyin Unal, 40, was answering a question about the Turkish opium that reaches American addicts as heroin—a matter of concern between the U.S. and Turkish governments.

This remote village is in the province of Afyon, which means opium in Turkish, and is a center for cultivating the poppy which exudes the narcotic. The village consists of a dreary cluster of several hundred mudbrick houses. The only entertainment is a tiny cafe with a dozen rickety chairs.

Unal and a fellow opium farmer, Yusuf Gumush, 39, are typical of the devout Moslem peasants who raise opium poppies. They agree with a sign that warns in large green letters: "Liquor and drugs are the work of the devil."

U.S. Wants Ban

Asked about American efforts to get the Turkish government to ban opium production, Gamush said: "We grow it and we don't use it. Why do they use it? It must be because they have so much money. What sort of government do they have that they can't stop it? They are rich there. Let them think of us."

In Disli, where the soil is poor, opium poppies are a profitable crop.

"The state makes medicine from it," Unal said. The seed inside the poppy pod makes a high-grade vegetable oil used in making bread and other foods. Farmers burn the stalks for fuel and use the crushed seed residue as animal fodder.

"We could never stop growing it. We would oppose this with our blood, our lives," said Gumush. "Our lives would be paralyzed. We might as well be dead."

The Turkish government, encouraged by the United States which charges that 80 per cent of the heroin getting to American addicts originates in Turkish poppy fields, has limited legal opium cultivation to Afyon and three other provinces starting in 1971. Production heretofore has been in 21 provinces.

Party Criticized

There have been loud political repercussions against the Justice party government for setting these limits.

Disli, population 3,000, voted 60 per cent for the Justice party in the 1969 elections. If the government banned opium growth, "we wouldn't let a Justice party man in the village," Unal said.

Gumush, a father of seven and "the eighth on the way," has an income of about $135 a year from a quarter acre in poppies and a half acre in wheat.

Unal, with six children and just under four acres, mostly in opium, is known as the chief farmer of the village.

They said about 90 per cent of Disli's fields are planted in opium. Without the poppy, which grows in dry ground, the village would starve, they said.

Black Market

"Our ancesters and grandfathers grew it. We've been growing it here for 400 years," said Gamush. There is little cultivable land in Disli—"If they ordered that everyone had to be buried in their field when they died, there wouldn't be room for the graves."

The Disli villagers, like all other Turkish opium farmers, deny they have anything to do with the black market but concede that others do.

Unal and Gumush see a simple way to stop the black market: the government should raise the price it pays for legal opium, about $10 per kilogram or 2.2 pounds.

The black marketeers, police sources say, pay double this. A consensus of various opinions indicates that about 30 tons of Turkish opium—one-fifth the total production gets into the black market.

Gumush and Unal condemned U.S. pressure on Turkey to ban opium.

"We can't accept American pressure on the Turkish government—is this a colony?" Gumush asked.

Unal said America is interfering in Turkey's internal affairs and if Turkey bans opium she will have "sold out."

"America is building all sorts of secret weapons. We don't tell them to stop," Unal added.

'Funny' Uncles Don't Run in All Families

BY ANN LANDERS

ANN, BABY: Rocks you've got in your head. What kind of advice did you give the kid who got messed up with his homosexual uncle? That "uncle" routine is an old one. Certainly you remember the vaudeville joke from the 30s that goes like this: "Do you have a fairy godmother?" Reply — "No, but I've got an uncle we're not sure of."

Your advice to the groom—to lay all the cards on the table before the wedding was ridiculous. Why? What for? Funny uncles have been around since the world began. Remember the Romans and the Greeks? If the kid is getting married he's no queer so why rake up all that muck by confessing to a little "diversionary episode" which is fairly standard in most families? Get with it or buzz off. — L.A.

Dear L.A.: Fairly standard? According to whom? I had ten uncles and there wasn't a funny one in the bunch. Ordinarily I would not have advised the groom to make such a confession, but in this case, when the family found out about the "diversionary episode" uncle took the hemlock and "the muck" was the talk of the town.

Landers

To have assumed the bride and her family would never hear about it would have been totally unrealistic. But thanks for your letter. There's something to be said for the style, even without substance.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a foreign-born woman with more than one college degree. I am also beautiful. My marriage was going poorly after one year so I consulted psychiatrists, clergymen and two doctors. They all said, "Divorce him." After five years of sickness, frustration and two beautiful children, I took their advice. It didn't work. My husband was determined to use the children to hurt me. I could not stand to see them suffer so the following year we remarried.

I do not consider him a husband. I view him instead as a bad neighbor. I no longer attempt to communicate. I have many friends to fill my life and I never burden them with my problems. I am studying music, art and philosophy, growing every day, spiritually and intellectually. My husband is growing too — fatter, uglier, and more alcoholic. When we go out together socially I feel as if I am dragging a buffalo.

Please don't ask me, "Why does your husband drink so much?" The question carries the unspoken implication that I am to blame for his alcoholism. I wish to make it clear he was drinking like a fish when I married him. I realize nobody can help me. I am trapped until he dies. But can you tell me why an intelligent, beautiful woman should have such a rotten life? — No Exit

Dear No: I cannot tell you why your life is so "rotten" but I can raise some questions that might provide you with insight. Why would a woman marry a man who "drinks like a fish;" and after having freed herself from what sounds like a living hell, why did she return for more of the same? "I did it for the children" is one of the most overworked excuses in the world. The phrase has a noble ring to it, even heroic, but more often than not, it's untrue.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: There's a $10 bet riding on your answer. You are going to be the sole judge. If a man is walking down the street with his wife and his mother and he meets a guy he works with, who should be introduced first — the wife or the mother? — Battle Weary

Dear Bat: The mother should be introduced first — unless the wife is older.

ON BRIDGE

IRA G. CORN JR.
TEAM CAPTAIN

In relating one of his bridge experiences, Jim Jacoby said, "I learned my first bridge from an optimistic teacher, my father. He advised, 'If you apply yourself diligently and study hard, you will be able to eliminate all basic errors.'

"I learned later he was right. In time, my basic errors just about disappeared. However, you should see some of my advanced ones!"

Jim was the goat in today's hand. Mainly because he is thorough in analysis. Witness his reward for diligence on the following deal:

Opening lead: Five of diamonds.

Jim won the first trick, capturing East's queen of diamonds with his ace. Two rounds of trumps followed, West discarding the diamond deuce. Jim now played spades. East took dummy's queen, cashed the king of diamonds and exited with a spade. Jim cashed both spades, West discarding a club.

The position was now as follows, and Jim would make his contract if he could hold his losses to one club trick. (As the reader can see, this is easily done by finessing against West's queen.)

At this crucial point Jim led the club jack, hoping to find some clue in West's reaction. West unflinchingly followed low.

Before selecting his play, Jim reconstructed the entire hand. Apparently East had started with five spade to the ace, two small hearts, four diamonds to the king-queen (based upon West's discarding in the diamond suit) and therefore only two clubs.

Jim wondered, "If East held the club ace, would he have passed over three hearts?" Probably not. Therefore, East's two clubs did not include the ace but might include the queen.

One step further. If East held two small clubs, West would have the ace and queen. Could West hold both and follow to the club jack with no apparent thought or concern? (See how difficult it is to talk yourself into making an advanced error?)

His analysis over, Jim assumed East held Q-x in clubs, rendering the club finesse futile. So he played the club king and a low club to East's imagined queen. If East had held the queen, East-West would be helpless. If East won the queen, he would be forced to concede a ruff and discard. If West "rescued" by overtaking with his ace, dummy's 10 would become a winner.

When West innocently cashed both his ace and queen to defeat the contract, Jim couldn't help but recall his early bridge errors. "Why did I have to study so hard?" he thought. "Twenty years ago I would not have known enough to go set."

Unemployment Climb Is Likely to Continue

BY SYLVIA PORTER

MYTH: That serious inflation can be curbed in the U.S. society as it exists today without a sharp rise in unemployment.

PERPETRATOR: Richard M. Nixon, who when campaigning for president in the fall of 1968, repeatedly pledged to end the Democrat-caused inflation without forcing the nation through a Republican-inspired deflation. Typical Nixon statement, Oct. 1968: "I strongly disagree with those who say the only way to stop inflation is to let unemployment increase." Typical Nixon spokesman reply when asked what would be a maximum "allowable" jobless rate: 4 per cent range.

Porter

WHAT SMASHED THE MYTH: The business recession of 1969-70, of course, and the resulting sharp rise in unemployment.

Do not for an instant downgrade the good news that the pace of inflation is at last slowing. The annual rate of rise in our cost of living is down from a peak of 8 per cent last fall to under 6 per cent and it's heading lower.

Unemployment Climbs

Q. But why is inflation starting to subside?

A. Because unemployment is climbing and spreading, marginal workers are being eliminated and those with jobs are becoming more efficient (productive). Because an increasing number of plants are idle, our economy is sluggish and it's tougher to raise prices.

In our society as it exists today, we do NOT HAVE THE ANSWERS to relatively stable prices plus full employment. In the fairly crude, primitive economic system in which we live, we do NOT KNOW HOW to mesh full production, full employment and steady prices. There are suggested solutions and I'll analyze them in coming columns. But they are not solutions our policymakers are apparently ready to accept.

Either our economy runs at full speed and everybody who wants to work can choose among jobs — and price rises accelerate.

Or our economy slows down, profits and jobs become scarcer — and price increases decelerate.

Economic Nonsense

That's the way it is. For the President or any one else to pretend otherwise may make political sense but it's economic nonsense.

The progress against inflation is very slight but the overall unemployment rate is already up to 5 per cent. Among youngsters, the rate ranges from 9 to more than 15 per cent. Among black teenagers, the rate is a horrible 30.2 per cent.

— The number of major metropolitan areas with unemployment ranging from 6 to 8.9 per cent is up to 31 and there are close to 600 smaller areas with jobless rates at this level and higher.

— Job vacancies among manufacturing plants are down 48 per cent from a year ago; an index of demand for engineers and scientists is down 50 per cent; the demand for executives, particularly in finance, advertising, marketing and personnel has virtualy collapsed.

— The uemployment rates even so may be underestimates because many would-be workers have simply stopped looking for jobs.

Rate Climbs

What's more, it's only realistic to expect the unemployment rate to continue to climb in the months directly ahead.

Labor Secretary Hodgson suggests the rate may rise to 5.6 per cent before starting to decline. University of Chicago economics professor Milton Friedman thinks it might reach 6 per cent. Raymond J. Saulnier, the late President Eisenhower's chief economic adviser, puts it bluntly:

"Unfortunately, overcoming inflation inevitably involves a sufficient slowdown of the economy to stiffen the resistance of employers to inflationary labor cost increases...."

Walter Heller, the chief economic adviser both to the late President Kennedy and then to President Johnson, warns that if the economy's recovery is as slow as now appears likely, there simply will not be enough jobs to absorb the new workers normally entering our labor force and the veterans returning from Vietnam.

And a Brookings Institution study argues that the "tradeoff" for an unemployment level as low as 4 per cent is an annual inflation of 4 per cent. . . .

To think that just last year, the first Nobel prize in "economic science" was awarded.

Breast Development Often Causes Concern

BY GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a widower and have to act as both father and mother to my daughters, aged 9 and 12. It would be most helpful if you would give some information on adolescent breast development.

What is the oldest age at which parents should be concerned if a young daughter is completely flat - chested? My older daughter has asked several times when she will develop and start wearing a bra. She still has a flat chest with tiny nipples, and is very slim but a healthy girl. She has not had er first menstruation yet.

I thought exercise might help (push-ups, sit - ups). Well, her posture is now very good and I think her entire rib cage lifted. However, the nipples have not risen a fraction of an inch. This was a bit of a disappointment to her. — T.C.

Countless girls (and women) are plagued with "breast-consciousness." It is true that a well-formed bust adds to the figure and lets clothes hang better, but unless this comes naturally, there isn't a great deal to do about it. On the average, the first sign of breast development becomes noticeable at about the age of 10 or 11, but it takes the next four or five years (again, an average) to reach full development.

But remember — and remind your daughter — that maturing varies considerably in both boys and girls. Some are late-bloomers. They just have to wait somewhat longer.

The amount of fat is a factor. Lean girls will be smaller than plump ones, which may disappoint them in the early teens but will be a blessing to them later in life when some of the early-bloomers already are struggling with reducing diets to keep their figures.

Posture is extremely important. While exercise will not directly affect the breast tissue itself, a girl with small breasts and good posture will appear to be bigger than a girl with larger breasts and a slouch. The exercises you mentioned are there is no way to accelerate breast development. Tell your daughter to bide her time, and you stop worrying about it. excellent for developing chest muscqes.

Incidentally having small breasts does not detract from ability to nurse babies when the time comes.

Your daughter needs reassurance. I guess you do, too. But

Thosteson

Some girls, in fact, reach 20 or so and are still developing.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Have you ever heard of "split cartilages"? What causes it in a senior citizen? If this woman is given a tight hug, she gets a sudden pain that lasts a week or two.

Any sudden pressure (such as reaching for something while leaning on the back of a chair or any hard surface) causes pain. She has been X-rayed but there were no broken bones in the area. — E.A.

An old injury involving the cartilage portion of the ribs (connecting to the breast bone) can remain painful or tender for a very long time.

The area is vulnerable to the types of pressure you mention. There could even be an actual separation of the cartilage where it normally connects to the bone. This would not show in an X ray.

Prevention? Caution! Avoid the hugging and leaning.

Hot Stuffed Salad

Tangy Cocktail

With Cucumbers

Tomatoes . . . Red and Ripe

By Lillian Mackesy POST-CRESCENT FOOD EDITOR

Now is the time for all good cooks to come to the aid of their family budgets . . . now is the time when gardens and produce counters are full of tomatoes at the peak of homegrown beauty and flavor.

Probably every housewife has her own favorite recipes for canning and serving this delicious vegetable-fruit, but there's always room for one more excellent recipe when it comes to that garden favorite, the tomato It's good eaten as is with a liberal sprinkling of salt . . . the tomato is delicious sliced or combined with cucumbers in a sweet-sour dressing The tomato takes to broiling, baking, salads and stews:

The red, ripe tomato makes one of the finest of juices because of its abundance of Vitamin C It goes well with meats or with a hearty vegetable course

And, of course, right now tomatoes are economical. So with this in mind, the following recipes are suggested as ones to make more favorites in every family recipe file.

HOT STUFFED TOMATO SALAD

1 envelope Seasoning Mix for Sloppy Joes
½ cup dairy sour cream
¼ cup mayonnaise
1 pkg. frozen peas, cooked and drained
¾ cup cooked fresh mushrooms
6 tomatoes
4 slices crisp bacon, crumbled

Combine contents of seasoning mix, sour cream, mayonnaise. Stir in peas and mushrooms (4-ounce can sliced mushrooms, drained may be substituted for fresh mushrooms).

Make slits in each tomato, beginning at core and not quite cutting through, to form six connected wedges Spread wedges apart to resemble flowers. Fill with mixture, sprinkle bacon crumbles over tops of each tomato. Bake at 350 degrees for about 20 minutes Each tomato makes one serving.

Rice-Stuffed Main Dish or Salad

TANGY TOMATO COCKTAIL

12 medium tomatoes
¼ cup water
1 medium onion, chopped
1 cup chopped celery, including leaves
½ cup chopped green pepper
1 teaspoon dill seed
1 teaspoon prepared horseradish
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
¼ teaspoon powdered cloves
½ teaspoon Tabasco sauce
⅓ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon ground pepper
½ cup water
2 teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Wash and core tomatoes. In a 3-quart saucepan place all

Consumer Spending Falls Below Income

Consumers have sown restraint in their spending patterns since mid-1969 according to information from the Federal Reserve System, says Mrs. Shirley Watson, University Extension Home Economist for Winnebago County Although disposable income has advanced substantially, increases in consumer expenditures have not kept pace with gains in income and the rate of consumer saving has again risen to very high levels.

The moderation in consumer spending has been concentrated in durable goods, although sales of automobiles rose appreciably in June and July. Outlays for nondurable goods have expanded somewhat more than in the previous year and spending for services has continued to increase quite rapidly. But when put in real terms by adjustment for prices increases, total personal consumption expenditures have increased little since the summer of 1969.

Retroactive Payments

One factor limiting the rise in expenditures probably was the special form of part of the second-quarter gain in income: lump-sum payments of retroactive social security and federal government pay increases that were made during the spring of 1970. Sudden increases in income, especially when of a nonrecurring nature, frequently lead to temporarily higher rates of saving.

Other factors also may have contributed to restraint in spending this year. Employment gains weakened toward the end of 1969 and this past spring there was an actual reduction in the number of nonfarm jobs Job cuts have been substantial in the aerospace and some other industries and overtime hours have been scaled back in most major industries. The unemployment rate increased from 3.5 per cent in December to 5.0 per cent in May before declining in June to 4.7 per cent.

Higher Living Expense

Concern about possible difficulty in meeting higher future living expenses, engendered by price rises, also may have contributed to consumers' reluctance to undertake the large new debt obligations that are frequently incurred in the purchase of major durable goods. The rate of price increase in the first half of 1970 — 6.0 per cent — was about unchanged from the second half of 1969.

Moreover, the rise in consumer prices has more than offset the modest increase in average weekly earnings of production workers in the private nonfarm sector of the economy. As a result, real spendable earnings of this group have declined since last summer and are no higher than they were in 1965. The sharp decline in common stock prices this spring has probably also dampened consumer spending as well as altered portfolio decisions to some degree.

Danish Pastry Has Fresh Peach Filling

"Coffee and" becomes a new taste delight when its better half is this great new easy-to-prepare Danish pastry.

PEACH DANISH

1 loaf frozen bread dough
6 peaches, washed, peeled and sliced
1 egg, well beaten
½ cup brown sugar
4 tablespoons butter

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Allow frozen dough to thaw and rise in a warm place on a greased cookie sheet. When double its original size, punch down and knead slightly.

Cut dough into 12 equal pieces. Roll or stretch each piece of dough until a 3-to-4 inch circle is formed.

Place dough circles on greased cookie sheet. Brush top of each circle with beaten egg. Place 3 or 4 peach slices on each circle. Sprinkle two teaspoons of brown sugar on top of sliced peaches and dot top of each with one teaspoon butter.

Allow to rise again until dough has doubled in volume, about 30 minutes.

When dough has risen, bake in 375 degree oven for 20 minutes, or until golden brown Remove pastry from cookie sheet immediately and cool on cake rack. Recipe makes one dozen pastries.

but two tomatoes, cut into quarters, and ¼ cup water. Bring to a boil; simmer 10 minutes. Remove from heat and put through sieve or food mill.

Place remaining two tomatoes, also cut into quarters, in a 2-quart saucepan with all remaining ingredients except salt and lemon juice. Bring this mixture to a boil; simmer for one hour, then put through sieve or food mill. Stir in salt and lemon juice. (If tomatoes are particularly juicy, do not add any extra water.) Recipe makes just over two quarts. Why not use one quart now and freeze the other quart?

To freeze, place heavy plastic bag in one-quart container, pour in tomato cocktail and place in freezer. When frozen solid, remove bag from container and tie top.

Tangy Tomato Cocktail can be served hot (garnish with a tiny spoonful of sour cream) or cold (float a slice of lemon on top).

TOMATO-CUCUMBER SALAD

5 ripe tomatoes
Lettuce

¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup salad oil
⅓ cup vinegar
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon grated onion
1 teaspoon chopped fresh parsley

Wash, core, peel tomatoes. Slice to desired thickness; arrange on lettuce in salad bowl. Figure three or four slices per serving Slice unpeeled cucumber thin; place over top of sliced tomatoes Pour Sweet-Sour Dressing (second part of recipe) over salad when ready to serve.

To make dressing place quarter-cup sugar and remaining ingredients in jar Cover tightly; shake well. Chill for several hours Shake again before serving.

RICE STUFFED TOMATOES

6 to 8 medium tomatoes
1½ cups cold cooked rice
½ cup finely chopped celery
¼ cup finely chopped green pepper
¼ cup finely chopped green onion
¼ cup grated fresh carrot
2 tablespoons olive oil
2 tablespoons cider vinegar
2 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon prepared mustard
2 tablespoons mayonnaise

Wash, peel and core tomatoes; scoop out seeds to make tomato cups. Place bottom side up on paper towel to drain, while preparing rice stuffing.

In a medium bowl, place remaining ingredients and combine well. Fill tomato cups. If to be served cold, chill. Garnish top with sprig of parsley.

If to be served hot, preheat oven to 350 degrees. Place filled tomatoes in baking dish, cover with foil and bake 30 minutes.

Tomatoes can be wrapped individually in foil and placed on an outdoor grill for 15 minutes. Use a low fire or place tomatoes on rack farthest from heat.

Antiques Forum to Enter 2nd Decade

DEARBORN, Mich. — The Midwest Antiques Forum, held annually at Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum, will embark on its second decade when it convenes this year Oct. 12 though 16.

Since its beginning in 1959, the forum has grown both in scope and in stature, and is recognized as the outstanding one of its kind in the central United States.

This year, according to Village and Museum officials, innovations such as panel discussions, illustrated lectures, question periods and guided tours have been designed to encourage greater participation by individual registrants

Discussions and lectures on "Collecting Americana: Know Your Antiques" will be augmented by tours of the Henry Ford Museum's Decorative Arts Galleries and the famous Tannahill Wing of American Art at the Detroit Institute of Arts, and by films and informal tea discussions

The program relates various classes of antiques to aspects of collecting. Participants will learn how to identify antiques, how to care for antiques, how to study and understand them, and how they should be used and displayed in the home.

Outstanding among the lecturers and panelists at the Midwest Antiques Forum are Miss Marilynn Johnson, assistant curator, Metropolitan Museum of Art, Milo Naeve, director and curator of collections, Colonial Williamsburg, Williamsburg, Va.; Col. Edward R. Gilberg, conservator, Old Sturbridge Village, Sturbridge, Mass.; Wendell D. Garrett, managing editor, "Antiques," New York; Graham Hood, curator of American art, Detroit Institute of Arts; Mrs. Helen Bullock, senior editor and historian. National Trust for Historic Preservation, Washington, D. C.,and Minor W. Thomas, Chief Curator, New York State Historical Association, Cooperstown, N. Y.

Shop Around for Best Buy In Health, Beauty Items

BY ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — Two recent marketing surveys indicate that consumers can save from 10 to 25 per cent on the average for health and beauty products by shopping around among stores

In both surveys, discount drug stores showed lower price averages than were found in regular drug stores, supermarkets and discount department stores. But the pattern was not consistent for all products.

One of the surveys was conducted by staff members of the New York State Cooperative Extension Service of Cornell University in New York City. It included 10 products: mouthwash, toothpaste, stainless steel razor blades, spray deodorant. shaving cream, after shave lotion, haircream, hairspray, shampoo and cologne.

The total cost of the same products was $12.12 in a discount drug store, $13 34 in a discount department store and $16 36 in a regular drug store. Potential savings were thus 25 per cent in the discount drug store and 18 5 per cent in the discount department store over the regular drug store

Generally, the larger the container, the lower the cost per unit For example, toothpaste in one store cost 20 cents per ounce for the 3 25-ounce size, 17 cents per ounce for the 5-ounce size and 16 cents per ounce for the 6 75-ounce tube

Differences in net contents, however, were not always apparent from the size of the outer package "Look-alike" cans of deodorant actually contained four, five and six ounces, three similar hairsprays contained 10, 13 and 14 ounces

Considerable savings were found possible within each store surveyed because of the large number of items available There were 44 brands of deodorants and antiperspirants in 56 sizes in one store Sizes ranged from 38 to 14 ounces Types of products ranged from spray, roll-on, dab-on, cream, stick, powder, pad, tube and lotion

The same store offered 26 brands of toothpaste in 27 different sizes from 1 45 to 8 75 ounces

With such a large variety, however, comparison of prices per ounce is virtually impossible without a slide-rule or a per-ounce calculator such as the kind available in many supermarkets now

The other survey was done by Martha Jaffe for this writer in the Washington, D C , area among five stores They included two supermarket chains, two drug chains and an independent discount drug store.

Total cost of 11 items was $8 75 and $8 87 for the two supermarkets, $10 33 and $10 08 for the two drug chain stores and $7 86 for the discount drug store The differences favor the discount drug store by 10 per cent over the supermarkets and 23 per cent over the chain drug stores

The 11 items included deodorant cream, three toothpaste products, five shampoos, one analgesic and adhesive bandages In each case, the same brand and same size were compared

Store brand items were generally cheaper than national brands, particularly in analgesics For example, aspirin prices per 100 pills ranged from 19 cents in the supermarkets to 39 and 43 cents in the two drug chains These were all substantially below brand-name aspirin prices

For a list of these items and prices, including specific brands' in the Washington survey, send a stamped and addressed envelope to Dept C, Consumer News Inc , 813 National Press Building, Washington, D C , 20004

This Time They're Organizing To Save Us From Women's Lib

By JOHN HARTZELL

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The National Organization to Save Womanhood describes itself as a protector of the housewife against the ambitions of women liberationists.

"They think girls should be encouraged to play with trucks instead of dolls, that girls should be taught to be both male and female," Mrs. Donna Sherry said. "We don't think so. Male and female are instincts we're born with, and roles should be kept separate."

Mrs. Sherry, Mrs Jean Gans and Mrs. Gans' sister, Mrs. Katherine Heichler, all in their 20s, organized their group after observing the activities of Women's Strike Day.

"We are not trying to tear women down," Mrs. Gans said. "Those in the women's liberation movement are doing just that, although they say they are doing just the opposite."

"There has got to be an organization that disagrees with this movement," she said. "We checked all over and tried to find one. When we couldn't find one, we started our own. Somebody had to."

Opposes Amendment

The group's first meeting was held last week with nine women and 15 daughters less than 4 years old. They now boast 100 members, and said relatives plan to form chapters in Kentucky, Texas and California.

The group opposes the women's rights amendment approved recently by the House and sent to the Senate.

"The amendment does not mean equality between the sexes, but only abolishes legal distinctions between them," Mrs. Gans said "Laws which protect women would be abolished, and we would be eligible for the draft."

"I feel women are not physically and emotionally equipped to fight in wars," she said. "After all, learning how to cook, sew and clean is not exactly good preparation for soldiers."

The organization says women should not be discriminated against when seeking jobs, and should be paid salaries equal to those paid men for the same work.

Say Husband Responsible

But the members believe their husbands should be financially responsible for the family.

"I was a secretary for seven years, and I waited for the time I could be at home," Mrs. Heichler said.

The organization also objects to women's lib complaints that women are exploited as sexual objects in advertisements.

"Women's liberationists say men and society make us act and be stupid," Mrs. Gans said. "They say we automatically go out and buy a product which is advertised as making us more attractive. Well, this is not true. I buy what I want."

The members believe in looking beautiful.

"A real woman takes pride in being attractive, being noticed," Mrs. Sherry said. "I think women have it good and don't realize it. Women's lib groups are trying to spoil it for us. Just look at the radicals—what they look like."

Mrs. Heichler suggested her group has a philosophy that liberation won't guarantee happiness for women

Rather, "if women are happy, they feel liberated," she said.

Fall Activities Calendar at Y

With families in the swing of the back-to-school routine, the YMCA opens its fall season by offering something for everyone.

Girls between the ages of 7 and 15 are invited to join the Red Beret Girls Chorus, now in its sixth year. Under the direction of Mrs. Clifford Vincent, the chorus will sing for local organizations, present concerts to the public, perform on radio and television and take trips in the area.

Girls may register at the main desk for voice placement and short rehearsal on Sept. 10 and Sept. 17. Regular rehearsals will be from 4 to 5 p m. Thursdays starting Sept 24. Further information about fees may be obtained by contacting the women and girls department.

Horseback riding enthusiasts will be offered recreational and beginning instruction classes in four-week blocs. Sessions for men, women and high school students will be at 6 p m Tuesdays beginning Sept. 15 and Thursdays starting Sept 17. Grade-school and junior high school classes will convene Saturdays as of Sept. 19

Further information about fees and times and arrangements for registration may be made at the main desk. Enrollment will be limited.

Men and women, college and high school students interested in bridge can sign up for eight-week contract bridge classes beginning the week of Sept. 14.

Beginning I will be from 9 to 11 a.m. Tuesdays and from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Mondays From 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesday evenings Beginning II will meet. Mrs. Leroy Thibodeau will instruct in the evening and Mrs. James Burrows in the morning.

Intermediate contract bridge classes will be from 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesdays and from 9 to 11 a.m. Wednesdays with emphasis on proper bidding. Mrs. G. G. Eastwood will lead the morning session, and Mrs. Burrows, the evening.

Registration also is being taken at the main desk for those who would like to begin playing duplicate. The games will be sanctioned and the players will receive points Upon the enrollment of 20 persons, games will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesdays for eight weeks.

Knitters Start

And for knitters, beginning, intermediate and advanced, there will be six weeks of instruction from 7 to 9 p.m. beginning Sept. 15. Open to women and high school girls, the classes will be taught by Mrs. John Kidd, former knitting instructor at the Boston Store, Milwaukee.

Interested persons may register at the main desk.

Men Learning Ale and Females Mix at McSorley's

The Boys in the back are having ale, lots of it, that is if the waiter can get past the girl in the doorway of McSorley's Old Hale House. For 116 years, this has been a haven for men earnestly seeking a spot free of women, but then came Black Monday, Aug. 10, 1970, when McSorley's bowed to the law and finally admitted women. (AP Wirephoto)

BY RICHARD BLYSTONE
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Mounted newspaper clippings the color of dry leaves recall 116 years of genial patrons and notable days at McSorley's Old Ale House. But there is no clipping about THAT day.

The day McSorley's, which claims to be America's oldest saloon, bowed to the law and let the first woman walk up to the bar for a mug of ale.

That was Aug. 10. And now, clipping or no, there's no mistaking that the women are here. Their dresses and blouses make bright patches against the brown-on-brown color scheme.

A few men patrons pretend they aren't there and look to the day when things will be back to normal. Others believe McSorley's is coed for good.

Ale-Dumping Episode

"This was a place where a man could..." comes the refrain from short-sleeved neighborhood men, from sport-shirted collegians with sideburns, from out-of-towners dressed out of the back pages of men s magazines.

Matt Maher, bartender, sips a glass of hot tea during a slack moment and says with Kilkenny brogue:

"Thank God we've had no awkward women yet. Very few. At first we had a few people coming in looking for trouble, but I think that's all over."

Maher recalls the first visit of militant feminist Lucy Komisar which resulted in an altercation: "Somebody dumped a pitcher of ale over her head to calm her down. Quite accommodating.

She's been in since and she's been very nice.

"I've talked with some of these liberation women and they seem quite all right," says Maher. "Women add smething to the place, I think it's all for the best..

How do the "regulars" feel?

'Regulars' Returning

"They'rt starting to come back now. I think they enjoy the women here too, that's my honest opinion.

"In the future you won't have a steady stream of women. But there's the curious and they'll keep coming."

The curious will find full measure of colorful trappings: old lithographs, wooden masks, a ceiling fan and dried wishbone of fowl rich with festoons of soot, arranged like coat hangers along the strut of a lamp.

They won't find some things they might have counted on:

A girl comes out of the lone restroom impartially marked, TOILET, and is cheered by the boys in the back room.

How do the women feel about McSorley's?

"It's not my kind of place," says Marsha McFarland. "The lights are too bright for one thing, and there's no music. It's the type of place you come to once, and that's enough, just to see what it's like."

Needs Moral Support

Marsha came in with Mary Sweeney. Both are in their mid-20s. They came with the neighborhood gang, including boys.

"I need somebody to bolster me up," says Marsha.

Suddenly a chorus of boos breaks out in the back room. The target is a women's liberation button, tiny red fist on white background, on the shirt of a girl in granny glasses.

She stands near the bar with a male companion for one, two, three, four minutes, taking in the scene.

Then they exit to a car where four friends are waiting and drive away.

"It's a challenge to a woman here," says Maher.

"If women come in they have to take the place as it is. We've been here 116 years. I think we'll be here a little longer."

It'll be a long time before McSorley's get chintzes in the windows and Grasshoppers and Alexanders on the menu. This will be a place where a woman can hoist a good honest ale, enjoy the conversation of her peers and drum patterns with a forefinger in the condensation and spill drinks on the table.

WINE On the Table

By William Clifford

A few months ago we reported the opinion of a British expert, Gerald Asher, on the 1968 vintage in Europe. Now Mr. Asher has appraised 1969, and it makes hot news.

You may recall that 1968 was a poor year for many leading vineyard areas. In Bordeaux, red grapes were made into vin rose, while Sauternes was declared a disaster area. Naturally everyone hoped for a better 1969.

As soon as Bordeaux wine merchants saw they were going to be able to make anything identifiable as wine, they declared 1969 another "vintage of the century." They began to sell their still unfinished wines at fabulous prices. They enlisted important retailers to beat the publicity drums and sell futures.

High Praise

One New York merchant wrote that 1969 "promises to be equal to 1961 or 1959 . . . great character (at least as good as any of the past decade) . . . 1969 Boreaux will be magnificent."

Another, who questioned the initial praise, neverthe less concluded they were "truly excellent wines."

Now what about Mr. Asher, who is not trying to sell any 1969 wines in New York? He writes:

Asher Disagrees

"I marvel at the folly or cynicism, or both, that created a preposterous reputation for such frail toys . . . .

"Who could possibly have started the absurd reports of an outstanding year? . . . the wine is comparable only to the 1960s. For the most part, I am sad to say, the reds are bamboo wines — rigid, hollow, and sometimes scrawny."

Asher admits there are exceptions, particularly in Graves. "But even in the Graves I missed that inner core to a wine that one associates with a greater year."

Celery Boon to Weight-Watchers

Celery has been a happy discovery for many on reducing diets. It has sweet and pleasing flavor, is satisfyingly munchable and has a calorie count as petite as 83 per pound, or 3 for a small inner rib. It's not only the determined dieter's standby, but the centerpiece and decoration of every well-set banquet table.

Regardless of its caloric content, celery is a highly esteemed vegetable and seasoning ingredient, usually a thrifty buy as well. One stalk of celery (meaning the whole plant) gives us outer ribs which are excellent served hot as a vegetable, plus delicate inner ribs or heart and, as a special bonus, crisp and flavorful leaves which can be used either raw in a salad or cooked in a soup, stew or sauce as a seasoner.

These two recipes for Fruited Chicken and Ceyrey Salad and Celery "Finocchio" are low in calories, but flavorful enough to tempt those who have no weight problems.

FRUITED CHICKEN AND CELERY SALAD

- ½ cup tomato juice
- 4 teaspoons lemon juice
- ¼ cup finely chopped onion
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
- ¼ teaspoon finely minced garlic
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper
- 2 cups sliced celery
- 2 cups chilled, diced, cooked chicken
- 2 oranges, peeled and sliced into rings
- 1 red apple, cored and diced
- 6 cherry tomatoes, halved
- Celery leaves

Prepare salad dressing by combining in a small bowl tomato and lemon juices, onion, parsley, garlic, salt and black pepper. Mix well and chill.

Just before serving arrange in a serving bowl clusters of celery, chicken, oranges, apple and tomatoes. Garnish with celery leaves. Serve with chilled salad dressing. Or, if desired, toss vegetables, chicken and fruits with dressing in a large salad bowl. Garnish with celery leaves.

Yield: 4 portions, 313 calories, portion

CELERY "FINOCCHIO"

- 2 cups boiling water
- 2 chicken bouillon cubes
- ½ teaspoon onion powder
- ¼ teaspoon fennel seed, crushed
- ⅛ teaspoon salt
- 1/16 teaspoon ground white pepper
- 4 cups sliced celery

In a large skillet combine water, bouillon cubes, onion powder, fennel seed, salt and white pepper; stir until bouillon cubes are dissolved. Add celery. Simmer, uncovered, 8 to 10 minutes, or until celery is crisp tender and most of the liquid has evaporated. There are 12 calories per portion in this 6-serving recipe.

Mothers of Twins To Gather Oct. 17 At State Convention

The third state convention of the Wisconsin Organization of Mothers of Twins Clubs will be Oct. 17 at the Midway Motor Lodge, Kenosha.

On the agenda are two workshops. One "Drug Abuse" will be conducted by two members of the Kenosha Police Department. Dr. Martin Monson an identical twin and dean of education at Cathage College, Kenosha will conduct the second. Also planned are a business session luncheon banquet installation of officers and entertainment. Hostess club will be the Kenosha Mothers of Twins Club.

For further information or reservations, members of the various state clubs may contact Mrs. Harry Orth, 920 40th Place, Kenosha.

Rights and Privileges at UW

In a stunningly candid interview, Chancellor H. Edwin Young of the University of Wisconsin Madison campus has shown that behind the gentle appearance of a man who has spent much of his life as a serious scholar there is a will to confront the unfortunate reality of life on the University of Wisconsin campus.

Clearly intending to convey his willingness to apply measures as stern as may be required to restore an atmosphere of decency that ought to be the hallmark of an academic environment. Dr. Young disclosed among other startling matters that his own life has been threatened during the prolonged period of disruption on his campus, and that some of the principal academicians on his staff are frustrated and demoralized by events. But his own conceptions of the legitimate government of a public institution are those that will be endorsed by the vast majority of responsible Wisconsin constituents who have provided the means to permit the school to reach worldwide recognition and distinction.

"We gave away more of our rules over the years," he observed. "Everything is loaded on the side of maximum freedom."

Then, in what is surely proof of the depth of his grief and apprehension about the volatility of the situation at Madison as he prepares for the giant influx of students for the fall term, he candidly laid some of the blame on the permissiveness that has been generated by court rulings of recent times.

Court-made law has held that enrollment at a university is not a privilege, contrary to all precedent and logic as well as common sense, but a right. Such pronouncements have made administrators more cautious, he observed, leaving unsaid what is perhaps the obvious corollary, that they have emboldened some of the more presumptuous of the rebel "spokesmen" for the student body.

Acutally, we doubt that there are more than a handful of literate persons in Wisconsin who would argue that matriculation at the University is a "right," in absolute terms. Academic eligibility rules remain, as an example. Tuition liability, which is generously low for some of these scions of the indifferent families of the nonresident students who turn up so often in the lists of campus disrupters, remains in force as a condition for admission. Surely reasonable rules on student conduct would be upheld by the vast majority of the people of Wisconsin as a responsibility of the university's management, as obedience to them by students will be supported by that majority as a condition of student eligibility. Finally, and at the risk of an accusation of chauvinism, this state will violently resent any inference that the rebel son of a New York parent who has contributed not a dime to the tax coffers of this state has a "right," in the most liberal interpretation of law and equity, to demand enrollment at a Wisconsin tax-supported institution.

Mr. Young has delivered himself of an implicit intention to apply a firmer hand at Madison that has been wanting for too long.

The Student Mind

It is becoming more and more difficult for the adult resident of Wisconsin, however earnestly his intentions, to understand the gyrations of the mind of the young students of the University of Wisconsin and elsewhere who presume to act as spokesmen for their fellows.

Consider the recent and untimely — to put the most gentle interpretation upon it — statement of a 19-year-old nonresident student named David Van Vort, who was chosen by the UW regents to sit with its screening committee in the proceedings involving the examination and selection of a new president of the University to succeed the retiring Fred H. Harrington.

It is important to remember that the regents have thus far deliberated in private, and that they have managed thus far to avoid premature disclosure not only of the names of the candidates who have offered their services, but of the others whom they may have considered, in background, temperament and other terms, as potential successors. We doubt seriously that more than a handful of persons outside the board membership now has the slightest notion of the number or names of finalists who will be considered.

But Mr. Van Vort could not wait to let these things become known, for a public judgment and a faculty judgment, not to mention a judgment by the student population. He took it upon himself to judge the proceedings according to his own tastes, with an impertinent public denunciation of his elders and superiors.

Says he petulantly:

"No priority was placed on picking a president who would be able to relate to students as creative beings with capacity for growth."

Aside from the curious vagueness of this criterion demand by Van Vort, how are we to judge, how is anybody to judge, the validity of this impertinent judgment of a very young man, until all others involved including the people of Wisconsin know the identity of the choice, or the names of the competitors, their experience, their records, and their previous service in relation to the bundle of challenges and troubles that will surely be bequeathed to the next head of the University?

Mr. Van Vort is a resident of New York City. We are not intimately acquainted with the rules for the selection of the heads of public institutions there. But we are reasonably certain that a student plebiscite is not required, as this guest of the people of Wisconsin appears to be demanding that we write into our own code of rules governing. It needs only to be added that, in the familiar refrain of the student protesters in Madison, that Van Vort concluded his indignant complaint in the form of an ultimatum. Unless his anomalous prescription prevails, he says, he predicts "the death of this university within a year."

Another High-Level Error

Sometimes the mistakes of diplomacy are amazing.

Only a couple of weeks after the Equal Rights Amendment overwhelmingly passed in the House of Representatives, President Nixon planned a state dinner at the Hotel del Coronado in California for the President of Mexico. The waitresses were excited. They planned new hair dos. Some even bought expensive wigs. It was to be a very special occasion.

And then it was announced that there would be no waitresses — only waiters since that was the custom in the White House.

Since the outcry and threats of making claims under the Civil Rights Act of 1964 which prohibits employment discrimination by sex, spokesmen for the White House have hastily explained that it was all a misunderstanding. The regular waitresses were used although they were assisted by about four times as many waiters.

Obviously there have been some red faces. But the incident brings up another question. Since 1964 have Presidents of the United States been violating a bill signed by one into law by hiring only men to wait table at the White House? What's all this about law and order?

Misgivings and Alarm

Russo-German Treaty Makes Soviet Top European Power

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

BONN. — Behind the scenes, our embassy here is flashing Secretary of State William P. Rogers many misgivings about the Russo-German friendship treaty, and our NATO leaders are privately in downright alarm.

No amount of face-saving diplomatic sing-song on the surface changes the underlying facts. The Brandt-Kosygin pact brings Russia into Europe, makes Russia (not the United States) the decisive power in Europe, and further fulfills the unwavering Soviet ambition to be the No. 1 power in the world instead of the United States.

The Kremlin is offering the Germans a privileged, preferential position in an area where the possibilities have always fascinated and attracted them. Our embassy can hardly forget Bismark's eastward-pointing politics, the 1922 German deal with the Russians at Rapollo, the Hitler-Stalin pact, etc. Each, in turn, was ultimately disastrous for the Western entendre. And, now again, comes the Russian bait.

Soviet People Starved

To achieve her tremendous and draining arms and outer-space expenditures and to finance her interventions in Vietnam, the Middle East and elsewhere, the Soviet has starved her people not only of food but of peace-oriented technology and capital.

But having got a grossly one-sided political treaty out of Chancellor Willy Brandt, the Soviet is now giving him the privilege of vastly improving the weaknesses in Russia's economy that are due to (1) Soviet militarism, (2) Soviet satellite imperialism, and (3) the repressive, inefficient Communist system itself.

Our worried embassy here is privately calling this "misdirected development aid with a vengeance."

Notoriously, the Kremlin uses trade as a political weapon. This country, France, Italy, Belgium, Britain and other NATO allies of the United States are already moderately involved — but only moderately. Now Brandt has agreed that West Germany is to supply the Soviet with technical and financial assistance and the erection of immense modern industries on a vast scale that includes even the opening up of far-off Siberian mineral resources.

Partner of USSR

Like the difference between wading in a pool and jumping off a ship in high seas, it is the vast dimensions of this Russo-

Taylor

Soviet deal that represent its real meaning. West Germany, next to the United States and only lately next to Japan, is the world's largest producer, and the Brandt-Kosygin pact makes West Germany literally a "working partner" of the USSR.

Our embassy feels that the Kremlin is saying that it's silly to buy golden eggs when you can buy the goose that lays them.

Meanwhile, time and inactivity and the cynical switches in Soviet velvet-glove, iron-fist diplomacy have dulled the fighting edge of the resisting NATO forces that we so predominantly pay for over here, and all following the blow of France's operational withdrawal.

The NATO pact was signed in 1949, and West Germany was admitted in 1955. The cement that has held NATO together has been a fear of the USSR.

West Germany's 440,000-man force is the largest contingent. But of the entire NATO force. 310,000 are Americans — kept here at an estimated annual cost of $9,000 a man. And 250,000 of these 310,000 Americans stand here guarding West Germany against invasion while Brandt insists that none of these Americans be brought home.

Through all these years our NATO allies, except West Germany, have never supplied the forces of their own called for by the successive agreements. But the shocking deficiency now takes on added significance.

Our NATO commanders confirmed to me in Brussels that, if you include the French forces, NATO now has 1,950,000 soldiers and 4,200 planes in Western Europe. They also confirmed a leak that the United States has 16,000 atomic warheads deployed here. The Soviet short-range nuclear deployment is similar. And they gave me their estimate of the opposing Warsaw Pact forces. These are relentlessly growing, growing, growing.

Our NATO commanders find that there are today 2,815,000 soldiers and 12,250 — yes, 12,250 — military aircraft in the Soviet-led Warsaw Pact contingents. (If you add one to one, the most simple addition, the Warsaw Pact force now contains nearly a million more soldiers and about three times the air force of NATO.)

This is how we actually stand behind the scenes in the face of the Brandt-Kosygin deal.

Potomac Fever —

Some people say this country is as sound as a dollar — but Dick Nixon insists things aren't all that bad.

The budget deficit may hit $20 billion this year. And that last line on treasury drafts — "it is suggested that this check be promptly negotiated" — is beginning to sound ominous.

One of this country's problems is that those people who blow up buildings are convinced they're the only ones who are really sane.

Wisconsin Report

Give Credit to Those Who Were Losers in Yesterday's Voting

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — On this day when up to a thousand ambitious men are celebrating their nominations for offices high and low by the voters of Wisconsin in the primary election, spare a sympathetic moment, dear reader, for the other hundreds whose aspirations, pride, vanity, and confident conviction that they would have been able to serve usefully in public office have been spurned.

It is undoubtedly an occupational hazard of my trade. But I have always had an affection mingled with admiration for the men who have the pluck, or the self-esteem, or whatever, to submit themselves to the merciless examination of the body politic as candidates for public place, not to mention the typically harsh review of their qualities by their rivals. I hasten to added, moreover that the feeling is not always or even generally reciprocated, which is doubtless as it should be. The late H. L. Mencken, one of the idols of my youth, was fond of saying that the honest reporter and the good politician are natural born antagonists. Perhaps the best that can be looked for in their relationships is that a feeling of mutual respect can be established.

Politician Is Strange

The politician is a strange animal, as no one knows better than the man who has spent all his adult years watching him and his brethen.

This is not derogatory. One of the immortal philosophers of the West said that man himself is a political animal.

The politician will spend more time, money and labor on the campaign trail — enough to make his doctor shudder in apprehension — than he would in virtually any other profession which might have attracted him. He will make arguments, proposals, accusations and attacks upon his rivals that would make him blush if his mother could hear them.

The politician practices the only profession in which he can insult and impugn and denigrate his rival with words that in his great-grandfather's time would have brought a bid for a duel from his antagonist, and not so long ago would have brought a demand for a meeting behind the saloon.

Much of the performance, of course, is play acting, which is the reason that men who have exchanged insults can manage to maintain a fair degree of civility in their relations later — as shown after each election as men of opposing parties normallty get along with a decent cordiality when they are serving in the legislature, as a familiar example. A politician can complain in the most piteous tones about the work of a reporter in relating his activities, even to denouncing him from the privileged sanctuary of the floor of the legislature, and then a few days later, grinning in a kind of oblique apology, walk up and shake hands. Translated, that means: "You know what kind of a game this is."

Tempting Detours

It is because the journalist observes politics so intimately, perhaps, that colleagues from time to time surrender to the temptation to enter the trade. This reporter believes he has acquired immunity. But it was not always thus.

A decade or more ago my city was redistricted for representation in the city council and the county board. Among the consequences was the creation of a new ward including my home. A candidate for alderman who had already made himself known appeared adequate. But there was no one in sight for county board supervisor.

One night I idly asked my spouse: "What would you say if I ran for the seat?" hastily adding that it would be, of course, a splendid opportunity to broaden my practical grasp of public affairs.

The reply was brief.

"What it you lose?" she asked.

Never was a temptation overcome so suddenly.

Strictly Personal

Shiftlessness Often Due to Environment

(During his vacation, we are reprinting selections from Mr. Harris' latest collections of columns in book form, "Leaving the Surface.")

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

We're all aware of the double standard about sex, but few are aware of the even more pervasive double standard about children. I thought of this the other day, while listening to a man talking about the "shiftless" young people in the slums.

This man, I happened to

know, has a son who is lazy and not overly bright. Yet he has a responsible and well-paying job with a firm owned by a friend of his father's. The lad was about to flunk out of school, and was given special tutoring over the summer. He finally got his diploma from a third-rate prep school and managed to enter a fourth-rate college, where he barely squeezed through. He has had all the advantages a young person could have — in parents, home environment, counseling, financial support, special schools and camps tutors. Yet, with all this help, and tutors. Yet, with all this help, his job is still largely a matter of nepotism. Left to himself, he would sink.

no disgrace. He is simply not a very energetic or mentally gifted person. But his deficiencies are skillfully camouflaged by his protective environment.

While this is an extreme example, it is by no means an unusual case of what happens among the more affluent, when their sons find it difficult to cope with the competitive world. Everything possible is done to lift them up to the level of the family's expectations.

But we have a double standard about other people's children — especially if they come from the disadvantaged classes. If they lack parental supervision, have a poor home environment, no counseling, inferior schools, and not much motivation for success — we still expect them to make it on their own, or we condemn them for "shiftlessness."

If he children of the privileged were thrown into the same cultural cesspool, there is no earthly reason to believe they would do any better; in fact, even with their advantages, many still find it hard to make good marks and meet the world head-on. It is a tough race today, even with all the help available.

What is remarkable about the slums is not that so many fail, but that so many rise. That even a minority is able to surmount the nearly-killing environment is a tribute to human tenacity and courage and talent. The ones who make it have to be twice as good as anyone else; and how many of our children could we say that of?

Mets, Cubs Gain on Bucs; NL History May Repeat

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was one year ago today that the New York Mets swept a twi-night doubleheader and, for the first time in their adventurous young lives, moved into first place in the National League's East Division.

A combination of circumstances, some of it their own doing and much of it Pittsburgh's and Chicago's, has placed the Mets in a position to celebrate that anniversary on top of the heap again — provided they can sweep another twi-nighter.

New York moved to within one-half game of the first place Pirates Tuesday, whipping Montreal 10-5 while third place Chicago, only one game behind, walloped Pittsburgh 10-3.

The Mets, who've won four straight and seven of the last nine, play a twi-night doubleheader against Philadelphia tonight while the Pirates entertain St. Louis. A sweep by the Mets would assure them of at least a share of the lead, regardless of what the Pirates do. Chicago played an afternoon game against Montreal.

Elsewhere in the National League Tuesday, St. Louis whipped Philadelphia 6-3, Houston outlasted San Diego 8-7, Atlanta edged Los Angeles 3-2 and Cincinnati tripped San Francisco 5-2.

The Mets exploded for six runs in the eighth inning against the Expos with Ken Boswell's bases-loaded double driving home three and reliever Tug McGraw's bases-loaded single producing three more.

McGraw worked five strong innings of relief to nail down the victory but needed ninth inning help from Ron Herbel after Bob Bailey tagged a three-run homer for Montreal.

The Pirates, meanwhile, who've been out of first place only two days since July 11, absorbed another whipping from the Cubs.

Bill Hands scattered eight hits and Chicago collected 15 including three each by Randy Hundley, who drove in three runs, and Ron Santo, who drove in two. Joe Pepitone had a two-run triple and the Cubs also took advantage of 10 bases on balls issued by Pittsburgh pitchers. The Pirates have dropped nine of the last 14 while Chicago has soared into contention by winning eight of the last 11.

Steve Carlton pitched a four-hitter and contributed two timely hits to St Louis' attack as the Cardinals hung on to fourth place in the East by whipping Philadelphia.

Carlton doubled and scored the Cards' go-ahead run in the Four Americans Gain Quarter-Finals

Ralston Ousts Laver in 'Open' Upset

BY WILL GRIMSLEY

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — It's the U.S. Davis Cup team coach and players — against Australia leading into the quarter finals of the U.S. Open Championships, and there's a hint the pendulum may be swinging away from Aussie monopoly of the big time tennis

Among the last eight survivors in the men's singles, there are four Yanks. There are only three Australians menacing as they are, and a lone New Zealander, unseeded, unnoticed and unfeared.

"Training for the Davis Cup helped us all," said Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., the U.S. coach. "We worked hard. We hit a lot of balls We worked ourselves into top physical shape and tuned our games."

It was Ralston, 28, contract pro, once the boy wonder of tennis, who pulled off the greatest coup Tuesday when he ousted Rod Laver of Australia, the defending champion and top-seeded favorite, 7-6, 7-5, 5-7, 4-6, 6-3.

"It was my biggest win ever," said Ralston, who ranked No. 1 nationally for three straight years from 1964 through 1966 yet never won a major title.

Ralston was joined later in the quarter-finals by tough, scrappy Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., who was voted the most valuable player in America's Davis Cup victory over West Germany at Cleveland 10 days ago. They play next.

Richey overcame some early rustiness and beat Manuel Santana of Spain, former Wimbledon and U.S. winner, 2-6, 7-6, 7-5, 6-1.

Already in the quarter-finals waiting for them were two other Davis Cup members, Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., who upset Australia's Roy Emerson, and Arthur Ashe Jr. of Richmond, Va., who won the inaugural U.S Open in 1968.

Today Smith plays Rosewall, the 35-year-old Australian, who once was the best player in the world, and Ashe goes against Wimbledon champion John Newcombe. Newcombe is seeded No. 2 and Rosewall No. 3.

The third Australian, lefty Tony Roche, seeded No. 4, plays Brian Fairlie, the unseeded New Zealander, while Ralston and Richey clash in an all-American match that assures the United States of at least one semifinalist.

Finals Sunday

These matches will be played Thursday Both men's semifinals will be staged Saturday with the final offering a $20,000 first prize, Sunday.

The women's matches will be staggered also, leading to the last round Sunday when the winner will get $7,500.

The women's favorite, Margaret Court, faces another Australian, Helen Gourlay, in the quarter-finals today with Nancy Richey. Cliff's older sister, opposing Lesley Hunt of Australia.

Miss Richey, No. 1 in the U.S. Rankings, and Rosemary Casals of San Francisco remain America's hopes of halting Mrs. Court's bid for a sweep of the major championships—a grand slam of the Australian, French, Wimbledon and U S titles which the late Maureen "Little Mo" Connolly won in 1953

Miss Casals, seeded No. 2, advanced to the semifinals Tuesday by beating Kerry Melville of Australia 6-4, 4-6, 6-4. Her semifinal opponent will be Virginia Wade of Britain, who eliminated Francoise Durr of France 5-7, 6-4, 6-0.

Elongated End Faces Bills Next

Bengtson Likes Trade for Williams Better Than Ever

BY LEE REMMEL
Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — The Packers, Coach Phil Bengtson cheerfully admits, got more than they bargained for in Clarence Williams.

Bengtson, discussing the recently-acquired defensive end following Tuesday's practice, had specific reference to the former Dallas Cowboy's physical dimensions.

The artistic promise he exhibited in his Packer debut against the Cincinnati Bengals over the weekend had been expected, the Packer headmaster noted in passing.

Commenting on Williams' stature, which had made an immediate impression upon the press corps, Bengtson said, "He's 6-7," then added flippantly, "He'll probably make our basketball team."

A Trifle Generous

Clarence, listed as a mere 6-foot-5 in the Cowboys' press guide, subsequently indicated the coach had been a trifle generous

"Actually," he said with a smile, "I'm about 6-5¾ or 6-6."

Whatever the figure, Bengtson is well satisfied.

"That height of his," he explained, "is one of the features we were particularly attracted by."

Assessing Williams' baptismal against the Bengals, Bengtson said, "Clarence looked good ... We were pleased. He has good action, good quickness. But that, of course, is about what we had expected after seeing him against us and getting a good look at him on film before we made the trade."

Although Williams is currently employed exclusively at end, the Packer leader admitted, "I don't see why he couldn't play tackle, too.

Thinking in Reverse

"We used to think players of his height were too tall to play tackle but I guess we were thinking in reverse. Lack of height is a disadvantage out at end but it shouldn't be a disadvantage at tackle.

"So if a tall boy can bend over, as the scouts say, there shouldn't be any reason why he can't play tackle. The trouble with a guy like that is that he has so much blocking surface, so he has to be able to get down enough so that he can protect that area ... In this boy's case, he's a pretty good athlete.

Williams, a former Prairie View A & M performer, subsequently expressed satisfaction with his new football home.

"I like it here," Clarence reported. "This system is a lot easier than the one we had in Dallas. I like this defense because it's more of a penetrating defense whereas the Cowboys' is more of a reading and keying type of defense. This one is not as confusing as the one I left."

Appraising his first Packer performance, Williams confided, "Considering that I had only been here three days before the game, I felt I did a fairly decent job. I made a few mistakes, but I didn't know the defenses that well."

The 250-pound Sweeny, Tex., native is likely to receive another extensive test in Saturday night's pre-season finale against the Buffalo Bills in Lambeau Field but Malcolm Walker, the other Cowboy acquired in the Adderley deal, will not see action.

"We want to get Walker

McLain, Tiger Officials to Meet Kuhn

NEW YORK (AP) — Pitcher Denny McLain goes on the carpet today before Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn to explain his conduct of late.

McLain got into hot water again recently after dumping a couple of buckets of ice water on two Detroit sports writers, but the closed session with Kuhn had an air of mystery

The commissioner has refused to discuss the situation, saying only: "Information brought to my attention has raised the question of whether McLain's conduct in recent days have been consistent with the requirements of the probationary status."

Summoned along with McLain to today's hearing were, Campbell; Manager Mayor Smith, Vice President Rick Ferrell, Tiger player representative Jim Price, director of player personnel Walt "Hoot" Evers and team physician Dr. Clarence Livinggood.

A Tigers' spokesman said that Ferrell and Price would not attend the meeting. Ferrell has scouting obligations.

Price was expected to catch tonight's game against Boston in Detroit if X-rays of his right shoulder Tuesday night were negative. A pitch was fouled off his shoulder in the game against Red Sox Tuesday night.

Milwaukee Suggestion

Wants to Rename Stadium for Vince

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee County Stadium should be renamed in honor of the late Vincent T. Lombardi, a Milwaukee County supervisor said Tuesday.

The stadium is the home of the Brewers baseball team and the Milwaukee site of the Green Bay Packers football games. Lombardi, who died of cancer last Thursday, was a former coach and general manager of the Packers.

Supervisor Michael J. Barron, in a resolution prepared for next Tuesday's County Board meeting, said the board has reframed from naming the 17-year-old stadium "until such time as an appropriate individual would be worthy of having the stadium named after him"

Lombardi's death, the resolution says, has "provided us with an excellent opportunity and a most worthy man to name our stadium after"

Lightning Kills Two More Prep Gridders

CLEVELAND (AP) — Two suburban Beachwood High School football players were killed Tuesday when struck by lightning as they were leaving the school practice field.

The boys were identified as Arny Finkle and Robert Jacobs.

A spokesman at Suburban Community Hospital said several other boys were knocked to the ground but were not injured seriously.

Two young gridders were killed when struck by lightning Monday in St. Petersburg, Fla., as their team huddled on the practice field.

Angler Lands 980-Pound Bluefin Tuna

NORTH LAKE, P.E.I. (AP) — A 980-pound bluefin tuna, believed to be a world record catch, was landed in waters off here Tuesday by Lee Coffin, fishing from the vessel Aquarius.

The largest tuna taken previously was a 977-pounder landed in 1950 at St. Ann's Bay, N.S. by Cmdr. Duncan M. Hodgson of Montreal.

Steelers Set Examination

Bleier May Require Additional Surgery

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bob "Rocky" Bleier, former Appleton, Wis., Xavier High School star, may require additional surgery because of a wound recieved in Vietnam, the Pittsburgh Steelers said Tuesday.

Bleier, 23, has not been making the progress expected, the National Football League team said. He was unable to practice Tuesday.

Dr. John Best, the Steelers' team physician, and Army doctors will examine Bleier to make the final decision on whether further surgery is required.

Bleier, a former Notre Dame co-captain, made the Steeler team as a rookie in 1968. But he was drafted before the season ended and suffered shrapnel wounds in his right leg and foot in August, 1969.

Scott Casts Lot With ABA

NBA's New Buffalo Team Loses Center To Virginia Squires

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — The opening of the Buffalo Braves' National Basketball Association training camp was marred Tuesday by the desertion of a top expansion draft choice to a rival league.

Ray Scott, a 6-foot-9 center obtained from the Baltimore Bullets by the new NBA club, fled to the Virginia Squires of the American Basketball Association.

The Squires announced Tuesday that Scott had signed a long-term contract with them.

Scott said he left the Braves because "the way things were going I knew I wouldn't get a chance to play on a winning team for quite some time."

The Braves said their lawyers were looking into Scott's signing with the ABA club. He was reported to have two years to go on a three-year pact with the NBA.

Pattin Still Brewer Ace

Roof's Blast Tops Twins, 3-2

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Oakland A's showed up a night early at Metropolitan Stadium and gave Milwaukee Brewers's catcher Phil Roof these instructions:

Beat the Minnesota Twins.

Roof, with the A's until they traded him to Milwaukee before this season, got the message.

"I talked with some of their guys before the game," Roof said. "They told me to go out there and win one for them to keep them in the race. I know it had more effect on my play with them watching." Roof slammed a two-out high curve from Ron Perranoski into the left field seats for a two-run homer that shot the Brewers to a 3-2 victory over the Twins and cut Minnesota's lead over Oakland in the American League West to 5½ games.

Roof actually didn't need the message from his former mates. He went into the game hitting .421 against the Twins. He also singled and now has hit four of his 11 homers against Minnesota pitching.

Law of Averages

"You would think the law of averages would catch up with him," shouted manager Bill Rigney of the Twins as he slammed his open palm on his desk and walked out of his office.

As it turned out, however, the law of averages did catch up with Roof.

"I'm so excited I can't believe it," he said. "It's been six years since I won a game with a late inning homer. The last time was

LSU's Duhe Dies of Brain Hemmorhage

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Herman "Butch" Duhe, 21, a promising Louisiana State University quarterback who was kept from summer workouts by headaches, is dead of a brain hemmorhage.

Duhe, a 6-foot-2, 192-pound junior, died at the LSU Infirmary Tuesday. A report by Baton Rouge Coroner Chester Williams fixed the cause of death, and added that it was not associated with any injury.

Duhe led his team to victory in the annual intrasquad game this spring after gaining 121 yards last season as LSU's No. 3 quarterback. He was expected to contend for the starter's job this fall.

BY LEE REMMEL

Mike Carter is a 15th round choice, a status which is hardly calculated to breed confidence in a rookie's breast.

He is well aware, further, that many are called and few are chosen in National Football League training camps each summer — especially those low on the numerical ladder.

But if sheer application to the task at hand will pull it off, the muscular former Sacramento State flanker stands a good chance of making the professional grade. Carter, a 6-foot-1, 210-pound San Francisco native, freely admits he is spending every practice minute—and some of his leisure — striving to mold himself in Carroll Dale's football image.

Takes Notes

"When the veterans first came to camp, I knew I wasn't as good a receiver as they are," he says, "so I watched Carroll like a hawk for the first two weeks. No matter what pattern he ran, I watched every move he made "I even took notes. I tried to remember different things he did and when I got back to the dressing room I would write it down.

"It's just like going back to school for a couple of weeks," Mike smiled. "Now I'm trying to get it down myself."

It well may be that his efforts will bear fruit. Carter, a teammate of such as O J Simpson and Al Cowlings at City of San Francisco Junior College before transferring to Sacramento State, is making perceptible progress in his bid for employment.

Bob Schnelker, who coaches the passing game, is favorably impressed with the recruit who hopes to join Dale, John Spilis and Jack Clancy in the Packers' wide receiver corps

Finds System Different

"Mike has speed, balance, good hands ... He's got everything," says Schnelker, who is known to be esonomical with verbal bouquets.

Carter, in turn, confides that the former New York Giant flanker has changed his approach.

"Coach Schnelker has really opened my eyes to the passing game as a team thing," Mike reports. "I always thought of it as just being between two people, the quarterback and the receiver.

"Now I realize it's a team effort — the quarterback and all five receivers, plus the pass protectors. "It's quite a bit different, being a pro flanker. In college, I was given quite a free hand in running patterns. And I was the primary receiver about 80 per cent of the time.

"Here I have to run through certain zones and clear 'em out. Here I run a certain pattern and they throw to me if I'm open. If I'm not, they throw to somebody else. I didn't have to block that much in college, either ... It's been a pretty big change but whatever it takes to be a success, I'm willing to try it."

Starts as Quarterback

Mike, a compact citizen who started his football career as a quarterback at San Francisco's Lowell High School, and later was moved to tight end in junior college before becoming a flanker, is constructed more along the lines of a running back than a wide receiver.

But, he is quick to assure with a ready grin, "I've never thought about playing running back. After I catch the ball, I like to run with it. But running through the line always did bother me"

Mike depreciates his 4.7 speed in the 40-yard dash, facetiously asserting, "My second 50 is the fastest ... I don't have a quick start at all."

Assessing his chances of remaining, Mike says, "When the vets first came in, I saw all the competition and I knew I'd really have to put out. It looks now like I might come out on top this time."

Coach Phil Bengtson may have to keep Carter, who has survived in contention with former Michigan State star Frank Foreman and former UW-M flanker Terry Fredenberg, by popular demand ... he can play both the piano and organ.

"I played the piano for the vets when we were in Palo Alto practicing for the Oakland game," he said adding with a significant smile, "it was required when they found out I could play."

ready for the league season," Bengtson said. "We want to rehabilitate his knee a little more before we put him into a game."

Walker, who has been the Cowboys' regular center the last three years, presently is considered a reserve offensive lineman, Bengtson said, adding, "The way things go, that could change from week to week. . .A reserve lineman has to be pretty versatile."

The former Rice athlete has played tackle as well as center and it is felt that he also could be used at guard, if necessary.

Bengtson, who had been quick to note that his athletes had been off key in their 10-10 tie with the Bengals, said he had found their performance equally flat on film.

"The flattest thing was the dropping of passes," he informed. "Really, the quarterbacks (Bart Starr and Don Horn) were pretty sharp. The statistics weren't too good but if we had caught the ones that were dropped, it could have made a heckuva difference ... The protection was good — the offensive line blocked well.

"Defensively, we allowed only three points (Cincinnati's touchdown came on an interception). They had two long runs, and we didn't look very good there. And they had one successful draw play. But that was it.

"Other than that," Bengtson said, "the coverage was good for the most part, although, on the first play of the game, we missed a tackle and got ourselves in trouble."

PACKER PATTER — Jack O'Malley, the former USC lineman acquired on waivers from the 49ers late last week, is being given a trial at guard ... O'Malley, a college teammate of the Pack's Bill Hayhoe, who had been a defensive lineman with the Gold Diggers, was installed there as Tuesday's practice opened.

Dave Bradley, whose absence occasioned the O'Malley experiment, viewed the workout from the sidelines in civvies — with his left arm in a sling .. Bradley underwent surgery last Thursday morning to mend a separated shoulder .. Don Bliss, who formerly understudied Bradley, is now working at tackle.

Hortonville, Waupaca, New London Challenge

Berlin Looms as East Central Favorite

BY ROGER PITT
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Berlin rates as the favorite to cop first honors in the new East Central Conference.

But you can't count out Hortonville. Waupaca or New London. Other teams that barely rate dark-horse status are Ripon, Omro, Winneconne and Weyauwega.

Berlin has the numbers — both in returning lettermen, experience and size — when team rosters are reviewed. Waupaca and Hortonville have momentum on their sides as they come off winning campaigns

Powerful Seniors

New London's big factors are two powerful seniors — Len Luedtke in the line and Ken Ebert at fullback. Coach Jack Wohlt feels that Luedtke (5-11, 220) is as good as any lineman in the state.

Luedtke led an unrelenting charge against Shawano as the Bulldogs posted a 16-0 win and held the Indians to just 15 yards on the ground.

Ebert (5-8, 205) slammed the Shawano line for 119 yards. Had New London got off to a better start (seven penalties interrupted the first drive which would have gained 65 yards) the game could have been more lop-sided. Mike Baehman looked good at quarterback and Tom Krostue, center, and Dave Johnson, tackle, provided Wohlt with hope in the line.

Crumpled Hopes

Menasha crumpled Berlin's pre-season aspirations in a 12-0 contest. The Indians' Will Klatt had expressed ambitions for a perfect season.

Neighboring Ripon is likely to feel the Berlin wrath in Friday's encounter.

Berlin has 16 experienced lettermen back and has excellent size as seven players tip the scale at 200 pounds or better. Center Tom Godson is 280 and tackle John Trochinski weighs 230.

Creating the excitement for the Indians, however, will be Larry Hollmaier who picked up 97 yards against Menasha, Scott Hollmaier, Bill Barnes and quarterback Guy Lubbert.

Comets Rebuilding

Jim Mohr is rebuilding the traditionally strong Waupaca Comets and last week's strong showing against Wrightstown (37-8) indicates the team may be streaking again.

Waupaca starters back from last season are Lee Solberg, halfback-linebacker; Robin Robbins, an all-Central Wisconsin Conference defensive end, and Lloyd Marchel, running back, Mark McDaniel, a senior tackle, is the only other letterman.

Marchel proved to be the workhorse against Wrightstown as he scored three touchdowns and covered 85 yards in seven carries. Senior Jim Jensen paced the passing attack as Waupaca completed 10 of 12 for 101 yards

Gains Confidence

Hortonville's Robert Newhouse gained a little confidence in what his team can do on the basis of its showing against Germantown but the Polar Bear mentor hastens to add, "they (Germantown) aren't the type of hard-nosed team we'll be facing in Berlin and New London." Newhouse hopes for a first division finish along with the Bulldogs, Berlin and Comets ... teams he sees as favorites.

A crushing ground game was put together against Germantown without the services of Mark Everts, the team's leading ground-gainer last season. Randy Mulroy, starting his first game, churned out 114 yards in 19 totes while running mate John Ziegler ground out 95 in 18 tries.

Newhouse said, "we showed a lot of poise against Germantown considering it was the first game for many of our boys."

Everts didn't see much action because of an injured heel. It is hoped that he will be ready for the invasion of Waupaca Friday because Newhouse says. "He probably is a little better runner and has more experience."

On Way Back

Omro eked out a 8-7 verdict over Reedsville and limited speedster Jeff Barnard to only 38 yards in 14 carries. Ted Thompson, new coach, has the Foxes on the road to recovery if the result in comparison to a year ago is an indication.

Thompson has 13 lettermen back from a 2-6-1 squad. Dennis Moon led the ground attack with 77 yards in 18 carries, while the Foxes outgained the losers, 211-144.

Weyauwega made an inauspicious debut against Manawa in an 0-0 tie and actually was lucky to fare that well as the Wolves were left growling at the door several times.

Ron Unertl, in his first year at the 'Wega helm, has a long way to go and with only five lettermen back may be destined for the cellar.

Winneconne has good size and 16 lettermen but Bonduel found the Wolves to be easy picking, as it raced to a 40-8 win. Bonduel rolled up 351 yards, including 284 on the turf.

Ripon travelled to Sun Prairie and probably wished it had saved the transportation cost as it absorbed a 48-0 shellacking. Ripon managed five first downs and a total of 47 yards against Sun Prairie, while yielding 173 yards. Ripon could prove to be a spoiler but doesn't look to be a serious challenger for the title.

Returning Lettermen

HORTONVILLE (6) — Mark Everts, Paul Jandourek, John Kruel, Jerry Simon, Jim Thorpe and John Ziegler
OMRO (13) — Tom Beahm, Dave Vonderlon, Dennis Moon, Wayne Coats, Jim Ruby, Mike Bohn, Bob Ehmke, Larry Hoeft, Ken Tritt, John Lenz, Steve Kloehn, Tom Klicka and Bob Lakins
RIPON (8) — Keith Cram, Terry Disterhaft, Gary Koplitz, Sherm Leatherberry, Paul Searl, Mike Wahoske, Kirk Cram and Jim Timmons.
WAUPACA (4) — Robin Bobbins, Mark McDaniel, Lee Solberg, and Lloyd Marchel
WEYAUWEGA (5) — Steve Zehfus, Randy Faulks, J P Nolan, George Radtke and Chip Wall

Bulldog JV's Blitz Wolves In 40-0 Rout

NEW LONDON — Jim Ott's hard-nosed running and the combination of Rick Kapernick's play calling, running and passing teamed with an unrelentless defense to earn New London a 40-0 East Central Conference junior varsity win over Winneconne Tuesday.

Ott accounted for 18 points on two touchdown runs and three point after jaunts, while Kaepernick passed for one touchdown, scampered 37 yards on a roll out for another and threw twice for PAT's. The other New London TD came on the first play of the second period when defensive end Tom Sanderfoot batted an attempted Winneconne pass, gained control on the Wolves 33 and ran unchallenged into the end zone with 9:52 left in the half.

The Bulldogs picked up eight first downs in the opening half while Winneconne managed only one and that via penalty with about one minute remaining. New London gained six first downs in the second half, and the Wolves again only managed one.

Xavier Seeks Members for Athletic Unit

An athletic association has been formed at Appleton Xavier High School. Its main purpose is to supplement the athletic programs for both boys and girls.

A membership drive will be held soon in all parishes in the city Membership wil be open to anyone interested. Dues will be $1 per year

Thirty members were elected to the board at a recent meeting. There will be a representative from each parish on this board.

Officers of the association are Arnold Vanden Boomen, president; William Nack Sr. vice president; Mrs John Kools, secretary and Mrs. Robert Rechner Sr., treasurer.

Yesterday's Stars

PITCHING—Jim Rooker, Royals, retired the first 16 batters he faced and finished with a three-hitter, hurling Kansas City to a 12-0 romp over California.

BATTING—Roy White, Yankees, ripped three hits including two triples, driving in three runs and scoring two in New York's 7-3 victory over Washington.

Bucs Easier To Beat Minus Bob Clemente

Durocher Would Take Only Aaron Over Pirate Star

By D. BYRON YAKE
Associated Press Sports Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — 'How much easier are the Pittsburgh Pirates to beat without Roberto Clemente?'

"How much easier would anybody be without Clemente?" answered Manager Leo Durocher of the Chicago Cubs.

"Clemente would make a difference on anybody's club. He's the best right fielder in the game"

Better than Hank Aaron? A long pause.

"I guess I spoke a little quick," said Durocher, after the Cubs trimmed the Pirates 10-3 Tuesday.

"I'll have to retract that statement. If I had my choice I'd take Aaron. But that's no knock against Mr. Clemente. He's a hell of a ball player.

"But if you were sitting here and giving me my choice, I'd take Aaron."

Why?

Plays Every Day

"Power... power. Durability. He plays every day."

Clemente, known for his hitting and all-around play, is missing from the line-up at a time the Pirates are in a pennant race and holding on to precarious one-half game lead over the New York Mets in the National League East.

Clemente left Pittsburgh Tuesday for Puerto Rico where he was to see his personal physician about a sprained back. He is expected to rejoin the Pirates in Chicago Saturday. When he will again play, nobody knows

The Cubs tallied a 15-hit assault against six pitchers, including eight hits off Steve Blass, 9-11 They drew 10 walks from the Pirates and three of them scored.

The Cubs have won eight out of their last 11 games and are only one game behind the Pirates in the NL East

One of the big differences says Durocher, is Joe Pepitone and pitcher Milt Pappas, both acquired through the trade route

Pappas has a 9-4 record since coming from Atlanta

Pepitone has batted about 300, hit eight home runs, driven in 37 runs and scored 40 times since moving from Houston July 31. "They've been a vital part of the team-the key to it," said Durocher

Pepitone drove in two runs Tuesday with a triple and scored twice

"I would have brought in a left-handed hitter." said Bristol, who was ejected in the second inning for disputing a putout of Tommy Harper

Marty Pattin, 12-11, picked up his third straight victory after giving up a bases-empty homer to Tony Oliva, who had three hits, in the eighth inning.

"I thought it was all over after that," said Pattin. "But Phil has picked me up more than once in my last three starts. Go talk to him. He's the hero."

1970 GMO Shows Profit Of $2,000

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The 1970 Greater Milwaukee Open golf tournament was a financial success, the board of directors were told Tuesday

Robert S Chrichton, president of the GMO, said the July 6-12 meet at the North Shore Country Club, won by Deane Beman, made a profit of $2,000

Chrichton said the 1971 tournament would be held July 5-11 at a course to be determined.

Action Starts Friday

Denmark, Reedsville Favored to Take Olympian Grid Crown

BY GENE LILLGE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The Olympian Conference opens its inagural season with a full slate of games Friday and Saturday.

Brillion, Denmark, Freedom, Hilbert, Mishicot, Reedsville, Valders and Wrightstown make up the newly formed conference, which came into being during last year's state-wide realignment program. All the teams, except Mishicot and Valders, were previously members of the Little Nine Conference.

Brillion and Valders will be the only teams to bring victories into this weekend's action. All eight teams met non-conference foes last weekend. Brillion crushed Shiocton, 33-12, while Valders edged Cedar Grove, 12-7.

In other games, Reedsville was nipped by Omro, 8-7; Kohler blanked Hilbert, 21-0; Waupaca stomped Wrightstown, 37-8; Little Chute topped Freedom, 20-8; Luxemburg-Casco whipped Mishicot, 24-6; and Suring whitewashed Denmark, 13-0.

Valders plays host to Brillion in this week's opener Friday. In Saturday contests. Denmark plays at Hilbert, Mishicot visits Freedom, and Wrightstown travels to Reedsville.

Denmark and Reedsville loom as pre-season favorites to win the conference's first title Brillion and Valders should also be in the picture.

Denmark, which tied Hortonville (8-1) for the Little Nine championship last year, lost 20 players to graduation. The majority of those gridders were members of the offensive and defensive lines. But Coach Gerald Leiterman had nine letter winners returning, including halfbacks Dave Kempert and Gary Gagnon. The pair gained nearly 900 yards between them last year and Leiterman, starting his 11th season as Denmark's head mentor, feels the team's strength will lie in the running game.

Reedsville lost to Omro on a fourth quarter touchdown and a 2-point conversion in its opening game. The Panthers, who compiled a 7-2 mark in the Little Nine last season, have seven returning lettermen. Reedsville's top returnee is Jeff Barnard (5-10, 160) who led the Little Nine in rushing with more than 900 yards last year.

Brillion coach Allan Coenen commented before last week's game with Shiocton that "our big problem will be to gain experience, especially at the key quarterback position." It seems the Lions are well on their way to doing just that as quarterback Tom Schwahn completed eight of 11 passes for 170 yards and two touchdowns in Brillion's 33-12 romp of Shiocton. Brillion rolled up 328 yards during the game, including 170 through the air

Valders showed a well-balanced attack in its triumph over Cedar Grove John Mrotek highlighted the game with a 78-yard touchdown run Valders' aerial game also showed spark as Jim Pivonka connected on a 13-yard strike for the other score.

Wrightstown, with 12 lettermen back, and Mishicot with 10 returnees, may be the spoilers and could be the teams to decide who will win the Olympian crown

Hilbert and Freedom, although possessed with 10 and 11 letter-winners, respectively, have young teams and are in the process of rebuilding.

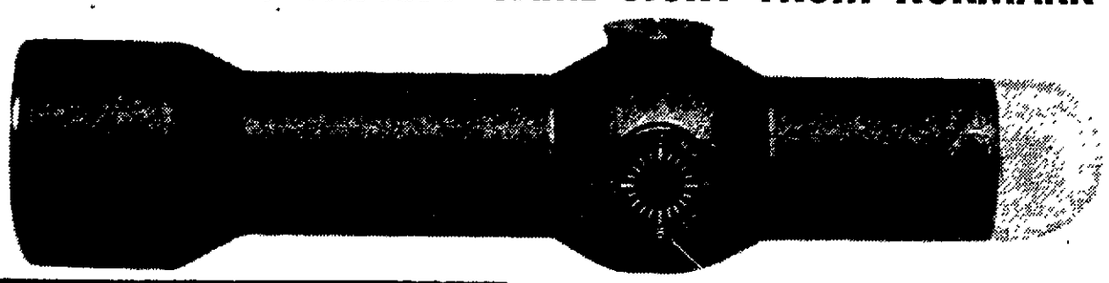
THE WORLD'S FASTEST GAME SIGHT FROM NORMARK



UNIQUE PATENTED GUN SIGHT DEVELOPMENT

The Singlepoint sight has only one aiming mark — a small projected light point. It is designed to make full use of both eyes which gives you clear, all-round vision.

To use the sight effectively, you simply focus on your target, mount the gun quickly, direct the light point on your target and squeeze the trigger.

The inventor, Nils Ruder of Sweden, felt that conventional aiming devices were more of a handicap than an aid to hunters who required fast sighting. Iron sights require lining up on targets, telescopes give a limited view and both are aimed and fired with one eye. The principles and use of the Singlepoint is simplicity itself. Once you hit the target with the light point, it should be followed at the same instant by your bullet.

The novice and expert — with a small amount of practice — will be amazed by his increased shooting skill on that challenging split-second shot at moving game.

ONCE YOU TRY IT YOU WILL NEVER WANT THE OLD FASHIONED SCOPE!

Bradshaw Hottest Quarterback Prospect Since Joe Namath

BY ELINOR KAINE

Pittsburgh's brilliant rookie quarterback Terry Bradshaw is going to be facing an environmental crisis in November. Nothing to do with pollution, sanitation, or the Sierra Club, you understand.

Elinor Kaine

It's just that the Steelers' November agenda includes contests with the Bengals, Jets, Chiefs and Browns.

Terry would like the Miss Teenage America contest to be included. That is one environment he digs.

He is an expert in the field. Not only did Terry date Miss Teenage America 1969, Melicia Babish, he also takes out Miss Teenage America 1970, Debby Patton.

"And I'm looking forward to this year's contest," said Terry, a blond giant (6-3, 215 pounds) whose innocent looks remind you of Jon Voigt, although it's possible that by the end of the season people will be describing Jon Voigt as looking like Terry Bradshaw. Terry has made a tremendous start with the Steelers.

In their history, the Steelers have rarely made a tremendous start. A tremendous finish has been equally elusive. In 37 years the Steelers finished second once. This year for the first time there was a note of optimism around the Steeler training camp.

Have New Stadium

Bradshaw, of course, was the reason. Not the only reason, because the Steelers are going to play this year in Pittsburgh's new Three Rivers Stadium. Too, Steeler coach Chuck Noll is in his second season and the usual rookie diseases are behind him. But Bradshaw is the big reason for smiles in Steelerville. Terry has changed their image. He has even changed their thinking.

In the past it has been a Steeler custom to avoid the draft. They either traded away their draft choices for veterans whose talents ran the gamut from adequate to terrible, or they drafted college boys with a similar lack of star quality. Only last year's top pick Joe Greene and Terry Bradshaw depart from Steeler tradition.

Steeler tradition is as old-fashioned as any tradition you can find, but since the coming of Bradshaw the Steeler organization is thinking young. In a brainburst that was positively mod, the Steelers planned a minor operation for Terry that would keep him out of Chicago's All Star Game and save him two precious weeks of training camp education. Sonny Werblin had finagled Joe Namath out of the All-Star game six years ago, which is only the beginning of that comparison; Bradshaw is the hottest quarterback prospect since Joe came to Broadway.

Impressing Everyone

At other rookie training camps, while the veterans were out on strike, lethargy set in. The Saints and Giants complained of stale camps and low morale, and the coaches considered sending their players home. The Steeler camp, meanwhile, went charging ahead and Bradshaw was impressing everyone. He is as fast as any Steeler running back — running 40 yards in 4.7 — and in Pittsburgh's new weight program Terry lifts 100 pounds more than Joe Greene can and faster.

"When I run they feel it," says Terry, giggling at the prospect of potential tacklers thinking he is a typical, primadonna quarterback. "I sting them."

Terry took immediate charge and when the veterans arrived he commanded their respect. "They work for me," said Bradshaw, not sounding particularly naive or humble. But a few breaths later he asked a bystander, "Don't you think Hanratty must be surprised at the progress I've made?" Terry Hanratty is Pittsburgh's incumbent at quarterback.

Terry, whose birthday is Saturday, is a Virgo — smart, positive, an excellent leader and a hard worker. Virgos are also perennial bachelors, which brings up a facet of Terry's past. His parents are extremely religious — young at fortyish and attractive — and they were very strict. He was not allowed many dates and had to be home by 11 until he went to college at Louisiana Tech.

Royal's Rooker Keeps Angels on Skid

BY TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer

Pitching a no-hitter crossed Jim Rooker's mind for a brief instant but the Kansas City left-hander quickly dismissed any such notion when he remembered the night of June 4

The 27-year-old fireballer retired the first 16 California batters before Joe Azcue snapped the string with a single and Rooker had to settle for a neat three-hitter as the Royals trounced the Angels 12-0 Tuesday night.

"The no-hitter came to my mind but I didn't let myself get concerned by it," said the Royals' second-year man.

"I had a no-hitter for eight innings on June 4 and not only didn't I get it, I wound up losing the game. Tonight I wasn't going to worry about it," said the 6-foot, 190-pounder, who upped his record to 9-15.

Lost Tilt in 12th

On June 4th at New York, Rooker held the Yankees hitless until Horace Clarke opened the ninth with a single. The Yankees tied it in that inning and eventually won it 2-1 in 12 innings.

Rooker, in his last start, dropped a 1-0 decision to the Angels but said the difference this time was his control. "Everything was working."

He didn't walk a batter and struck out seven.

The Royals backed him with a 17-hit attack, including four hits apiece for Bob Oliver and Lou Piniella as the Angels fell to their fifth straight loss.

In other American League contests, Baltimore topped Detroit 6-3, Milwaukee edged Minnesota 3-2, New York tripped Washington 7-3 and Boston nipped Cleveland 4-3. The Oakland A's and Chicago White Sox were idle.

Boog Powell drove in three runs with a two-run homer and single and Frank Robinson slugged a homer in the Orioles' triumph, sending Mickey Lolich to his 17th defeat. The left-hander has won 12.

Fifth Straight for Yanks

The Yankees drilled 16 hits, including three by Roy White and Ron Hansen as the New Yorker's took their fifth straight. White drove in three runs with a pair of triples and a single and scored twice.

Pitcher Ken Brett slammed a solo homer in the eighth inning, snapping a 3-3 tie in the Red Sox victory. Rico Petrocelli and Joe Lahoud also homered for Boston while Buddy Bradford had a three-run shot for the Indians

Harris Leaves Bills

Kapp Travelling, Still Can't Find Pot of Gold

BY KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The music goes on and on between Joe Kapp and the Minnesota Vikings.

Kapp still is looking for the silver lining . . . and the Vikings continue to make their gold line stand.

"No developments" is the reported situation in Kapp's prolonged contract dispute with the club.

"I haven't had one word, direct or indirect, since the Vikings' general manager, Jim Finks, sent his ultimatum telegram six or eight weeks ago," said Kapp's attorney, John Elliot Cook.

Kapp, 33, whose quarterbacking led Minnesota to the National Football League championship in 1969, reportedly has been asking for a $1.25 million contract over five years. But the Vikings have steadfastly refused his demands.

Free Agent

Kapp played out his option last year and is free to deal with any pro team. Cook confirmed Tuesday that Kapp has been in Vancouver, B.C., but said the trip had no significance. Kapp formerly played in the Canadian Football League.

"At present, Joe is sort of gypsying around, sometimes in Vancouver, sometimes in Los Angeles, sometimes in Lake Tahoe, Nev. There's not a great deal to occupy him at the moment."

Cook said he would meet soon in San Francisco with the free-wheeling quarterback, but declined elaboration.

Elsewhere in football, the Buffalo Bills placed quarterback James Harris on waivers and the 6-foot-4 signal caller apparently decided he was through as a professional.

Harris, a Grambling product, failed to show up for the Bills' regular practice Tuesday. He had been counted on to take over for Jack Kemp, who quit football to run for Congress.

The Green Bay Packers traded Francis Winkler, a three-year offensive lineman, to the Atlanta Falcons for Ken Mendenhall, a rookie center.

Cleveland swapped defensive tackle Marvin Upshaw to Kansas City for an undisclosed high draft choice.

seventh and then singled home an insurance run in the ninth. Rich Allen homered for St. Louis while Deron Johnson and Joe Lis connected for the Phillies.

Doug Rader and Bob Watson drove in three runs apiece as Houston hung on to beat San Diego. Rader had two singles and his 21st homer and Watson ripped two singles.

Nate Colbert and Clarence Gaston each tagged two-run homers for the Padres.

Orlando Cepeda ripped a three-run homer in the first inning and that was all George Stone needed as Atlanta bested Los Angeles.

Cepeda's homer was his 34th of the season and Stone made the runs stand up with a seven-hitter for his 11th victory. Bill Grabarkewitz homered for LA.

Bobby Tolan's bases-loaded double drove in three runs in the second inning, leading the Reds past the Dodgers.

Papermaker Harriers Tip East, 28-33

Kimberly's Bill Bonzelet scored a 6-second victory over Appleton East's Peter Ducklow to lead the Papermakers to a 28-33 cross country victory over the Patriots Tuesday

Bonzelet was timed in 13 minutes, 14 seconds for the 2.5-mile course at East. Bucklow was runnerup in 13:20, and East's Dave Malley was right behind at 13:21.

Kimberly's Steve Bons finished fourth, and East's Bill VandenBrandt took fifth. Trailing in order were five Papermaker runners — Bill Uelman, Paul Kluge, George Engel, Joe Wachtendonk, and Don VandenHeuvel.

East captured the jayvee match, 24-31, as Tom Van Belkon placed first with a time of 13:50.

West Harrier Team Will Face Neenah

The Appleton West cross country team opens its campaign Thursday afternoon at Neenah

The Herb Simon-coached Terrors are led by co-captains Steve Dercks and John Kiekhafer. The other returning lettermen are Jim Hinnenthal and Jeff Schreiner.

The schedule:

Sept. 10—At Neenah
Sept. 17—At Harkenville (Kimberly)
Sept. 19—Shawano Invitational
Sept. 22—At Kaukauna
Sept. 25—Menasha, Appleton East

Putman Spills 243

'Woody' Wulterkens Cracks 663 Trio

"Woody" Wulterkens socked a 234 game en route to a 663 series to lead performances in the American League at Jerry's Lanes Tuesday night.

Other top efforts included Paul DeYoung, 618; Tom Putman, 243-614; and Elmer Kobs, 589. Emil Betters hit a 180 triplicate.

Pete VandeHey's 607 total set the pace in the Freedom Businessmen's League at Colonial Lanes. Carl Van Asten had the top game, a 238, and finished with a 577.

Norm Schimmelpfenning's 246-596 combination topped the Tri-City League at Sabre Lanes. Trailing were Wayne Darling, 583; George Kallin, 576; Harry Hunt, 225-575; Clyde Arndt, 227; and Ed Bloch, 225.

Mike Van Daalwyk's 578 was the top score in the Metropolitan League at Sabre.

AAL '5' Wins Championship in Summer Loop

The Aid Association for Lutherans (8-1) won the Continental League championship in the Appleton YMCA summer basketball program.

In the final game, Curt Anderson scored 28 points in a 76-57 victory for AAL over the Post-Crescent (3-6).

Four UW Foes Nationally Ranked

Rugged Slate Faces Badgers, Jardine

By BOB GREENE

MADISON (AP) — Rookie head coach John Jardine has his work cut out for him as he leads the University of Wisconsin Badgers into one of the school's roughest football schedules ever this fall.

Wisconsin opens the season at Oklahoma, rated 20th in the Associated Press' college preseason poll, on Sept. 19. The Sooners' mentor, Chuck Fairbanks, is considered a "man on the spot" this year despite having compiled a 23-9 record over the past three years.

On Oct. 3, seventh-ranked Penn State moves into Camp Randall Stadium here, while eighth-ranked Michigan comes to town on Oct 31.

The following weekend, Wisconsin meets Ohio State, considered by many the top college football team in the nation

Among other Wisconsin foes, Minnesota received votes for the AP's Top 20 poll.

Oklahoma will be bigger physically than ever and faster as a team than last year. The defensive unit is fairly experienced and should be improved.

Quarterback Jack Mildren, a junior, was voted the Big Eight's sophomore offensive player of the year last season

Following Oklahoma, the Badgers will take on, in order, Texas Christian, Penn State, Iowa, Northwestern, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio State, Illinois and Minnesota.

Coach Fred Taylor, starting his fourth season at the helm of Texas Christian, has a young team with only eight seniors on the varsity roster. However, he has quarterback Steve Judy, who ranked 15th in the nation in total offense and 16th in passing as a sophomore last year.

Powerful Penn State lost defensive tackles Mike Reid and Steve Smear, along with Dennis Onkotz and a whole host of other outstanding players. Yet Coach Joe Paterno isn't crying too loudly.

"We have three quarterbacks who can throw the ball, lots of players who can catch it and run with it," he said. "We have skilled offense."

"Our kicking game should be outstanding," Paterno continued. "We have the skills"

Then come what on Wisconsin's schedule are considered "breathers" — Iowa, Northwestern and Indiana.

Hawkeyes Improved

Yet Iowa's press book reveals the Hawkeyes offensively "will be strong" while defensively "there should be dramatic improvement."

"This is the best football squad I have had in five years at Iowa," Coach Ray Nagel said "We have veterans starting at virtually every position and some excellent sophomores backing them up."

At Illinois, another "soft spot," Coach Jim Valek said, "Our depth appears to be the best we've had in my four seasons here."

Michigan and Ohio State are defending Big Ten co-champions while Minnesota is always strong by the end of the season.

Coach Jardine knows the Badgers have an uphill climb Still, he is undaunted.

"The only way to go into this business is to win," he said when appointed to the post last December. "My philosophy is to win at any cost."

Marsha Folkman Wallops 583 Series, Leads League

Marsha Folkman boomed a 583 series, including a 214 game, in heading the Hit N' Miss League at 41 Bowl Tuesday night

Marvis Buboltz crashed a 532, while Mary Schmidt came in with a 204 line.

In the Tag-A-Long League at 41 Bowl, Nancy Danielson toppled a 531 trio along with a 211 individual game

Anne Garrow's 525 threesome paced the Twilight League at Super Bowl.

Historical Complex at Watertown Interesting

1854 Octagon House State Showplace, First Kindergarten, Statue in Center

BY JINGO

There's an interesting place to go for weekend trippers this fall and that's the Octagon House in Watertown.

The Watertown Historical Society has something new to offer visitors who've been there before. They have completed a new tour center which they call the Octagon House complex. One of the state's showplaces have become even "showier."

This includes the famous first kindergarten in America started by Mrs. Carl Schurz (Margarethe Meyer Schurz) in 1856. There also is a pioneer barn, completely outfitted with oldtime artifacts that give the visitor an idea of what life was like in the way of farming and travel a century ago.

Built in 1854

The Octagon House itself is a remarkable place, built in 1854 by John Richards. The unique home, one of the few left in the United States, has a cantilever hanging spiral staircase with hand-molded railing, a water system and air conditioning system even in that early day.

The water system that serviced the family in high style for the 1850s originates in a funnel-shaped roof tank. The air conditioning or cooling of the house is a system of vents built within the brick walls and taking advantage of updrafts and downdrafts. Counting the oversized halls and large closets, the house has 57 rooms, all restored and furnished in the style of the era in which it was built. Many of the pieces of furniture and household dishes and other items belonged to the Richards family.

The new complex has a fountain and statue of historical value in the brick patio of the new tour center. The statue of the bird girl, "Phillis," has been owned by the Watertown Historical Society since 1964 when it was removed from Memorial Park in the city during construction of a new city hall.

Honors Pioneer Families

Originally this "statue of the bird bath" was presented to the City of Watertown by Mrs. Carrie Mowder Hill in memory of the pioneer Mowder and Hill families. It is a special recast of a statue in Central Park, New York City. It is the work of Bessie Potter Vonnah, one of America's foremost women sculptors.

When it came time to build a new city hall, Watertown wisely gave the statue in the keeping of its community historical society as a central focal point for the Society's new complex situated around its historical octagonal home.

Octagon House is open until Nov. 1 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Channing Show One Big Spoof

BY TV SCOUT

8-9 Channel 5 — Monsanto Night Presents Carol Channing has Carol and guests Fred MacMurray, Art Carney, Sir John Gielgud and Sir Ralph Richardson spoofing "The Forsyte Saga," Queen Victoria, Anne Boleyn and life in general.

6:30-8 Channel 5 — This is the last episode of The Virginian under that title. Next week it shows up as The Men From Shiloh with only James Drury and Doug McClure left of the originals. Robert Redford, then a young not-too-well-known and today a famous movie star, is the guest in this 1963 episode, playing a young man who has never known freedom until he is accepted as a parolee on Shiloh by Judge Garth (Lee J. Cobb). There young, innocent Betsy (Roberta Shore) falls in love with him. (R)

6:30-7:30 Channels 11-9 — Hard as you may look, there are many things the naked eye can't see. To enable you to see these wonders, producer Jules Power and Isaac Asimov, a well-known science writer, teamed up for The Unseen World. You'll see earth from space, some fast actions slowed down, some slow things speeded up (like ice melting) and come away with a much better idea of what goes on around you. Must viewing for kids and fine entertainment for everybody. (R

7-7:30 Channels 2-7 — This is the final repeat for Gomer Pyle — U. S. M. C. and it's appropriate that it close out with Carol Burnett as a guest, since she and Jim will swap guest star spots on their own shows as soon as the season starts. Anyway, she's a lady Marine who has problems with Sgt. Carter because she wants Gomer to be in a camp show. Carol and Jim get to sing in this one, so guess who wins the argument. (R)

7:30-8 Channels 2-7 — Phil Silvers always adds a bright note to The Beverly Hillbillies, as he does in the concluding episode of a two-parter. He turns his wife (Kathleen Freeman) into his "Spanish madre" while attempting to swindle the Clampetts. (R)

10:30-11:30 Channel 2 — Medical Center repeats an episode in which Heisman Trophy winner, Buffalo Bills football star and sports announcer O. J. Simpson did a very believable acting job. He played an All-American who has the potential for getting a million dollar bonus for turning pro. Only he's sick, and he refuses to acknowledge h atfcat. (R) edge that fact. (R)

9-10 Channel 5 — It's There Went Bronson after this episode of Then Came Bronson. This one teams Michael Parks with David Burns, playing an aging widower, a former businessman named Isadore Katz, who chucked it all the way Bronson did. (R)

Hobby Club Contest Winners Announced

Area winners of the Aug. 19 scramble contest in the Young Hobby Club column have been announced by Cappy Dick.

They are David Mader, 12, Jim Rosenberg 6, and George Dietz, 9, all of Appleton; Colleen Gerrits, 9, route 3, Appleton, and Lori Peebles, 12, route 1, Bonduel.

Prizes of Dipsy Ball games will be sent by mail to the winners within two weeks.

Alain Delon, 24, strongly resembles the late Tyrone Power and has become a movie star with 30 or more films to his credit He once cut hams in his stepfather's pork shop in a Paris suburb when he was discovered. (AP Wirephoto)

Bing Crosby's Tribute to Christmas Dec. 16 on NBC

"Bing Crosby's Christmas Show," the singer's first full-scale television tribute to the Yule season, will be colorcast on NBC Wednesday, Dec. 16, 7 to 8 p.m.

As part of "The Bell System Family Theatre" series of nine specials to be presented on NBC-TV during the 1970-71 season, the show is under full sponsorship of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company.

Melba Moore, recent Tony Award-winner for her performance in "Purlie" on Broadway, will be special guest star which also will star Jack Wild (of NBC-TV's "H. R. Pufnstuf" Saturday series) and the Doodletown Pipers.

Members of Crosby's family — wife Kathryn, daughter Mary Frances and sons Nathaniel and Harry — also will be featured in the musical program presenting both original songs and popular standards reflecting the traditions of Christmas.

Crosby headlined two NBC-TV specials in 1969-70, "Together Again for the First Time" with Carol Burnett and "Bing Crosby — Cooling It" with Dean Martin, Flip Wilson and Bernadette Peters, both of which ranked among the most widely-viewed specials of the season. In addition, he appeared with wife Kathryn, son Nathaniel and daughter Mary Frances in a combination live action-animation edition of "Goldilocks."

Melba Moore, who won Broadway's Tony Award this year for her performance in the musical "Purlie," is most familiar to television audiences through her frequent appearances on "The Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson."

English-born Jack Wild, seen weekly as Jack on "H. R. Pufnstuf," earned an Oscar nomination for his portrayal of The Artful Dodger in the musical motion picture "Oliver!"

The Doodletown Pipers, a youthful singing group, has been featured in nightclub and concert performances and on many television programs.

Lewis Telethon Raises $5 Million, $20,200 in Area

A record $5 million was raised through pledges and contributions during the 20-hour Jerry Lewis Labor Day telethon for the Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America.

The first coast-to-coast telethon, Station WLUK-TV had a part in the program that started at 10:30 p.m. Sunday and ended at 5:30 p.m. Monday. The area station headquartered in Green Bay organized its own fund-raising drive throughout Northeastern Wisconsin and the Upper Peninsula of Michigan.

The station raised $20,200 in its first venture in the nationwide hook-up. Money raised on the telethon goes to fight neuromuscular disorders in both dystrophy and related neuromuscular disorders in both the fields of research and individual patient and family services through the various associations and the district each covers.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Identify Clock Bell to Win 'Talking Globe'

BY CAPPY DICK

Which clock bell has the wrong number on it? If you can find it, you may become the winner of an exciting Encyclopaedia Britannica "Talking Globe." This is a colorful earth glove that is accompanied by a recording on which a famous world traveler tells "The Story of Mr. World" and which reproduces dramatic sounds of the earth — erupting volcanoes, earthquake rumbles, the roar of the oceans, the cry of hurricanes, sounds of rain and rocket blastoffs. It is a globe the entire family can use in looking up all the many places spotlighted by world news.

Five of these Encyclopaedia Britannica globes will be awarded as the national grand prizes in today's puzzle contest. To qualify for a chance to win one, a young contestant's entry must first win a local prize consisting of a mysterious Snapper Magic Trick. Five of these pocket tricks will be awarded, one for each of the five neatest and most original correct contest entries sent in by boys and girls of the Fox Cities area. These five entries will compete automatically with local-prize-winning entries from all other Cappy Dick cities for the national grand prizes which will be awarded for the five neatest and most original correct entries of all.

Here's how to solve the puzzle: On each clock's bell is a number. This number is supposed to be the total of the numbers indicated by the hands of the clock. The total on one of the bells is incorrect. When you have found that clock, mark it in some manner so the judges will know you found it. Clip out the picture, paste it on a sheet of paper, print your name, age, address and Zip Code number beneath it. Decorate the entry in any neat, original way with paints, crayons or cutouts.

Address the entry to Cappy Dick's Midweek "Talking Globe" Contest at The Post-Crescent and mail it before midnight of day after tomorrow.

Names of the prize winners will be published here and their prizes will be sent to their homes by mail. Judges' decisions will be final. All entries become Cappy Dick's property; none can be returned.

Refuse Service Hopes to Begin In Fox Valley

A Berweyn, Ill., refuse pickup firm plans to begin residential, commercial and industrial service on Oct. 1 in the Fox Valley provided that it gets State Department of Natural Resources permission to contract with individual parties and businesses from municipal governments.

Abraham Belgardt, president of Acme Haulaway Service, said last week that his firm has been conducting a survey on refuse service in the Fox Valley for the last few months and it hopes to begin service at a flat rate by the end of September.

He emphasized that his firm would be contracting with individuals, and not with the governments themselves.

The fee for residential pickup would be $21 per year "for whatever is placed out at the street." Rates for commercial and industrial firms would be "worked out" on a separate basis per month, he said.

Disposal would be at the municipalities' dump or landfill.

Courses Offered For Engineers

Engineers of the Fox River Valley will be able to return to class this fall without leaving their homes and employment. The University of Wisconsin Extension Department of Engineering is offering 18 graduate and undergraduate credit courses through the media of the electronic telephone network system.

In the Fox Valley all classes will be held at the Institute of Paper Chemistry in Appleton, Kress Conference Room, 933 E. College Ave.

Courses will be offered in the fields of civil engineering, computer science, electrical engineering, mathematics, mechanical engineering, engineering mechanics, minerals and metals engineering, and theoretical and applied mechanics.

In addition to the creidt courses four noncredit refresher offerings are scheduled including the basic engineering refresher which will serve as preparation for the professional engineering exam. Other noncredit courses are in digital controls, computer topics for engineers and basic strength of materials for draftsmen and engineering aids. Classes begin Sept. 21.

Kaukauna Landfill Site Best Solution Available

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

Knowing the man whose signature appeared at the end of the article, I question the fact as to whether or not he was really the author of the article. If he did write the article, then I believe he should have practiced what he said.

A few years ago Mr. Reichel and Mr. Rogers were both serving on the Kaukauna City Council and so was I. I made an effort to relieve the city of the problem of rodents and smoke. This problem in our city is now known as pollution. Neither of the two aldermen gave any support to secure a new location for a dump site.

The article says that the present dump will continue in operation. I differ in opinion. If the city would have taken steps to have the problems corrected in the days when Mr. Reichel was Alderman, we would not be facing the state's compulsory requirements today. The areas mentioned will be used as sanitary landfills, not dumps. There is quite a difference between a dump and a site used as a sanitary landfill. In an area used as a sanitary landfill the garbage is buried daily; it is not burned or left in the open for rodents to thrive upon. There will be no dumps in the future. The state will close them because they will not comply to the state's requirements. These state requirements are so set up because of the way dumps have been run in the past.

The article states that the City Council is taking the easy way out. Our Mayor and Engineer informed the Council that the cost according to the plan which has been proposed and adopted would be $1.64 a ton. Outside contractors propose a plan to us of $3.00 a ton. Thus, according to this information, I believe the Council is justified in its action.

Also, according to the information brought to us, the area meets with state approval. The area will be preserved from a conservation viewpoint.

Let's be realistic and not just say things for political motives. We need a place to dispose of our garbage. If answers were available why were they not brought into light when I was trying to clear the city of Kaukauna of our rodent and smoke problem—our pollution problem.

The article to which I am replying is filled with criticism of the plan adopted. But one thing is lacking. There is no suggestion given to solve the problem in another manner. Maybe the course taken isn't the greatest, but it is the best plan we could come up with. The author of the article previously published suggests no solution to the problem whatsoever.

Dot Kastell Thrilled by Benefit

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

On the evening of Aug. 23, there was a softball benefit game played at Doty Bayorgeon Field in Kaukauna. The two teams were Rich & Sally's vs. League All Stars. I want to take this time and thank those who made this a memorable night for me. I have played softball for 16 years and I had a lot of thrills. But the biggest thrill had to be this game for me. Again thanks to all the kind people who made this night possible for me.

Sole Singers Concert Moving

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

Those many, many people who attended the Sole Singers concert last Sunday witnessed a wonderful, moving experience! To those of you who had the misfortune to miss the concert, let me relate my own personal "happening."

I was seated in the balcony of Lawrence Chapel with an energetic, vivacious group of young people. It seemed that you could not avoid being caught up in their joy! Sitting on my left was an elderly gentleman who never moved, never applauded throughout the entire concert. I had the feeling that he'd been unwillingly dragged there by his wife. The concert was coming to an end. The Sole Singers suggested to their audience that everyone join hands and sing with them "I Believe" for their friend, Frank Bouressa. I had joined hands with the person on my right, and everyone was singing. I looked at the man on my left who was staring straight ahead. I reached over and took his hand. The man looked at me and smiled . . . with his lips, his eyes, and his heart! He joined in the singing, and became a part of the circle of friendship that had filled the chapel.

This is what it's all about! Making people feel good . . . making someone feel as if he's just as important to you as the next person. To the anonymous man seated at my left, thank you, sir, for making me feel good inside. To the Sole Singers, thank each and every one of you for making me humble enough to take the hand of a stranger and offer him a simple smile. I know that my experience is nothing earth-shattering. But perhaps if more people would smile and give a friendly and sincere hello to a stranger as they walk down the street, maybe, just maybe this old world would become a little more peaceful. After all happiness is contagious!

Don't Need New Yorkers To Run Our University

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

I have been appalled and shocked by the incident last week which occurred at the university in Madison. The bursting of a bomb caused the death of one person and the destruction of millions of dollars' worth of valuable public property.

In reading the story and seeing the pictures on television, I note that two students who were quoted and were members of the "Wisconsin Students Association," were actually from New York City. It seems to me that instead of planning for further destruction on the Madison campus, they ought to go back to New York and let us run our own state university.

We'd like to thank the makers of the other new economy cars for giving us such a nice head start.

It gave us time to develop an inspection system so ridiculously scrupulous that it expects every VW to pass 16,000 examinations.

It allowed us to find out (at a reasonably scientific pace) how we could double our horsepower without doubling the cost of your horsepower. (The VW still gets about 26 miles to the gallon and requests only a smidgen of oil.)

It permitted us to work on things that didn't even have to do with the actual making of the car. Medi-car, the Volkswagen Diagnosis System, for example. Electronic equipment that can spot trouble in a car before it gets to be trouble. When you buy a new VW, you get 4 free Medi-car checkups.

Of course, it took great fortitude to resist squandering our time on phony styling improvements.

The beetle looks just as good (or bad) as it did 25 years ago.

British Plane Is Hijacked

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A British jetliner with 76 persons aboard was hijacked in the Middle East today. Palestinian guerrillas threatened to blow up the aircraft when it landed at Beirut airport unless it was provided with fuel to fly on to another destination.

This was the fifth hijacking attack this week by Palestine guerrillas. The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine assumed responsibility for today's incident as it had for the others.

British Overseas Airwasy Corp. VC10 airliner was hijacked and ordered to fly to Beirut shortly after it took off from Bahrein in the Persian Gulf. The airline said 66 passengers and 10 crew members were aboard.

Red Cross Trying

Representatives of the International Red Cross were negotiating for the freeing of two other Western airliners and 178 hostages held by guerrillas on a desert airstrip in Jordan.

BOAC officials said Arab guerrillas captured the control tower of Beirut airport and instucted the British jet "to land, refuel and fly on to a further destination."

Later a fuel truck drove up to the plane, which had been on a Bombay-London flight.

It was believed in Beirut that the Popular Front grabbed the British plane to put pressure on the British government for the release of Leila Khaled, the 24-year-old guerrilla held in London since she and a male companion failed in their attempt to take over an Israeli airliner Sunday. The man was killed by Israeli security agents aboard the plane.

Before the BOAC hijacking, the British government [illegible] appeared to be preparing to release Miss Khaled, joining Switzerland and West Germany in meeting the demands of the hijackers holding the planes in Jordan.

Girl to be Freed

Political sources in London said the girl would be shipped out of Britain as soon as the Popular Front released the two planeloads of hostages held at the El Khana airstrip 25 miles northeast of Amman.

The Popular Front had said it would blow up the two planes at 10 p.m. EDT today unless the British released Miss Khaled and the Swiss and West German governments freed six other guerrillas, arrested for terrorist attacks involving planes.

A spokesman in Amman for the Front said today that his organization was demanding that all seven captive guerrillas arrive in Jordan together on a chartered plane before the ultimatum expires. He said the Red Cross had asked for an extension of the deadline and the Front was studying the request.

Sources in London said no British charges had been filed against Miss Khaled, but Israeli Ambassador Michael Comay delivered a request from his government to the Foreign Office today asking for her "provisional arrest" while Israeli prepared a request for her extradition.

Swiss Agree

Switzerland agreed to release the three serving prison terms in Zurich, and the Bonn government said it would free three others awaiting trial in Munich. Britain at first refused to consider releasing Miss Khaled, but the British Cabinet met in emergency session Tuesday and gave the demand more study.

After the Cabinet met, Foreign Secretary Alec Douglas-Home said that Britain, the United States, West Germany and Switzerland had delegated authority to the International Red Cross to seek the release of the hostages. He said the Red Cross had been asked to report back to representatives of the four countries in Berne, Switzerland, as soon as it saw the possibility of an agreement with the guerrillas.

Not Confirmed

There was no confirmation of reports that the Popular Front had increased its demands to include the release of 3,000 Guerrillas held prisoner by Israel in return for the Israeli hostages aboard the two planes. But the Israeli government said earlier it would never negotiate with the guerrillas.

The Popular Front engineered four hijackings Sunday, three of them successfully. The fourth failed when Miss Khaled's male companion was killed by Israeli security guards and the Israeli airliner, which they had tried to commandeer on a flight from Amsterdam to New York, landed at London.

The other three planes—a Pan American jumbo 747 and the two jets diverted to Jordan—were hijacked while en route to New York. The hijackers blew up the jumbo jet in Cairo after its 188 passengers and crewmen were taken off. All of them have now left Cairo except for three still in a hospital.

The two planes taken to Jordan originally carried a total of 300 passengers and crewmen. The guerrillas freed 122 non-Israeli women and children and took them to a hotel in Amman. The male passengers, the crew members and all the Israelis aboard the planes were held hostage.

3 Guerrillas

The Popular Front said in a communique that the Swiss jet and its Swiss passengers would be released as soon as the three guerrillas being held in Zurich were released; that the case of the West Germans would be considered when confirmation came that the three guerrillas held in Germany had been freed, and that the British government was violating international law by holding Miss Khaled because her attempted hijacking was not carried out in British air space.

"Britain must fully realize the

He and 20 captives said they were treated well but living conditions were terrible.

U.S. Seeks Meeting of U.N. Council

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States requested an urgent meeting of the U.N. Security Council for 3 p.m. EDT today to discuss the current wave of airliner hijackings.

This is the first time the question has been formally placed before the 15-nation council, although the hijacking problem was debated last year in the General Assembly.

U.S. Ambassador Charles W. Yost called on the council president, Ambassador Davidson Nicol of Sierra Leone, who began consultations immediately with other members of the 45-nation council.

The U.S. move was described as aimed specifically at seeing what the council could do immediately on behalf of civilians who had become victims of the hijackings.

Schreiber, Martin in Second Spot

Lucey, Olson in Race for Governor

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Patrick J. Lucey, a veteran of Wisconsin political wars, swept aside a challenge from a fellow liberal Democrat in Tuesday's primary and won the right to battle Republican Lt. Gov. Jack Olson for the state's first four-year term for governor.

The 52-year-old former lieutenant governor and state party chairman who defeated Donald O. Peterson of Eau Claire handily, will have as his running mate State Sen. Martin J. Schreiber of Milwaukee. The youthful Schreiber was an easy victor over four contenders.

The November election also will mark the first time the governor and lieutenant governor will run as a team.

Olson, whose only opposition was from Roman R. Blenski of Milwaukee, will be on the ticket with State Rep. David O. Martin of Neenah. Martin was unopposed.

The American Party, an outgrowth of former Alabama Gov. George Wallace's 1968 campaign for president, also chose candidates in three state races.

Returns from 3,247 precincts out of 3,298 gave the following unofficial results in the Democratic column:

Patrick Lucey	171,099.
Donald Peterson	100,045.
Edward Ihlenfeldt	9,746.

Totals in the Republican column were:

Jack Olson	199,396.
Roman R. Blenski	19,063.

In the Democratic race for lieutenant governor, totals were:

Martin J. Schreiber	123,365.
Frank L. Nikolay	51,832.
John F. O'Malley	34,999.
Jay G. Sykes	34,282.
Harry Halloway	16,106.

American Party candidate Leo James Mc Donald of Gays Mills received 2,562 votes for governor, and Theodore G. Kothe, the American Party nominee for lieutenant governor totaled 2,382.

In the November contest for secretary of state it will be Zimmerman against Zimmermann. Robert C. Zimmerman, the long-time officeholder and the endorsed Republican candidate, had no opposition Tuesday but he will face Robert A. Zimmermann of Sheboygan, who defeated Thomas P. Fox of Chilton for the Democratic nomination. Some party leaders had come out for Fox, questioning the Democratic Party credentials of Zimmermann.

Zimmermann, obviously drawing on the popularity of a name that has been one of the best vote-getters in the state, had 164,085 votes to 85,961 for Fox in incomplete returns.

Charles P. Smith of Madison is the Democratic nominee to oppose Republican incumbent Harold Clemens of Oconomowoc for state treasurer. Smith defeated Mrs. Shirley Walker and Rohn F. Webb, both of Milwaukee. The American candidate is George R. Hunt of Waukesha.

Running unopposed for attorney general nomination were Democrat Thomas M. Jacobson of Milwaukee and the incumbent, Republican Robert W. Warren.

With the unofficial returns virtually complete, Lucey had more than 60 per cent of the Democratic vote. Olson collected more than 91 per cent of the Republican ballots cast.

The Nov. 3 contest will be the second confrontation between Lucey and Olson. The two met in 1964, in the race for lieutenant governor, and Lucey won. That defeat is the only losing mark on Olson's record in a decade.

In 1966, Lucey won his party's gubernatorial nomination in a

Lucey's Lifetime Ambition May Ride on November Vote

P-C Madison Bureau

Patrick J. Lucey, inheritor of the political instincts of Celtic ancestors and a force in Wisconsin Democratic politics for more than 20 years, was given what probably will be his last chance to achieve the ambition of his lifetime when Democratic voters chose him as their leader in the campaign for control of the state government in the fall elections.

He will put his numerous skills and reportedly the best-filled campaign chest a Democratic gubernatorial nominee has ever raised into the fight for the governorship against Jack Olson, the Republican Lieutenant governor who also has had a healthy appetite for that highest state political prize for a long time.

The fight will be deadly serious, with no illusions in the minds of either aspirant about the certainty of the outcome, in view of the close elections Wisconsin has had for more than a decade.

More Time

Lucey has probably devoted more time, muscle and money to a political career than any prominent politician not now holding office in Wisconsin.

His contemporaries have long since risen to high place — senators Gaylord Nelson and William Proxmire; federal judges John W. Reynolds, Myron Gordon, and Thomas E. Fairchild; numerous state circuit court judges; three members of the State Supreme Court; ranking federal office holders under recent Democratic national administrations, and others.

In most of the successes of those friends and partisans associates, Lucey had a strong hand as party organizer, as a pragmatist in the indispensable business of money-raising, as advisor and strategist.

Now he will have his turn and he should be realistic enough to be aware that if he loses, he will not have another.

Too Old

If Olson turns back his challenge, the traditional willingness of the electorate to give the state executive a second term will make feasible another opening no earlier than 1978. Then Lucey will be 60 years of age — which is elderly by the precedents of modern Wisconsin politics for statehouse administration.

It is the tradition of politics that men who win contested nominations cheerfully find favorable portents about the final bout in November. But Lucey is thoroughly aware of the perils of assumptions among his loyalists about an easy triumph ahead.

He knows the political behavior of the state intimately and has probably perused election returns more carefully than anyone outside the academic halls of university political science departments.

He remembers that his 1964 defeat of Olson for the lieutenant governorship was due primarily to the debacle in the Republican Party that year which resulted from the Republican nomination of Barry Goldwater for president.

Olson's Vote

He knows that Olson, because he has held the relatively innocuous and inactive No. 2 office at the capital is not especially vulnerable.

At the Democratic state convention a few months ago, moreover, he pointedly reminded local party chiefs that Olson has an impressive record of vote attraction in three of four campaigns for the lieutenant governorship that he won.

As a realist, Lucey also is aware that he has some problems, not all of which are yet clearly shown.

Will the ardent backers of defeated Donald Peterson genuinely support him? Will his identity as a professional politician in Wisconsin terms be damaging? Voters have not responded in the past to the gubernatorial aspirations of candidates who made their reputations chiefly as organization men. Wisconsin may contemplate a vigorous fight, with few odds offered in any wagers.

Cornell Wins, Faces Byrnes

Priest Defeats Jolin by 2-1; Another La Follette in Office?

The Rev. Robert Cornell, seeking to become the first Roman Catholic priest to be elected to Congress in nearly 150 years, won the 8th District Democratic nomination Tuesday by defeating Michael Jolin of rural Shiocton.

Unofficial returns gave Cornell 14,926 votes to 7,176 for Jolin.

At the same time, the La Follette name was back in the political news as a result of a tight Democratic congressional primary in southeastern Wisconsin.

Cornell, 50, an instructor at St. Norbert College, drew nearly half of his vote total from Brown and Outagamie counties. Byrnes, who is seeking his 14th term in Congress, drew 22,017 votes. He was unopposed.

The De Pere priest carried Brown County 4,811 to 1,586 for Jolin. In Outagamie County his margin was 2,459 to 1,705.

His margin was almost evenly split between the City of Appleton and the remainder of the county. Cornell's edge in the city was 1,180 to 834, while in the rest of the county it was 1,279 to 871.

Carries Appleton

Cornell carried all 20 Appleton precincts and all but six of the remaining 37 precincts in the county.

Because of the light vote turnout, particularly in the Democratic primary, no major trends were visible.

However, it was obvious that Cornell was not relying on the predominately Catholic areas of the county for his victory margin. His edge in the Catholic strongholds of Little Chute, Kimberly, Combined Locks and Kaukauna was the same as in the rest of the county.

The six precincts carried by Jolin were the towns of Hortonia, Maple Creek, Maine and Liberty and the villages of Bear Creek and Black Creek. But combined, they only provided him with a 45-vote edge.

Douglas La Follette, a second cousin, three times removed, of the late Sen. Robert (Fighting Bob) La Follette, was given an unofficial victory margin of 22 votes in a four-way Democratic battle for nomination to Congress in southeastern Wisconsin's 1st District.

The informal tally was 15,109 votes for La Follette, 15,087 for Leslie Aspin, a White House economic adviser in the Kennedy administration, 6,233 for former Rep. Gerald T. Flynn and 1,549 for Racine factory worker John Perry Anderson.

Shadeberg Wins

Rep. Henry C. Schadeberg, against whom organized labor has been campaigning, had little competition in the 1st District's Republican primary, winning renomination over Racine car salesman Emil Hess Jr. 16,836-2,641.

Schadeberg and Rep. Clement Zablocki, D-Wis., were the state's only two congressmen who had primary challenges. Zablocki handily turned back his Democratic rival, Donald P. Lass, in Milwaukee County's 4th District, 29,880-5,167 with 93 per cent of precincts tallied.

Aspin, 32, a Marquette University instructor with a doctorate from Massachusetts Institute of Technology, said he would review the 1st District

Nixon Pushing for Railway Wage Settlement

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration pressed today for an 11th hour wage settlement to avert a scheduled nation wide strike of some 500,000 railroad workers one minute after midnight tonight.

"We could have a strike," said Assistant Secretary of Labor W. J. Usery of the dispute between the nation's rail industry and four AFL-CIO unions.

"But they've each said they could postpone it if there is some meaningful progress." Usery said of the union negotiators.

No Progress

He declined to say whether President Nixon would invoke his power under federal labor law to delay any strike for 60 days.

Usery conceded there was no progress in four hours of government sponsored talks Tuesday, but added "that meeting was very worthwhile. I think it cleared the air."

He called both sides back into negotiations today.

But Harold Crotty, president of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employes, said after Tuesday's fruitless talks "We're further apart than when we started."

Retorted chief industry negotiator John P. Hiltz: "No, we couldn't be."

Counter Offer

Hiltz said the unions' demands for three-year wage hikes of 40 per cent or more would bankrupt the industry. The workers now average about $3.50 per hour.

"I'd be putting my name to the liquidation of the railroad industry" by signing such wage agreements, Hiltz snapped.

He declined to say whether the railroads had made a counter offer, but union officials said there had been no industry wage offer.

$2.2 Billion

In addition to Crotty's approximately 100,000 rail maintenance workers, the talks involve approximately 200,000 workers each in the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks headed by C. L. Dennis and the United Transportation Union headed by Charles Luna, and another 2,000 dining car workers represented by Vice President Richard Smith of the Hotel and Restaurant Employes.

"The talks are going nowhere," said Smith, who joined Dennis and Luna in reaffirming the strike deadline at 12:01 a.m. Thursday unless "meaningful" negotiations take place. Crotty has indicated a willingness to postpone the deadline, but also only if there are "meaningful" talks.

Hiltz said the unions' wage demands alone would cost $2.2 billion over three years, compared with what he said was the entire industry's net operating revenue of $600 million in 1969 and only an annual rate of $350 million so far in 1970.

Usery said no decision had been made on whether Nixon would invoke a 60-day strike delay under the National Railway Labor Act in the latest dispute, but added that such a move could be made in a few hours if necessary to prevent a strike.

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, Sept. 9, the 252nd day of 1970. There are 113 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1776, the term "United States" became official by ruling of the Second Continental Congress.

On this date:

In 1830, Charles Durant, known today as the first professional American aeronaut, made a balloon flight from Castle Garden in New York City to Perth Amboy, N.J. It was the first such flight by an American.

In 1850, California was admitted into the Union as the 31st state.

In 1893, for the first time in the history of the United States, a child was born to the First Lady in the White House—Mrs. Grover Cleveland became the mother of a baby girl.

In 1919, Boston police struck and Massachusetts Gov. Calvin Coolidge made history when he ruled they would not be permitted to return to their jobs, saying, "There is no right to strike against the public safety by anybody, anywhere, any time."

In 1926, the National Broadcasting Co. was formed in New York City as a service of Radio Corp. of America.

In 1945, formal surrender of about one million Japanese soldiers in China took place in Nanking.

Ten years ago — The U.N. Security Council rejected what the Western powers viewed as a Soviet attempt to establish a veto power over actions of the Organization of American States.

Five years ago — In the Kashmir dispute between India and Pakistan, two Packistani forces invaded India proper; U.N. Secretary-General U Thant began a two - day conference with Pakistani officials, to be followed by similar talks with Indian officials.

One year ago — An Allegheny Airlines DC9 jet with 82 persons aboard collided with a single-engine plane carrying only the pilot over Shelbyville, Ind. There were no survivors.

Bob Hope Named Top Entertainer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bob Hope has been named "Entertainer of the Year" by the 10,000 members of the American Guild of Variety Artists.

He will be presented with a "Georgie," a golden statuette named for the late entertainer George M. Cohan, on a special Ed Sullivan television show Sept. 20, AGVA president Danny Thomas said Monday.

Jerry Lewis Telethon Tops $5 Million Mark

NEW YORK (AP) — The annual Jerry Lewis Labor Day telethon for the Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America brought a record $5,093.38 in pledged contributions, a spokesman for the group said.

The program, which ended Monday night, was carried by 65 television stations and lasted 20 hours. Last year's telethon, carried by 20 stations, raised $2,039,139.

August 10, 1970

The first regular monthly meeting of the Appleton Board of Education was held in the Board of Education Conference Room on Monday, August 10, 1970. The meeting was called to order by the President, Kenneth Sager, at 7:15 P.M.

The following Board members were present: Messrs. Seger, Buchanan, Stevens. Mrs. McClanahan and Mrs. Danford. Mr. Becker arrived at 8:45 after attending the CESA No. 8 organizational meeting as the Board's delegate. Absent: Mr. Schneider.

Mr. Buchanan moved approval of the minutes of the regular meeting on July 13, 1970, and the special meetings of July 20 and 30, 1970, as circulated. Second by Mrs. Danford and carried.

Communications were read.

Hearing of delegations was called for with Mr. and Mrs. George Springer, 724 North Fair Street, Appleton, responding to request that their son be allowed to attend Wilson Junior High School, which would be nine blocks from their home rather than Roosevelt Junior High School, the attendance area in which they reside, which would be seventeen blocks from their residence. Mr. Zieman, Director of Secondary Education, outlined the reasons for establishing boundaries and indicated that the practice in the past has been to make boundary exceptions only for children who have been certified by a physician or social agency to have psychological or social problems or for children recommended by the school's Social Service Department. Mr. Zieman was asked to make a study of the pupil population in that area to determine whether or not a boundary change should be effected to accommodate this request and, if so, to make this recommendation to the Board.

The Administrative Committee Report was presented and the Board took the following action.

Mr. Buchanan moved that the General Funds Bill List in the amount of $97,354.01, Voucher Nos. 5485 to 5685, inclusive, be approved and certified to the City Clerk for payment. Second by Mrs. McClanahan and carried on roll call vote.

Mr. Buchanan moved that the McKinley Elementary School Building Fund Bill List in the amount of $142.40, Voucher No. 342; Roosevelt Junior High School Addition Building Fund Bill List in the amount of $95,647.25, Voucher Nos. 21 to 26, inclusive; Wilson Junior High School Addition Bill List in the amount of $104,822.64, Voucher Nos. 21 to 27, inclusive and Appleton High School West Addition Building Fund Bill List in the amount of $537.45, Voucher Nos. 8 to 11, inclusive, be approved and certified to the City Clerk for payment. Second by Mrs. McClanahan and carried on roll call vote.

Mr. Buchanan moved that the Appleton Public Schools Operating Statement; Building Fund Statements for Appleton High School East, McKinley and Highlands Elementary Schools, Roosevelt and Wilson Junior High School Additions; Appleton Public Schools Clearing Account and the Annual Financial Report for July 1, 1969 to June 30, 1970, be accepted and placed on file. Second by Mrs. McClanahan and carried.

Mrs. McClanahan moved that the low bid submitted by People's Laundry, Appleton, Wisconsin, in the amount of .05 per pound for laundering bath towels for the 1970-71 school term be accepted; and the lowest bid from five vendors for the delivery Grade A milk in half-pint paper containers for the 1970-71 school term be awarded to Fairmont Foods Company per the low bid of .0549. Second by Mrs. Danford and carried on roll call vote.

Mrs. McClanahan moved acceptance of the low bid by Hietpas, Inc., Little Chute, Wisconsin, for the conversion of two boilers at Franklin School in the amount of $8,580.00 and one boiler in the Morgan Administration Building in the amount of $4,636.00 for a total of $12,800.00 (less discount of $416.00). Second by Mr. Stevens and carried on roll call vote.

Following a discussion on awarding of bids for remodeling and construction of an addition to Appleton High School West, Mr. Buchanan moved to accept the low bids as follows:

General Contract — Lauer Brothers — $919,580.00

Heating and Ventilating — Wenzel Brothers — $251,600.00

Plumbing — Darrott Enterprises — $80,219.00

Electrical — Valley Electric — $238,000.00

However, those portions of the contract related to the gymnasium addition be delayed until the supplementary appropriation of $300,000 from the Fiscal Control Board is made available and that the contracts plus the fees, which the Board is legally responsible for, not exceed $1,500,000.00. Second by Mr. Stevens and carried unanimously on roll call vote.

Mr. Stevens moved that the Board write letters of intent to the contractors listed above indicating the Board's intention to proceed with the project. Seconded by Mrs. Danford and carried.

Sept 9, 1970

Mr. Buchanan moved approval of the change-order from the Hoffman Company, the general contractor, for Roosevelt Junior High School for adding an audio visual storage room to the second floor for an added amount of $312.80. Second by Mrs. McClanahan and carried.

Mr. Stevens moved approval of the following new contracts, leave of absence and resignations.

A. New Contracts for the 1970-71 School Year

The following include Secondary, Class-Step and Salary, respectively:

Richard G. Cary, IV-10, $11,405.33

Dale J. Ihm, IV-1, $8,225.33

Miss Janice H. Koch, I-1, $7,433.33

Mrs. Ann M. Platon (Dean of Girls), $12,500.00

Lee R. Hallberg— Elementary Consultant, $10,400.00

B. Leave of Absence

Keith Quirk — Special Education — Appleton High School East

C. Resignations

Mrs. Mary Jane Grissman, Einstein Junior High School

Dennis D. Johnson, Einstein Junior High School

Miss Marjorie Williams, Appleton High School West

Seconded by Mrs. Danford and carried, on roll call vote.

Mr. Stevens moved adoption of the following schedule of Board of Education meetings to study the Appleton Public Schools 1971 operating budget.

August 17 — General and High Schools

August 24 — Junior High Schools

August 31 — Elementary

Seconded by Mrs. Danford and carried.

Mrs. McClanahan, Chairman of the Superintendent Selection Committee, reported that her committee had interviewed members of the Appleton Public Schools staff who had expressed an interest in the position, however, the committee also feels that they should seek applications from this state and surrounding states before making a final selection

Mrs. McClanahan then moved that Mr. Orlyn A. Zieman, Director of Secondary Education, be appointed acting Superintendent of Schools effective immediately until appointment of a permanent official. This appointment includes an additional $100 per month salary plus the car allowance attached to the Superintendent's position ($60 per month). Second by Mr. Stevens and carried on roll call vote.

Mrs. McClanahan moved that James Dickson & Associates be retained by the Board of Education to continue their study, begun in the summer of 1969, of the administrative staff structure in the Appleton Public Schools in an amount not to exceed $7,000 with a final report by Mr. Dickson before December 15, 1970. Second by Mr. Buchanan and carried on roll call vote. Mrs. McClanahan indicated that funds for this study would come from the unexpended superintendent's salary account.

Mr. Buchanan, Chairman of the School Building and Site Selection Committee, presented the five-year capital improvement program (1970-1975) which was made based on a review of enrollments, census information, classroom capacities and population trends. The plan showed a projected need for an elementary school on the Menning site to be opened in 1972. A central elementary school to open in 1975 and an elementary school on the Colony Oaks site to open in 1976 with the possibility that should population trends dictate, the needs for a central city school might be met by an addition to Franklin School and the need for a Colony Oaks School might be met by an addition to Johnston School. Mr. Buchanan moved acceptance of the five-year plan. Second by Mrs. McClanahan and carried. The plan and exhibits will be forwarded to Mr. Jack Hetu, Director of the City Department of Planning and Development, as well as on file in the administrative offices.

New Business.

Mr. Becker moved that a fee schedule for use of Appleton Public Schools be sent in writing to the City Recreation Department (Mr Koehnke) prior to September 1 to allow him time to prepare his budget for submission to Common Council. Second by Mr. Buchanan and carried.

Mr. Seger requested that the Board hold an executive session to discuss a personnel matter and the status of negotiations with the Appleton Public Schools Custodial and Maintenance Union Local 73.

Mr. Buchanan moved that the Board resolve into Executive Session, second by Mrs. McClanahan and carried.

A motion was made by Mr. Stevens to reconvene the regular business session. Second by Mrs. Danford and carried.

Mr Stevens moved adjournment. Motion seconded by Mrs. Danford and carried

The second regular monthly meeting of the Appleton Board of Education was held in the Board of Education Conference Room on Monday, August 24, 1970. The meeting was called to order by the President, Kenneth Sager, at 7:15 P.M.

All Board members were present.

Mrs. McClanahan moved approval of the minutes of the Board meeting held on August 10, 1970, as circulated. Second by Mr. Stevens and carried.

Hearing of delegations was called for with John Hennessy and Donald Hawkins, responding to request that baseball be included as an extra curricular sport at the high school level effective with the 1970-71 school year. They also presented a study on the available baseball diamonds, participants and spectators as well as a cost estimate if included in the schools' budget. The matter was referred to the administrator for study and report to the Board.

The report by the Acting Superintendent of Schools was presented and the Board took the following action.

Mr. Schneider moved approval of the low bid for bleachers, backstops and power winch for Roosevelt and Wilson Junior High Schools from the Medart Company, Chicago, Illinois, as follows:

Roosevelt Junior High School

Bleachers — $4,933.00

Backstops — $2,825.00

Electric Winch — $100.00

Wilson Junior High School

Bleachers — $4,933.00

Backstops — $2,825.00

Electric Winch — $100.00

Second by Mr. Stevens and carried on roll call vote.

Mr. Stevens moved approval of the following new contracts and resignations.

A. New Contracts for 1970-71 School Year

Secondary — Class-Step	Salary
Thomas Phillips, I 1	$7,433.33
Julia E. Forner, I 5	$8,622.67
Mrs. Jeneane Biegel, I 5 (4-5 time)	$6,898 13

B. Resignations

Mrs. Paula Segert — Highlands School

Mrs. Carol Gibson — Jefferson School

Second by Mr. Schneider and carried on roll call vote.

Mr. Zieman informed the Board that the contract between Sauter, Seaborne, Paynter and Duszak Architects, Ltd. and the Board of Education had been properly signed by officials to begin drawing plans for an elementary school on the Menning site.

Mr. Schneider moved approval of the request by the administration to employ a well driller to drill a new well and install a new pump, if necessary, at Twin Willows Elementary School as soon as possible. The existing well does not supply a sufficient amount of water and the location needed to be changed to meet state sanitary codes. The approximate cost would be $3,000. Second by Mr. Becker and carried on roll call vote.

The boundary exception requested by Mr. and Mrs. George Springer, 724 North Fair Street, at the last Board meeting was taken up at this time. Mr. Zieman reported that following a study of the area recommended for a boundary change (a three block street one block east of Richmond Street) which would involve about ten families having children enrolled in Wilson Junior High School rather than Roosevelt Junior High School the present attendance area, it would be his recommendation to deny the boundary change request.

Mrs. Danford moved to change the boundary between Wilson Junior High School and Roosevelt Junior High School to include Fair Street in the Wilson attendance area. Motion lost for lack of a second.

The Board proceeded in its business to review the first draft of the 1971 budget for Appleton High Schools. Appleton High School West was reviewed first and questions on various figures were directed to Mr. Knuth, Mr. Zieman and the principals. The Board took no action on the high school budgets and will continue to review them until the balance of the operating budget has been submitted.

Mr. Schneider moved that the Board resolve into Executive Session, seconded by Mrs. McClanahan and carried.

A motion was made by Mr. Schneider to reconvene the regular business session. Second by Mr. Buchanan and carried.

Mr. Schneider moved adjournment. Motion seconded by Mr. Buchanan and carried.

CHEVY'S NEW LITTLE CAR IS OPEN FOR BUSINESS.

We call it Vega.

We also call it "the little car that does everything well."

Because it does.

Everything? Everything.

Vega moves well, stops well, steers well, rides well, handles well, responds well, passes well, travels well, parks well, wears well, and is priced well under what you'd expect to pay for such a talented little car.

In our highway tests, Vega has been getting gas mileage in the neighborhood of the little imports, which isn't a bad neighborhood.

Yet unlike your average little car, ours steps right out when you step on the gas.

The engine is a specially designed overhead cam four with a lightweight aluminum alloy block. It turns slowly and quietly at turnpike speeds, with power to spare.

Disc brakes are standard in the front. So are bucket seats, except on the truck.

How we doing so far?

Numbers speak louder than words.

The wheelbase is 97 inches.

Total length is just under 170 inches, or nearly four feet shorter than a full-size Chevrolet.

Height of the coupe is just 50 inches, nine inches lower than the leading import.

Width: a nice stable 5½ feet.

Weight: 2,190 lbs. for the sedan.

Engine displacement: 140 cubic inches.

Fuel economy: about 25 mpg, with the standard engine and transmission, in our highway tests.

Horsepower: 90. You can order 110. (80 and 93 hp, SAE Net.)

It all adds up to a lot of little car.

Three cars and a truck.

Vega turned out so well that we couldn't turn out just one.

So we're turning out four: the sporty little hatchback coupe shown open and closed in the foreground below; the sedan, on the right; the Kammback wagon, on the left; and the little panel truck, in the rear.

Oh, and a special GT version of the coupe and wagon which we'll show you later on.

September 10th is Opening Day.

All 6,300 Chevrolet dealers are handling Vega, so you shouldn't have to go very far to see and drive one.

Chevy's new little car is open for business.

Look into it.

Police & Fire Beat

A 21-year-old Appleton man was given until this afternoon in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 Tuesday to consult with an attorney on a theft charge. James Palmer, 303 E. South River St., appeared before County Judge Nick F. Schaefer and was found indigent. Attorney Frederick E. Froelich was appointed at county expense.

County investigators charge that Palmer took a $265 minibike Aug. 25 from the garage of Harvey Doering, route 4, Kaukauna. Schaefer set bond at $1,500.

A bench warrant will be issued for a 30-year-old Appleton woman who failed to appear in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 Tuesday.

Jean Verhoven, 603 S. Memorial Drive, previously appeared in court on three counts of issuing worthless checks, and was released on a $100 signature bond. She was to have made a reappearance Tuesday with an appointed attorney.

Authorities charge that she issued three worthless checks July 24, 25 and 30 at Damrow's Restaurant, 121 E. College Ave., totaling $40.

Mazelle Maffitt, 39, 620 E. Harding St., pleaded innocent Tuesday in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 to a charge of disorderly conduct. She will have a Sept. 21 trial before County Judge Gustave J. Keller. Bail was set at $50.

Appleton police say she used obscenities to a waitress at a W. College Avenue restaurant Sept. 4.

Sally Ann Rupp, 24, 106½ S. State St., pleaded innocent Tuesday to charges of shoplifting and theft by fraud and will have a trial on those counts. Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer continued the case to Tuesday, to see if her attorney requests a jury trial.

She is charged with taking a package of cigarettes from the Piggly Wiggly store, 420 S. Outagamie St., on Aug. 26. Theft by fraud counts were brought in connection with incidents on Aug. 16 and 22 at the same store, when she allegedly obtained a refund for beef roast and ham which she hadn't paid for.

A fine of $25 and costs was levied Tuesday against a 19-year-old rural Appleton youth found guilty of a disorderly conduct charge by Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller. Vilas Matusak, route 2, reportedly fought with another youth on a school bus in the Town of Center last April 24.

A 17-year-old Appleton motorcyclist was taken home Monday night after he received right arm injuries in an accident on Ballard Road near Wisconsin Avenue.

Appleton police said that Frank P. Potter, 716 S. Bluemound Drive, had turned from Wisconsin onto Ballard, headed north, when he lost control of his cycle.

Appleton police learned late Tuesday afternoon that a porcelain sculpture, valued at $210, is missing from the Treasure Box Gift Shop, 313 E. College Ave.

KIMBERLY — Village police have taken into custody five juveniles, ages 15 to 17, from Kimberly and Appleton, who have admitted an Aug. 6 burglary at Jerry's Lanes in which $137 in cash and one case of liquor were stolen.

Entry was gained by forcing open a rear door. Some of the boys were held in juvenile detention over the weekend. All will be charged with burglary in Juvenile Court, according to Police Chief Donald Schmeck.

KIMBERLY — Cars driven by Joseph Van Hout Jr., 18, of 445 S. Railroad St., and Anton Kerkhof, 31, of 839 E. John St., collided on W. Kimberly Avenue at 1:30 a.m. Saturday.

The Kerkhof auto left the road and struck the home of Edward Baumgarten, 203 S. Wilbur St. Kerkhof reportedly left the scene and was cited by police for failure to report an accident.

KIMBERLY — Donald J. Vanden Wyngaard, 20, of 312 N. Ann St., was cited for inattentive driving after the car he was driving left the road and hit a fire hydrant as he turned from Oak Street unto Pine Street about 8 p.m. Monday.

KIMBERLY — Frank LeNoble, 57, of 1209 W. Fourth St., received cuts on his head and leg, and Giles Mennen, 50, of 115 W. Third St., received a cut on his hand when their cars collided at S. Ann and W. Third Streets at 11 a.m. Monday.

Damage to the cars was estimated at $800. Mennen was cited for inattentive driving.

KAUKAUNA — Mrs. Phil Haas, 312 W. Ninth St., reported the theft of a portable TV set and three radios, valued at over $200, from the family's home over the weekend.

Entry was gained through an upstairs window.

KAUKAUNA — Firemen extinguished a fire in a swampy area at the end of Walter Street near Victor Haen School about 9:35 p.m. Monday.

HORTONVILLE — Two persons were injured Saturday afternoon about two miles west of here on U. S. 45 when the motorcycle they were on tipped over after going out of control.

Outagamie County traffic officers said that the cycle, driven by Charles D. Otis, 18, route 1, New London, was going south and attempting to make a right turn onto County Trunk T when he lost control on loose gravel.

Otis received injuries not listed on a report, while his passenger, Kathleen Otis, 20, Milwaukee, had cuts and bruises.

Judge Delays Whitewater Faculty Ruling

MADISON (AP) — Federal Judge James A. Doyle Tuesday delayed ruling on a motion by the state attorney general's office to quash contempt proceedings against Whitewater State University officials.

Doyle said he would decide in "the next few days" whether to continue an action brought by four English professors at the Walworth County school who allege they have not been reinstated to full faculty status.

Doyle has ordered the four placed back on the faculty after school officials had suspended them following student demonstrations in March.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Charles Bleck argued in court that the contempt proceedings should be discontinued because the four had been given research positions at the school for the coming fall term.

Percy Julian of Madison, attorney for the professors, said that the Whitewater action was "a startling picture of the way the court's order had been circumvented in letter and spirit."

Whitewater officials violated the reinstatement order by not returning the professors to full-time teaching duties, Julian claimed.

Damage Is Heavy In 3-Car Crash On Access Ramp

OSHKOSH — One man received minor injuries and three cars received a total $1,700 damage in a three-car accident Tuesday afternoon on a U. S. 41 access ramp just north of Neenah.

Alvin H. Cummins, 49, of 2622 Heather Ave., Appleton, was advised by police to see a doctor for pains in his left arm, chest and right knee.

Sheriff's deputies said a car driven by Robert J. Hooyman, 42, route 6, Appleton, was headed up the northbound access ramp of State 114 onto U. S. 41, when he was forced to brake because both northbound lanes were filled with traffic.

The Cummins auto hit the Hooyman auto from the rear and another car driven by Jack E. Kotowski, 28, of 45 Capitol Drive, Appleton, could not stop and hit the Cummins car.

All of the men were alone in their cars. Police said the Cummins auto received about $800 damage, the Kitowski auto about $500 damage and the Hooyman auto about $400 damage.

Green Bay Site Of Auto Worker Contract Talks

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The next negotiation session between the United Auto Workers and American Motors will be in Green Bay, probably after the union negotiates a settlement with either General Motors or Chrysler, an AMC spokesman said Tuesday.

Green Bay was picked as a compromise site said AMC vice president and chief company negotiator Frank G. Armstrong.

American Motors, the nation's fourth-largest automaker, has headquarters in Detroit and plants in Milwaukee and Kenosha. Until last year, bargaining talks traditionally were held in Detroit.

Last year, they were held in Racine.

The first session this year was held in Detroit and company officials proposed all talks be held there. But the union objected and locals in Milwaukee and Kenosha couldn't agree to holding talks in either city.

Although no reason was given for the choice of a site, it was hinted that Packer football, which opens Sept. 20 with Detroit invading Green Bay, might be one reason.

Assembly Committee Proposes Moratorium On State Building

MADISON (AP)—A resolution proposing a moratorium on all but essential state building has been drafted by the Assembly State Affairs Committee and will be heard at the panel's Sept. 16 meeting.

Impetus for the resolution began last month when lawmakers became disturbed at reports of vacant buildings at the University of Wisconsin and State University campuses because of lower than anticipated enrollments.

Under the proposal, the moratorium would be in effect until a report on state construction procedures is completed, present "academic strife" is resolved, and future needs of the public can be determined.

Beer Bar License Renewal Denied

On the strength of police reports of past law violations, the Welfare and Ordinance Committee Tuesday recommended City Council denial of applications for three licenses for a downtown beer bar.

The committee acted after reviewing a report from Police Chief Earl O. Wolff based on routine investigation of Gerald J. Gaulke and the Appleton Beer Bar, 835 W. College Ave., which he operates.

Gaulke had applied to renew his beer bar license and for mechanical amusement device and dance licenses. The committee denied the beer license and agreed the other two would be of little use without the first, so they were denied, too.

Police Checking Fight At Lutheran High Field

Investigation is continuing today into a reported fight at the Fox Valley Lutheran High School Athletic Field, which sent a 16-year-old south side boy to Appleton Memorial Hospital with a concussion, possible broken nose and multiple cuts and bruises.

A witness at the scene told Appleton police that a 17-year-old Freedom youth kicked and hit Rodney S. Gardinier, 16, 1900 S. Lawe St., after the two apparently engaged in a disagreement over their high schools.

The Freedom youth reportedly had spoken obscenities to a coach on the athletic field before the fight, and had been asked to leave.

Advisory Job Bid Declined By Anderson

KAUKAUNA — Mayor Gilbert Anderson has reported that he will decline an invitation to serve as a member of an advisory group to aid regional councils.

Anderson was asked by Thomas Bradley, president of the National Service to Regional Councils to serve on a task force on "regional council organization and operation."

He said he would not be able to accept the position because of time requirements.

The purpose of the task force, according to Bradley, would be to set goals for regional council development and would involve about six to nine months of work. Participants would be from Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio, and Wisconsin, with the first meetings in Detroit, Mich., Nov. 5 and 6.

Youth Charged With Having Stolen Guns

An 18-year-old youth appeared in Outagamie County Court Tuesday morning on a charge of concealing stolen property. Detectives arrested him Sunday night.

The case of Thomas James Kilsdonk, 1440 Applecreek Road, was delayed to this afternoon to allow him time to consult with a lawyer. Kilsdonk is held in the Outagamie County jail on $1,500 bond.

Three weapons — a 30.06 rifle, 12 gauge shotgun and .22 caliber rifle — belonging to Ronald Lueck, of 608 N. Division St., were reported stolen last Thursday night. He had told police that the weapons probably were taken while he was out during the evening.

Detectives went to the apartment, and on a tip from a watchman there, discovered the guns in the basement.

Authorities said Tuesday morning that they are seeking, on a warrant, another man believed to have taken part in the crime. They said they also believe that a third man may have been involved.
